2nd Sausalito Fire Linked To Break-In

Heirlooms Missing After Flames Doused In House

Fire broke out and a burglary was uncovered at the home of Robert L. Spiegl and R. John Hutchings at 156 Harrison street, Sausalito, at 4:35 p.m. yesterday—just 16 hours after a fire and burglary at Bauman Brothers and Dick Miller Associates shop at Sausalito yacht harbor.

Spiegl said today that at least $2,000 worth of heirlooms belonging to Dr. Hutchings were burned in the fire. He estimated that about $500 worth of personal items were stolen. These included such things as a portable typewriter, camera, overnight bag, binoculars and a clock radio.

There was also, Spiegl said, smoke damage to the basement storeroom where the fire took place, as well as loss in family books and papers belonging to Dr. Hutchings.

ARSON PROBE

Fire Chief Mathew J. (Matts) Perry said it looked as if someone had entered the home, gone upstairs to pick up some articles out of Spiegl's bedroom, taken the articles and, then upon leaving, dropped a match or a cigarette into the books in the basement storeroom. He said an arson investigation was under way today.

"We're going to comb the neighborhood," Perry said.

Police Chief Howard Goerndt said his department also has started an investigation. On an initial investigation, he said, it was hard to tell whether a forced entry was made since firemen had to break a door to get in to fight the fire in what is called the old Shoobert house. (The home was once owned by Fanny Shoobert, who now lives in San Anselmo.)

DISCOVERS FIRE

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Tom Mathews of 148 Harrison street at about 4:30 p.m.

"It was lucky the neighbor next door spotted the smoke," Perry said, "or there wouldn't be anything left of the house." There was no one home at the time.

Perry said there was nothing highly inflammable, such as paint cans or oil rags, in the storeroom.

Spiegl, an employee of Schwabacher-Frey Co., San Francisco stationers, said many of the items destroyed were "personal property very hard to be evaluated in money."

The firemen had the fire under control in 10 minutes.

Chief Goerndt said today that "we are sure that it was burglary at the Bauman Brothers and Dick Miller Associates shop at the yacht harbor, but we don't know if the fire was set to cover up for it."

The fire, which was estimated to have caused $45,000 in damage, broke out early yes-

DONALD D. LEISTER

Ross Trustees Select New Schools Chief

Ross School Board members last night chose a new superintendent for the district: Donald D. Leister, 29, now principal of a school in San Jose.

He will replace Stephen Parodi, who will move to the San Anselmo School District as superintendent on July 1.

Leister now is principal of Jefferson School in the San Jose Unified School District. He has been with the district for six years and has been principal for three years.

Leister and his wife, Shirley, have three young sons.

He is a graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara, received his master's degree from San Jose State College, and took further graduate work at Stanford University.

He served with the 11th Airborne Division in Japan from 1946 to '48, and in Korea in 1950-'51.

Leister was chosen by the board from more than 70 candidates. Final selection was made from five candidates whom the board chose for interviews.

Parodi has been superintendent for eight years. Previously he was principal of Park School in Mill Valley.

De Gaulle To Visit Here Tomorrow On Bay Tour

French President Charles de Gaulle will be a brief Marin County visitor tomorrow afternoon.

After receiving a gay and tumultuous spring-day greeting with ticker tape in New York this morning after his second trans-Atlantic arrival—the first was in 1945 when he came as provisional president at the war's end—he will fly into San Francisco International Airport at 11:50 a.m. tomorrow aboard an Air Force jet from Washington.

San Francisco hopes to provide even more ticker tape and all-around fun during de will include a crowded sched-Gaulle's two-day stay, which will include a crowded schedule of receptions, interviews and tours.

Plans include a bay tour from Sausalito starting about 4 p.m. tomorrow.

He will drive across the Golden Gate Bridge to the Army Engineers' dock, board a Coast Guard vessel and see Marin's green hills from the water—along with such other details as San Francisco, Alcatraz and Angel Islands and the East Bay.

Just how visibility will be is still uncertain with slightly discouraging word of a small storm due to bring intermittent rain tomorrow.

In Manhattan, greetings included playing of the Marsellaise by chimes of famed Old Trinity Church, while the 6-feet-4 de Gaulle stood in an open limousine and beamed on the crowds in spring sunshine.

San Francisco will provide an out-sized bed eight feet long at the Mark Hopkins Hotel where Gov. Edmund G. Brown will visit the sumptuous suite tomorrow afternoon before the Sausalito trip.

WEATHER MAN SAYS RAINS TO CONTINUE

Light rain began falling in Marin before noon today, and the Weather Man predicted more of the same intermittently through tomorrow.

The showers were brought by a small storm curving in from the sea, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

The forecaster said the snow line in the mountains would be at about 5,000 feet.

Small craft warnings were flying on the coast for southerly winds of 23 and 34 m.p.h. and fresh southeast winds were predicted for the high mountains and inland valleys.

Brown Claims He's Unable To Save Chessman

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown today all but ruled out executive clemency that would save Caryl Chessman from execution next Monday.

"I am constitutionally now prohibited from extending clemency," he said.

Brown said he's still convinced that Chessman is guilty of the kidnap-robbery-sex charges which brought the death sentence 12 years ago.

Some material has been presented to him this week through clemency secretary Cecil Poole, he said. But he said that he finds it contains nothing to change his conviction as to Chessman's guilt.

The governor, described by Chessman's attorneys as the prisoner's last hope, read to newsmen a section of the state constitution which says:

"Neither the governor nor the legislature shall have power to grant pardons, or commutation of sentence, in any case where the convict has been twice convicted of a felony, unless upon written recommendation of a majority of the judges of the Supreme Court."

Brown noted that Chessman had eight prior felonies; that the court twice refused to recommend clemency.

"Under any reasonable concept of what is intended by the Constitution, I am powerless," he said. (See story on Chessman on page 6.)

Neglected Baby Moved To Hospital

An eight-month-old San Rafael boy, ill, bruised and neglected in his squalid quarters, enjoyed his new "home" at San Rafael General Hospital today in a clean crib.

Little Guy Fields, son of Richard and Diana N. Fields of 922 B street, was taken from his makeshift, arm-chair bed last night after complaints from neighbors.

The case came to the attention of police about 7 p.m. when a neighbor called to report that the baby was being neglected.

Johnnie C. Howe, about 29, of 922 B street, told Officer Leland Ahern that Mrs. Fields had asked him to care for the baby yesterday morning but had not been home all day. Howe said he heard that the mother was at a Fourth street bar.

Police said the child had large bruise marks on both sides of his face, is suffering from an ear infection and has a chest congestion. The infant was bathed and cleaned at the neighboring apartment of Mrs. Marie Jewel Van Winkle, then admitted to the hospital.

Officers said the Fields apartment was a mess, with beer bottles and dirty linen and bedding strewn about. The child had been placed in a large arm chair pushed against the wall to form a makeshift bed, the officers reported.

Officer Earl Christensen said he received a telephone call this morning from Mrs. Fields, who wanted to know where her baby was. The officer referred her to the probation office,

Rhee's Resignation Expected As Rebellion Topples Regime

KOREANS SPARE U. S. FLAG—Student demonstrators in Seoul, South Korea, yesterday pillaged the home of Lee Ki-Poong, controversial vice president-elect, but spared a U. S. flag at the scene. Political Aides Join In Demands He Quit

SEOUL, South Korea (Wednesday) (UPI)—President Syngman Rhee's forces crumbled before a historic unarmed rebellion today. Expectations mounted he would step down from power at any minute and submit his and Korea's future to a new election.

Rhee captiulated yesterday (Tuesday) to his outraged populace and promised to quit "if the people desire" but this was not enough and new riots erupted throughout Korea. A mob of 100,000 laid siege to the barricaded presidential palace and shouted for Rhee's resignation.

Rhee's whole regime appeared crumbling. His once trusted lieutenants deserted him in the National Assembly and joined in demands he quit. His police, who killed at least 158 persons in a week of rioting, fled their posts. His ambassador to Washington quit under fire.

RED MOVE FEARED

And there were fears of some overt Communist move to take advantage of the uprising.

In Washington, the United States summoned its Korean war allies to an extraordinary session to discuss the possibility of a new Communist attack.

The State Department also issued a statement calling for "adequate measures to redress grievances of the people." It took note of Rhee's declaration "that he is prepared to resign."

Students who led the demonstrations threatened new rioting today unless Rhee leaves office and calls new elections. Police fired into their midst yesterday and killed 23 persons, bringing to 158 the number killed in a week of violence.

JOIN STUDENTS

The army, which had supported Rhee without firing on the students, began fraternizing today with the rebels. They joined hands in policing the capital city, which was quiet during the early morning but still under martial law and tense.

Today was one of the darkest in the career of Rhee, who was reported to have left his presidential palace while he made up his mind whether to quit at once or to hold onto power.

The only out appeared for him to resign, call new presidential elections and then run again for the presidency. Some of the student demonstrators said they would vote for him—that their protests were not against Rhee the man but against the graft and corruption in his government.

It was one of history's greatest unarmed revolutions and all indications were it had won.

U.S. Summons Korean War Allies To Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today called for early action by Korean President Syngman Rhee to "redress the grievances of the Korean people."

It also summoned its Korean war allies into an extraordinary session to discuss the possibility of a Communist attack against troubled Southern Korea.

15 NATIONS

State Department press officer Lincoln White said representatives here of the 15 nations which fought under the United Nations banner in Korea had been summoned to a session at the State Department "to discuss the situation in Korea," including its military implications.

Other officials said the 16 countries would talk about danger that Communist forces in North Korea might be tempted to intervene again in the south because of the political chaos there.

READY TO RESIGN

White, noting that Rhee has "indicated that he is prepared to resign" and "has promised to hold new elections, said:

"We are naturally following these developments closely in the hope that adequate measures will be taken to redress grievances of the people. Latest press reports from Seoul, however, indicate that demonstrations against the government are continuing."

White added under questioning that the United States was hoping for quick action by Rhee. But he declined to elaborate on the "adequate measures" it wants him to take.

Court Action Considered In Expense Case

San Anselmo School District trustees may institute court action in an attempt to force payment of travel expenses of three superintendent candidates from public funds.

Trustees Philip S. Bundschu and Robert W. Corlett said today the possibility will be discussed. The board's next regular meeting will be May 9.

County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis, whose office handles payment of San Anselmo district accounts against warrants issued by the school board, has refused to issue warrants for payment of the superintendent candidates' expenses on the basis of an opinion by the county counsel that such payment was illegal. The attorney general last week rendered a similar opinion.

The amount at issue is $549.62. It is for expenses of a candidate from Florida, one from Wisconsin and one from Southern California seeking the San Anselmo superintendency for which Stephen L. Parodi of Belvedere, Ross School superintendent, was subsequently hired.

The warrants call for payment of $485.62 to Orrick Travel Bureau and $63.87 to the Edgewater Inn.

The five members of the San Anselmo School District board today joined in a statement outlining their reasons for agreeing to pay expenses of the candidates.

The board pointed out that 79 applicants for the job were screened down to five. Of these five, two were in Marin County. The statement continued:

"The question naturally arose at this point whether the board should go to see the candidates where they were or to have the candidates come to

Korea Envoy Bows To Threat, Quits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—South Korea's ambassador resigned today shortly after anti-Rhee elements in Washington's Korean colony threatened to seize the embassy with the aid of Korean military trainees here.

Ambassador You Chang Yang acknowledged that he received a 24-hour ultimatum to quit or be ousted. It came from Koh Byong-Choll, a long-time leader here of forces opposing Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Yang said, however, that he had decided independently to resign, because he had found he was wrong in believing that the wave of anti-government rioting in South Korea was Communist-instigated.

"It seems that I have made mistakes," he said. "Therefore, I am submitting my resignation to the government. I am sending a telegram to the acting foreign minister, Mr. Huh Chung."

Koh said he made his threat to oust Yang with the support of Korean students and residents in Washington as well as of Korean troops undergoing special training here.

Among the Korean troops in the Washington area of 39 army men, 37 of them officers, attending the U. S. Army Engineers School at nearby Ft. Belvoir, Va., and several military doctors at service medical centers.

Koh is a Washington businessman and close friend of John M. Chang, leader of the opposition Democratic party in Korea.

"I told the ambassador that if he didn't resign today, we would move in and take over the embassy," Koh said.

"We had planned to (act) this morning, but we postponed action because of President Rhee's statement last night" offering to permit new elections.

Koh said the ambassador "retracted his charges of Communist instigation of the demontrations and promised to resign."

Yang confirmed this account of the conversation.

County Loses Huge Sum On Warrants

Six thousand warrants against Marin Municipal Court defendants have remained unserved within the past 10 years, representing potential payments of $90,000 to $120,000.

Leon A de Lisle, county auditor-controller, handed this news to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today and was promptly given permission to do something about it.

What deLisle proposed to do—and was unanimously supported on motion of Supervisor William D. Fusselman—was to use his data processing machinery to compile a master list in alphabetical order so that cities and counties can quickly see the location of defaulters.

"Enforcement is falling down," said deLisle. "Our judges are shocked . . I have the complete support of our three municipal judges."

De Lisle said his list of 6,000

For Better Education

Newcomers To State Amazed At Multiplicity Of School Districts

(This is the second of a series of articles on Marin County's school district setup and possibilities for revamping it.)

By DONALD G. DAVIS

There are 29 school districts in Marin. There is one junior college district. There are high school districts and elementary districts. Only one — Novato—is unified.

Some of them are called union districts, some have the word "joint" in their names.

Newcomers to California are mystified. Many of them come from states where one superintendent and one school board operate a school system like that in Novato composed of kindergarten through grade 12. The only way such a system can be achieved in California is through unification. A unified system even can include a junior college.

A school district is a kind of municipality. The governing board of a school district sets up and adopts budgets and collects taxes or has some other agency collect for it. The boards are made up of people who are elected on the public ballot And they set the policy under which a district is to operate, and hire and fire personnel from administrators to janitors.

When two like districts join, the resultant district is called a union district. If a single district takes in areas in two or more counties it is a joint district. A number of elementary districts, for example, could join together and become a union elementary school district. Also they could be brought together to form a union high school district, as is the case of the Tamalpais Union High School District.

The Tamalpais Union High School District has within its boundaries 12 elementary school districts. If these districts were eliminated, their boards wiped out, and the whole district placed under one board and administration, it would be a unified district.

Unified districts also can be formed, as was Novato, from an elementary district. Such a district then must erect a high school and offer high school courses.

But if the Fairfax and San Anselmo districts, for instance, were to unify, the one new district might take over Sir Frances Drake High School and would no longer be part of Tamalpais Union High School District.

In California, there also are city school districts. The only one in Marin is in San Rafael. Actually there are a San Rafael High School District and a San Rafael Elementary School District, governed by one board.

FEEDING TIME FOR BABY SEAL

HERKIMER, an orphaned baby seal, patiently awaits breakfast at the Marin County Humane Society. Mel L. Morse, secretary-manager prepares formula of ground fish, canned milk and vitamins. The seal, about a week old, was being buffeted by waves at Duxbury Reef near Bolinas yesterday, apparently helpless. A dead sea lion had been floating in the area, and Leo J. Leoni, Bolinas fisherman, decided the baby seal's mother was dead. He took the seal to Mrs. Evelyn Sharon of Bolinas, who called the Humane Society. Normally, baby seals should not be touched or picked up, Morse said. Mothers leave the young in the sand and always come back for them. (Independent-Journal photo)

29 Automonous Districts In Marin Set School Policies

There are two budgets, and the high school and elementary districts are not coterminous. The high school district also includes two other elementary districts—Dixie and San Quentin—that are governed by their own boards. If Dixie and San Quentin were to unify with San Rafael, the city district would become a unified district.

So Marin has a cross-hatch of school districts. The newcomer to California, accustomed to his own state's county system, wonders how it all started, and why it stays that way.

The state Department of Education is pushing unification wherever it can, and one high official of that department recently said in Marin, "In two years 65 per cent of the students in the state will attend schools in unified districts."

That means that populous areas, big cities, will vote for unification. But many of the large sparsely populated areas may stick to small, locally governed, grass-roots school systems.

California's school districts resemble somewhat those of early New England. Public education in the early days was largely confined to elementary education. Anyone who wanted to go beyond the eighth grade went to a private school. Public high schools came later.

Elementary districts already had been formed. When high schools were built, new districts were created to operate them. Later, junior college districts were formed, and again with their own boards of trustees and budgets and courses of study.

So that is why in Marin's various school systems, there are some districts with boards of trustees responsible for the education of youngsters from kindergarten through the eighth grade, and other districts and boards responsible for education of ninth through twelfth grades.

There is still another set for freshmen and sophomores at the junior college level. Public education beyond that point is governed either by the state, as in the state colleges, or by the regents of the University of California.

Why, one might ask, is this situation allowed to exist? Would it not save a lot of money if there was unification? Would not unification provide for a better education program? The questions are not easily answered, and in their answering there arise several points of view.

PLANNERS' FIRST ACTION

Restaurant Addition Approved In Novato

In its first official business meeting, the Novato Planning Commission last night approved construction of a second story addition to Cloud Five restaurant at 1009 First street.

Plans submitted by developer Louis Nave were approved as in keeping with the existing building, but must be carried out under architectural supervision. The addition would house a banquet room and rest rooms, Nave said.

The banquet room was approved by the county planning commission on April 16, 1957, but had never been constructed, the city planners were told by B. D. Dobbs, chief planner with the county planning staff, who is acting as adviser to the city commission until June 30.

PERMIT ASKED

An application by Robert Strockbine for a use permit for construction of a nursery and temporary office building at the corner of Atherton avenue and Highway 101 was approved pending approval of plans showing adequate parking space and a lathed structure Strockbine intends to build.

Although Dobbs said he believed the North Marin master plan and the state Division of Highways both indicate an interchange structure at the site of the nursery, there are no precise plans available

Because of the possibility of eventual state purchase, the state will be notified of the temporary use permit.

A request by Kaehler Construction Co. for a permanent sign at the entrance to Forest Park subdivision was continued until May 9 pending submission of a more complete design of the proposed sign.

AMENDMENT VOTED

Approval of an amendment to the plans of the Northland Shopping Center on South Novato blvd. near Rowland avenue to permit inclusion of a medical-dental building was approved with the following three conditions:

1. That no building permit be issued until the architectural supervisor approve development plans for construction and improvements.

2. That access to the site is achieved through Rowland avenue after it is sufficiently developed.

3. That either the entire property remain under one owner or it be divided into two parcels with a 20-foot easement recorded against each so Rowland avenue access may be extended.

Applying for the plan alteration for construction of the building was Larry Witter and Associates.

The commissioners set for May 23 a public hearing on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance which would allow the east side of Railroad avenue between Cherry and Peach streets to be zoned general commercial. Petitioners Ravetz and Rowland plan a trailer court there.

Also continued to May 23 was an application to amend the zoning ordinance so property on the west side of First street between Grant and Olive avenues would be zoned general commercial.

The planners put the matter over pending further study of the North Marin master plan in regard to the downtown section of the city.

Also put over for further study was an application by Mrs. Elna Bach that a beauty parlor be ruled a legitimate home occupation in a residential zone. The present ordinance does not permit operation of a beauty shop but allows occupations including architects, writers, musicians, hand craftsmen, etc., to operate in a residential area.

The commission adjourned until May 2 at 8 p.m. in the city hall when it will study proposals from three professional planning organizations to update the North Marin master plan.

Under consideration will be Lawrence J. Livingston Jr. of San Francisco, Herman Ruth of Oakland and the Marin County planning staff.

Will Thompson, music composer of East Liverpool, Ohio, wrote both "Softly, Tenderly Jesus Is Coming" and "There's a Great Day Coming."

Hub Man Given 90 Days In Jail

Franklin Delano Davis, 26, of San Anselmo, who stabbed another man during an argument in San Rafael last February, must spend 90 days in county jail and remain on supervised probation for five years.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court sentenced Davis yesterday for assault with a deadly weapon. Davis admitted knifing Donald Atwood Travis, 25, of San Rafael in the 800 block of Fourth street on Feb. 4.

The judge warned Davis that he faces state prison if he violates the terms of probation during the next five years.

Building Fund Drive Delayed For Hospital

The proposed building fund drive for San Rafael General Hospital has been indefinitely deferred, it was announced today.

Announcement of the postponement was made jointly by E. Francis Hore, president of the San Rafael General Hospital Foundation board; Judge N. Charles Brusatori, chairman of a community advisory committee for the campaign, and Bryon W. Leydecker, hospital trustee, and general campaign chairman.

'TECHNICAL QUESTIONS'

The announcement said only that postponement was "until a future date to be determined after certain technical questions have been resolved."

It was learned, however, that several members recently added to the hospital foundation's board of trustees wish to further familiarize themselves with the hospital's financial arrangements before launching any campaign for funds.

A countywide campaign to raise $300,000 had been scheduled for May and June.

NEW WING

With these funds the trustees had planned to begin construction this fall of a new three-story medical-surgical wing of reinforced concrete, as the first of a two-stage building program.

Board president Hore said after a meeting of the trustees last night that deferral of the campaign "in no way means that we have abandoned plans to modernize and expand the facilities of the hospital. The need is critical. We will resume plans for a building fund drive as soon as possible, probably early next year."

Miss Bama will be graduated from the college in June.

Traffic Ordinance For Novato To Be Read

A 35-page traffic ordinance for the City of Novato will be read in its entirety and discussed at an adjourned meeting of the Novato City Council tonight at 8 o'clock in the city hall.

Also under discussion will be portions of the proposed city budget for 1960-61, according to Robert O. Bailey, city clerk.

10 Per Cent Of Marin Census Takers Quit

More than one-tenth of Marin County's total force of census takers quit during the course of "Phase 1," it was disclosed today by a poll of seven crew leaders.

The number totals 12 out of 110 in the county—something of a contrast to "three or four" out of 619 in northern California estimated by District Supervisor James T. Hammons.

Hammons said he had personal knowledge of only three who had resigned, "in most instances to get better jobs," though there might be more. The ones he knew about included two who went to Mare Island on civil service appointments and a third who took over personnel work at the state Home, he said.

Crew by crew check of what's been happening in Marin County gave miscellaneous causes for the drop-outs but the over-all trouble seemed to be that "nobody thought it was going to take so long."

One crew leader suggested also that "many went in hoping to ride a gravy train, and got discouraged early—others had commitments or emergencies, of course, but those who stayed found out that the pay wasn't so bad and now there's a wish to get in on Phase 2. Three phoned me about that last night."

Of those who quit, their reasons broke down as follows:

Three didn't like the work.

Two felt that the job went on too long, and this reason had special point for three who said they'd planned trips and had to leave when the time arrived.

Four left because of illness of self or family members or a death in the family.

Payment for this year's census work is "somewhat higher than it was before because more questions are now involved," said Hammons.

He said that he had no definite figures to show the precise difference but that "on a piece-work basis they got so much for transcribing, so much for listing each person per household—it depends on what is done."

Some of the census takers in rural areas haven't been happy with a piece-work basis of calculation, Hammons said, but most of these have been pacified by going on an hourly basis allowed in view of the longer distance between calls as compared with work in towns and cities.

Mill Valley Woman Hurt In Mishap

Gertrude Brennan, 76, Mill Valley housewife, suffered an injured hip and lacerations last night when a car door slammed and knocked her to the pavement in front of 33 Homestead boulevard.

Sheriff's Deputy Edmond Mauberret said Mrs. Brennan appeared to have injured her hip or leg, and had lacerations on her knee.

Her grandson, Craig Conzelman of 11 Plymouth avenue, said Mrs. Brennan was getting out of the car parked on an incline about 5 p.m. The door slammed, and she fell to the pavement.

Mill Valleyans End Odyssey In San Diego

Three former Mill Valleyans wound up an odyssey today in San Diego.

Bob Van Blaircom, 29; his wife, Jane, 28, and Phil Price, 23, arrived at the Southern California port in the 40-foot yacht in which they sailed from the Isle of Wight by a roundabout route on a voyage that took a year, the Associated Press reported from San Diego.

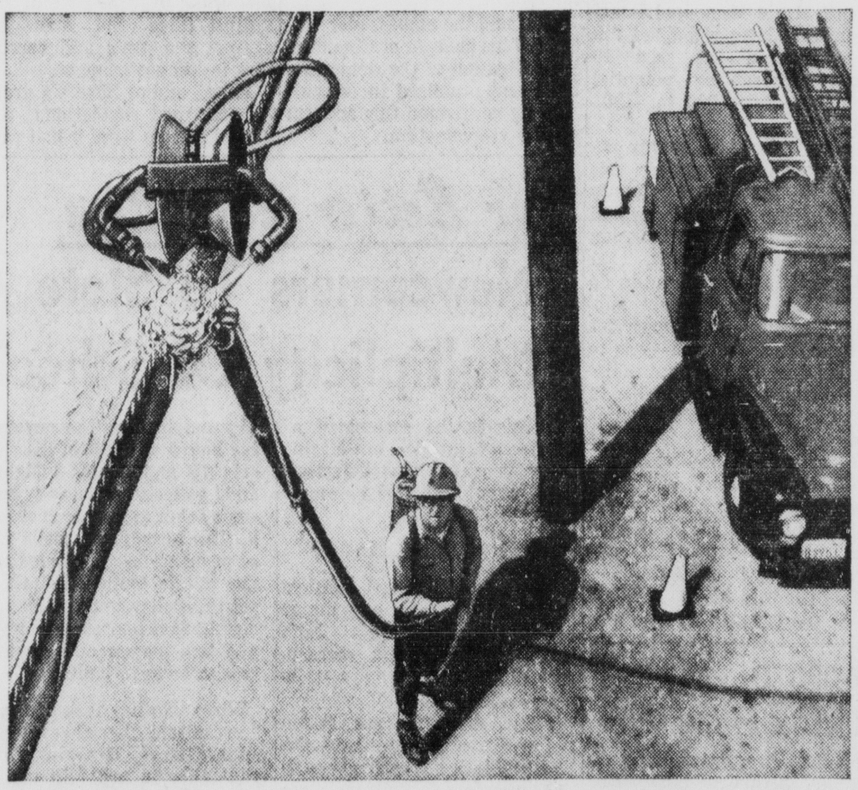
The three went to England together last year. At the Isle of Wight, they purchased the 40-foot yacht Armorel. In it, they set sail on a leisurely cruise. They visited Spain and Portugal, crossed the Atlantic, touched at various West Indies ports and finally sailed through the Panama Canal.

En route, they added another crew member: A seagoing cat, picked up in Cartagena, Spain.

The odyssey is really not quite over. Van Blaircom said they will sail the Amorel up the coast to Sausalito, and he and his wife will then make their home aboard it.

Meeting Postponed

The Larkspur School District board, scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. today, has postponed its meeting to May 4 because this week is Public Schools Week, Supt. Vaughn D. Seidel reported.



SOAP BUBBLES help telephone men keep your calls going through without a hitch. Here's how: Many cables that carry your calls are filled with air to keep out harmful moisture. If a leak occurs, the air escapes. And we can find the leak quickly by covering the cable with a soapy solution and watching for bubbles. This cuts time and costs of repairs and helps us give you more for your telephone dollar.

PENNSYLVANIA BALLOTS

Nixon Faces Test In Primary Voting

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Richard M. Nixon faces no opposition in two state primaries today, but he may find some pitfalls on at least one of the uncrowded ballots.

In Pennsylvania, his total will be compared with the 951,-932 votes won by President Eisenhower four years ago. A rather poor showing could start talk of dumping Nixon and looking elsewhere for a Republican presidential nominee.

If Nixon surpasses the Eisenhower total, however, that might squelch any further attempt to boost Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as a possible candidate.

Observers may have a difficult time squeezing significance out of the day's other primary, Massachusetts. There, Nixon is unopposed on the Republican ballot, and the state's junior senator, John F. Kennedy, is unopposed on the Democratic ballot.

The Pennsylvania ballot allows write-ins, and Democrats as well as Rockefeller supporters are hoping for unusual demonstrations of appeal by their favorites.

Any large amount of write-in votes for a Democrat or Rockefeller could hurt Nixon and give the recipient a tremendous psychological boost.

Nixon backers have not shown any pre-primary concern. In fact one prominent official resident of Pennsylvania, who has endorsed Nixon, most likely will be too busy in Washington to vote. He is President Eisenhower.

Two special congressional elections in the state may shed some light on the present strength of the parties. In the normally Republican 17th and 18th districts, voters will pick successors to the late Reps. Richard M. Simpson and Alvin R. Bush, both Republicans.

In the hotly contested West Virginia primary campaign, Kennedy and Sen. Hubert M. Humphrey of Minnesota, the only opponents on the May 10 Democratic ballot, continue their tour of the state.

Fatality Toll Cut To 500 In Iranian Quake

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Weary rescue teams pressed on today, digging dead and injured from the ruins of the quake-shattered city of Lar.

Death estimates dropped sharply as more accurate reports reached the capital.

"The total is not expected to exceed 500 dead," said Dr. Hussein Khatibi, director of Iran's Red Cross.

Officials at the scene, 550 miles south of Tehran, originally had estimated that as many as 2,000 perished in the two Sunday quakes which battered Lar, a city of 14,000, and Gerash, nearby complex of villages.

A Red Cross pilot, who flew low over Lar late yesterday and landed nearby, said the damage did not appear as heavy as originally reported.

Red Cross officials said most of the homeless are now in tents and everyone has been clothed and fed.

Cubans Hold Slayers Of U.S. Ship Captain

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban officials today held two American bad check men who killed a ship captain trying to rescue them from a Bahaman island and fled in his cabin cruiser.

Cuban authorities captured the pair—Alvin Table Jr., 25, and William Sees, 23—and the stolen yacht Muriel III yesterday after they went aground on an islet near Isabela de Sagua, 200 miles east of Havana.

Officials said the fugitives would be brought to Havana, but did not say when. The British want them in the Bahamas on charges of murder and piracy.

Table, Sees and Table's 18-year-old bride, the former Barbara Fisher of San Antonio, Tex., stole a boat in Key West last week, ran out of gas and were stranded last Tuesday on Elbow Cay, a deserted island in the Bahamas. Their boat broke up on the rocks.

On Sunday Angus Boatwright, 55, of Key West, owner of the Muriel III, spotted the castaways while cruising for game fish with four Pennsylvania men who had chartered his boat.

Kent Hokanson, 21, mate of the Muriel, said Sees swam out and shot Boatwright after the skipper refused to land. He said Table joined Sees aboard the boat and they let the four Pennsylvanians swim ashore, floating Boatwright's body with them on life jackets. Hokanson said he dove overboard and also swam ashore, and Sees and Table fled in the Muriel, leaving Barbara Table on the island.

A Coast Guard plane picked up the castaways and flew them to Nassau. Another Coast Guard plane shadowed the Muriel but turned back five miles from the Cuban coast because of the strained relations between the United States and Cuba.

The British Embassy asked the Cuban government to apprehend the fugitives.

The British placed no charges against Barbara Table, but she said she hoped to stay in Nassau until her husband was brought there.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Foul Play Ruled Out

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police said today they believe federal appeals court Judge W. Lynn Parkinson drowned either by accident or design and was not a murder victim.

"There is absolutely no reason to suspect robbery or foul play," Chief of Detectives James McMahon said.

McMahon said he viewed Parkinson's body after it was found Sunday floating in Lake Michigan and could see no marks of violence. An autopsy showed the 57-year-old Indiana jurist died by drowning, McMahon pointed out.

Air Jaunts Admitted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jerome K. Kuykendall, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, said today he has taken five free airplane trips since he took office in 1953.

He said he regards all as justifiable and proper.

Kuykendall told reporters two of the trips, in planes owned by natural gas pipeline companies, were to Louisiana to attend funerals of FPC commissioners.

He described two other trips as inspections and said the fifth was a round-trip to Atlantic City, where he addressed the Edison Electric Institute.

Someone's Missing

STUART, Va. (AP)—Everyone was back in court here yesterday afternoon as a five-minute recess ended—everyone, that is, except the defendant.

John Franklin Smith, 24, of Ararat, on trial for felonious shooting, walked out of the courtroom and hasn't been seen since.

Drone Flies Wild

PORT ARGUELLO (UPI)—A seven-and-a-half-foot Navy drone target craft escaped its radio control yesterday and flew over populated areas before crashing in the Pacific.

Air Force interceptor planes were set aloft to shoot down the propeller-driven drone when it got loose and headed north toward San Francisco, traveling at more than 200 miles an hour. The drone crashed about 50 miles north of here at Morro Bay before the interceptors spotted it.

Polaris Passes Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Polaris missile has flown more than 1,150 miles, the longest range yet covered by this submarine weapon.

The Navy announced the "fully successful" flight last night, shortly after the 28-foot, solid-fuel missile was launched from a land pad in a test designed to work out technical bugs in the second stage.

New Weapon Revealed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Existence of the Air Force's first air-to-air guided missile packing a nuclear punch was revealed yesterday by the Air Force and officials of Hughes' Aircraft Co., developers of the weapon.

Called the Nuclear Falcon, the weapon will be produced at Hughes' facilities at Tucson, Ariz., under a 23-million dollar Air Materiel Sommand contract.

Mother Saves Son

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A slim, 123-pound mother, strengthened by hysteria, lifted a 3,600-pound station wagon enough to allow her trapped son to crawl free.

But the strain cracked several vertebrae in Mrs. Maxwell C. Rogers' back. She is reported in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Rogers managed to get the vehicle several inches off the ground Sunday night after Charles Rogers, 16, was pinned. He had been working on the station wagon when a jack slipped.

East Germans Parade

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German Communist government paraded its army through the streets of East Berlin before dawn today in defiance of four-power agreements on the presence of German troops in the divided city.

The parade was billed as a rehearsal for next Sunday's May Day celebrations. But as a show of strength it underlined Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's warning to the West yesterday that a Soviet-East German peace treaty would end western access to Berlin.

100 Hurt In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—About 100 persons were injured today in a prolonged battle between 3,000 baton-wielding police and twice as many extreme leftist students trying to break into the Parliament building to protest the Japan-U.S. security pact.

Bigamist Escapes Jail

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Joseph R. Dischino, 35, former high school civics teacher, who supported two wives in adjoining towns, has escaped jail for bigamy because of his four children.

"If it weren't for the children," Superior Court Judge Daniel D. O'Brien told him yesterday, "I wouldn't hesitate in sending you to jail."

Judge O'Brien then pronounced a suspended one-year term and placed Dischino on five years probation.

His first wife, mother of three, has agreed to take him back.

Nehru, Chou Fail To Reach An Agreement

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and Premier Shou Enlai today ended a week of talks on their border dispute without any apparent progress toward an agreement.

In a joint communique they said their talks had led to "greater understanding" of each government's viewpoint, "but did not resolve their differences."

Nehru rejected a proposal by by Chou that India abandon her claim to 15,000 square miles in the Ladakh sector of Kashmir. Chou in return offered to leave to India the 36,000 square miles on the northeast frontier which India and China both claim.

"There can be no question of bartering away this area. Its ownership (by India) is a settled fact," Nehru told reporters after seeing Chou off to Nepal.

Nehru said the week-long negotiations has brought "no lessening in the basic tensions"

Vet Fund Resolution Passed By Supervisors

The Marin County Board of Supervisors declared today in a resolution of intention that if the county uses $300,000 in the veterans memorial fund to build the juvenile hall addition, the amount will be paid back to the fund.

The board also declared that it intends to continue to collect funds "for the purpose of constructing a veterans' memorial auditorium."

It was further expressed in the resolution that the reimbursement is to be made "on or before the time the fund will have accumulated sufficient moneys to finance . . . the auditorium, to be built at a time set forth . . . in 1965-66."

The resolution, at the insistence of Supervisor William D. Fusselman, will be sent to various county veterans groups.

This is being done, apparently, to set forth more positively the board's attitude on what will be done for the veterans. The money has been collected since 1943 through a small increment in the tax rate, and until this morning, according to some county government observers, the board had never said, positively, that the money was to go to an auditorium.

Veterans organizations had recommended that the money be used for an auditorium, and it has been estimated that it would cost a million and half dollars.

W. P. Duhamel, county veterans service officer, told the board today that a recent poll of 15 veterans organizations produced the following vote:

On the question of using the money for juvenile hall, four voted "yes," and seven voted "no." On the question of whether to take no action there was one vote. One of the 15 organizations was not polled.

Duhamel said he estimated there are approximately 35,000 veterans in Marin County, and 15 per cent of them belong to veterans' organizations. "But these outfits," said Duhamel, "have always been the spokesmen. If you want to poll the Democrats or Republicans you poll their committees. It's the same thing here."

County Auditor Leon A. de Lisle said: "My personal analysis is that the veterans are not basically opposed, but I have sensed a deep disappointment that their memorial had to be postponed. Therefore I've prepared this resolution offering the suggestion for the future."

The board recently indicated it would rather borrow the veterans memorial money for juvenile hall than construct it on a lease basis. No formal action has been taken.

Ross Board Hears Report On Budget

The Ross School District board last night received a preliminary report from Supt. Steven L. Parodi that next year's budget will be set at $230,909, or $5,472 more than last year.

The board also chose the firm of Weiser, Dreiman and Weseman to conduct the audit of the 1959 school year funds.

The board heard a report by Mrs. Charles Doyle of the Parent-Teacher Assn. that students have registered for a total of 325 class hours in the district's summer program. Trustees also asked the P-TA to study other districts' foreign language programs and recommend a program to the board.

The trustees approved contracts of all teachers returning to the district next year and announced that kindergarten registration will be May 25, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at Ross School.

WARRANTS

warrants unserved, dating from 1950, is based on a system whereby defendants owing bail or fines (the amounts usually $15 to $20) aren't put under pressure as a rule. Notice goes to cities or counties, those outside Marin being supposed to cooperate without profit but sometimes making little effort to do so.

Marin cities, with whose police de Lisle proposed to confer once he's organized the data, get a percentage of collections, to be used on street work.

These warrants aren't bench warrants and defendants can't be brought in on them, nor can police collect. They just have to find defendants and try to send them to court to pay, de Lisle stressed.

"It's a terrific problem in the whole State of California," said de Lisle. "Other counties should be interested if we move on it."

He said the processing would cost $270 per 1,000 names, save that he plans to use the job as "fill-in" work when his staff isn't otherwise occupied.

Prom Theme Chosen At Redwood High

"Pres de la Mer" is theme chosen for Redwood High School's junior prom this year.

The theme and decorations committees, headed by Carol Ensler and Paula Daly, selected the theme. The prom is to be held May 28 at the Corinthian Yacht Club in Belvedere.

Change Order Approved For Civic Center

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today approved the first change order on the now-abuilding county civic center.

The total additional money to be spent is not to exceed $12,345.

At the same time the board approved a system of allowing Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham to approve change orders that will not exceed $4,500. Brigham immediately said he would approve none that were not either purely engineering in essense or of an emergency nature.

PROGRESS REPORTS

The board also authorized Aaron Green of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation to appear periodically before to the board to present progress reports.

As each change order was approved there developed detailed discussion between Green and Supervisor William D. Fusselman. But Fusselman said he wanted to make it plain he "was not needling this gentleman. This is not petty. These things are coming up that we didn't know about before and I want to ask questions to find out about them." Other members of the board agreed.

Most expensive change order, not to exceed $10,000, is for construction of a concrete wall that Green said will have the effect of saving several "large, beautiful oak trees." He said that a ground cut will have to be made closer to the trees than it was originally planned, but that by using a concrete wall the cut will not have to be made so deeply.

He added that savings in the amount of concrete in the foundations of the building will compensate for much of this cost, and that there will be a saving from making less of an excavation in the cut.

STORM DRAIN

Also approved was a $559 order for the removal of debris, small trees and a concrete foundation of an old home, and $1,786 for a change in a storm drain line.

Throughout the discussion Fusselman wanted to know what emergencies might arise that would require immediate approval by Brigham of changes.

Brigham said he had no intention of approving anything except those of engineering and emergency nature, and both he and Green gave as an example the discovery of a spring.

In each vote approving the changes, Fusselman abstained.

CAPTAIN — William R. O'Brien, 270 Bretano way, Greenbrae, has been named master of the SS Hawaiian Citizen, first all-container ship in the Pacific. The ship will sail under the Matson flag. Captain O'Brien has been with Matson Lines since 1925 and has commanded 12 different ships. The Hawaiian Citizen will sail from San Francisco Monday on her maiden voyage to Hawaii.

Woman Leaps To Death From Bridge

A San Francisco woman drove her car onto the Golden Gate Bridge this morning, stopped, ran to the rail and jumped.

The body later was identified as that of Mrs. Jeanne Eastman Hamilton, 41, of 1819 Diamond street.

Her husband told San Francisco coroner's deputies that his wife had been depressed and did not appear to be in good spirits this morning. No other details were immediately available.

Highway Patrolman Donald Barr was driving north just behind the Hamilton car about 10:15 a.m. when it stopped. Barr ran after the woman and attempted to stop her but was too late.

Visitors Bureau To Plan Publicity

A regional publicity program will top the agenda of a monthly meeting of the Marin Visitors Bureau of the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Northwestern Savings and Loan building in San Rafael.

Mrs. Esther Dearth, bureau chairman, said there will also be a report on the progress toward the "Dollars for Drake" campaign to place a bronze statue of Sir Francis Drake on Drake's Bay.

EXPENSES

San Anselmo. . . . If the full board were to travel to see the five candidates, it would have meant that the board would have traveled to Miami, Fla., to Milwaukee, Wis., and to Los Angeles for the interviews. These travel expenses would have been legitimate and legal board expenses. The amount of this expense would have been somewhere in the neighborhood of $3,200, or six times the amount now in question. . . .

"There are many sections in the various California codes which permit payment for travel expenses to persons doing work for various public agencies. Unfortunately, there is nothing specific in the Education Code that permits what we wanted to do. By the same token, there is nothing in the Education Code which prohibits school boards from doing this. . . .

"It might have been a method that the San Anselmo Board could have adopted to have had these candidates come as "consultants' to our board and thereby paid the travel expenses . . . It was our feeling that to use such a method was a ruse . . .

"Another point that merits emphasis is that in announcements sent out, we stated that we were offering a minimum salary of $12,000 per year and that we would offer a four-year contract. . . . The sum of approximately $500 was not an unreasonable amount to risk in order to find the best person we could."

Bundschu and Corlett said the court action being considered would be an application for a write of mandate to force County Superintendent Hollis to issue checks against the school district. This would be a method of testing the law.

Names of George J. Benoit Jr., board president, Mrs. Rose Eiserich, Mrs. Mary A. Hedin, Bundschu and Corlett were appended to the statement giving reasons for going counter to the county counsel's opinion that the expenditure might not be legal.

terday and gutted the boat supply shop.

Goerndt reported his department is still investigating possibility of arson in addition to burglary, but that "there is nothing new on it at this time."

Henry R. Bauman of the firm said the burglars took $1,500 from the safe. He said they must have entered through the back window, jimmied a door which connects with the chartroom and then gone out the front door.

Bauman said all of his stock is going into salvage and he hopes to get the shop open again within 30 days.

Victim was Lisa M. Dollar of 36 North Ridgewood road. Her mother, Olga M. Dollar, called the sheriff at 5:15 p.m. Mrs. Dollar told Deputy Douglas Gledhill her daughter was walking her dog when another dog ran from the vicinity of 15 North Ridgewood.

West Recasts Proposal For Disarmament

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers reshaped their disarmament proposal today into a set of basic principles stressing a step-by-step approach to total disarmament under strict international controls.

The Western move was in answer to a Soviet request that the 10-nation disarmament conference first agree on a set of basic principles before getting down to details on such matters as controls.

TELL CONDITIONS

The five Western powers declared that disarmament progress and any agreement finally reaches must fulfill the following conditions:

1. "Disarmament must be carried out by stages, each stage to be completed as rapidly as possible although no fixed timetable can be laid down in advance for the process as a whole."

2. "Nuclear and conventional measures must be balanced so that no country or group of countries will obtain, at any stage, a significant military advantage and so that equal security for all will be maintained and thus international confidence progressively increased."

U.N. FRAMEWORK

3. "Disarmament measures must be effectively controlled throughout by an international disarmament organization withing the framework of the U.N., to ensure that compliance with these measures is verified from their entry into force and that there is no evasion throughout the disarmament progress and thereafter."

4. "Disarmament measures must be negotiated progressively according to the possibility of their early implementation and effective control."

CENTRAL PHARMACY

National Epilepsy Group To Offer Drugs At Cost

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Epilepsy League will offer at cost drugs which control the seizures of epileptics.

Howard R. Koven, an attorney and newly elected board chairman of the National Epilepsy League, said yesterday the plan represented an entirely new service concept in national voluntary health agency assistance.

Under the league plan, Koven said, a central pharmacy will be created in the organization's headquarters here to fill the prescriptions of epileptics. The approximately 1,500,000 Americans who suffer from the malady will become eligible for service by paying $1 a year

Noting that the average cost of drugs purchased by an epileptic ranges between $115 to $125, Koven said that through the "inherent advantages of volume buying" the league hopes to bring the newer, more effective and costlier medicines within the reach of all epileptics."

Maurice A. Melford, the group's national director, said it will take 1,500 memberships to put the plan into operation. He said it would be launched by making needed drugs available to members at an initial reduction of 25 per cent from regular retail prices.

Judge Studies Arguments Against Harbor Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Judge Murle C. Shreck of Sacramento County Superior Court studied charges today that the state Small Craft Harbors Commission competed unfairly with private harbor owners.

The judge heard arguments yesterday from Julius H. Selinger of San Rafael, attorney for the Inland Harbor and Fishing Resorts Assn., and Richard L. Mayers, deputy attorney general for the state.

The commission, established by the 1957 Legislature, makes loans to cities, counties and districts to build small craft harbors on inland and coastal waterways. The association is a private group with members in Marin, San Mateo, Alameda, Contra Costa, Sacramento, Napa, San Joaquin and Solano Counties.

The association filed suit March 25 charging that the loans and the legislation setting them up were a government invasion of a private industry that did not require state intervention. The suit claimed that the 1957 legislative act was unconstitutional.

Mayers argued that the act lay within the powers of the Legislature and should not be subject to constitutional review by the court.

Selinger also challenged the act because it allowed the commission to make loans wherever it found them to be "feasible." He said that this gave the commission "arbitrary, limitless and boundless" power.

Mayers replied that other sections of the act describing loan contract terms furnished sufficient safeguards against unwise loans.

Both attorneys will file briefs and are expected to be back in court for additional argument in about one month.

To Attend Conference

Dr. Stephen A. Duff of 1104 Irwin street, San Rafael, will attend a conference of the executive board of the California Chiropractic Assn. this weekend at the Mayfair Hotel in Los Angeles.

In addition, each student will get 16 hours in the Drivo-Trainer, a mechanical device that simulates actual driving. Then, trainees will get 12 hours of actual road training in a dual control car.

Save Chessman Forces Plan New Fire Try

The Marin Chessman Committee will try for a third time tonight to light a "torch of life" in protest of the execution of Caryl Chessman at San Quentin Prison next Monday.

Plans for a 20-to-30 foot jet of flame atop Wolfback Ridge in Sausalito last night were stopped before the propane installation could be completed.

McPhail Fuel Co. representatives were making the last connection from a seven-foot tank when objections from property owners brought a halt to work.

Robert O'Leary, Sausalito, said a property owner on the ridge had previously given approval of the jet—then withdrawn it when the equipment moved in. O'Leary originated the flame protest idea at the organizational meeting of the Chessman Committee Thursday in Sausalito.

But O'Leary claimed he has owner-permission tonight.

The jet woufld be outside Sausalito city limits.

Sausalito fire and police departments put out a smouldering protest fire Thursday after fire permission had been denied because of high winds. A Marin County Fire Department representative said today that no fire permit is needed in the ridge area.

"We'll have a flame high enough to be seen in Sacramento," O'Leary said.

Another member of the Chessman Committee, Mrs. Gerd Stern of Sausalito, is organizing an "orderly" protest cavalcade to San Quentin Sunday, the day before the execution.

Se said buses and cars will represent Corte Madera, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Sausalito, San Anselmo, San Rafael, Kentfield and Tiburon-Belvedere. The cavalcade will form at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Marin City.

Cavalcade representation will attempt to phone Governor Edmund G. Brown from the prison gates, she said. "Some of them may stay all night."

ODDS AGAINST CHESSMAN 3-1 INSIDE PRISON

San Quentin Prison inmates were reported today to be quoting odds of three cartons of cigarettes to one that Caryl Chessman will die in the gas chamber next Monday morning, his ninth execution date in nearly 12 years.

Chessman himself, though hopeful that new evidence will clear his name, was said to have estimated odds of 99-1 against action that will save him.

Hospital Cost Review Slated

The Marin County Hospital District board will review a cost study of operations for the last six months of 1959 at 8 p.m. today in Marin General Hospital.

Also on the agenda: Discussion of a contractural matter with a psysiatrist (doctor of physical medicine); report on consultant and surveyor's bills for the new construction; letter of appreciation from San Rafael General Hospital for the board's endorsement of its expansion program.

Magazine Writers' Probe Into His Case Gives New Hope To Chessman

By RANDALL GOULD

Caryl Chessman feels sudden new hope.

"I think now," he said yesterday afternoon, "that I have a chance for proof that, as I've always claimed, I am not the Red Light Bandit.

"Beyond that, I don't know. . . . But I don't feel dead yet."

This attitude, less than a week from his ninth date with the gas chamber next Monday, contrasted strongly with the convict-author's resignation at a time when he had legal guarantee of at least two months more life—just after his Feb. 19 reprieve.

Chessman said that the reason behind his renewed animation was that "facts have been dug up finally, by a magazine team that started out for just another Chessman story but got into the material I've wanted brought out."

The U.S. Supreme Court had yesterday once more denied appeal for stay of execution and writ of review, actions sought by attorney A. L. Wirin of the American Civil Liberties Union without active support from Chessman who abandoned his court fight some weeks ago.

All concerned in the case seemed by today agreed that sole hope lay in convincing Gov. Edmund G. Brown that Chessman was not the Red Light Bandit and that crash action toward clemency would be justified.

While Chessman spoke at San Quentin Prison in an interview room near Death Row, in San Francisco his attorney George T. Davis finally named a man Chessman himself has refused to identify, charging that a forgery-bad check fugitive variously known as Nick or Charles Terranova or Charles Sevaran was the bandit.

Davis introduced Argosy magazine writers Milton Machlin of New York and William R. Woodfield Jr. of Los Angeles, as well as Richmond investigator William Linhart. They said victims had described the bandit as having a forehead scar, protruding teeth and height which match Terranova but not Chessman.

"A lot of vital information has been right out in the open," said Chessman, who had earlier conferred with Davis and attorney Rosalie Asher. "These fellows turned it up readily. They got access to Los Angeles police records finally, with much bearing on my contention that I'm not the guilty man in this case."

How fast could matters move now? Chessman showed full awareness of how close he now stands to "the little green room" but placed stress on what "the full truth" might do for him.

"I believe that the story as it is now developing will finally make people wonder how I was ever convicted," he said.

"Anybody like the Red Light bandit, a fellow who forced women repeatedly and coldbloodedly, would certainly be known to the police from previous offenses," said Chessman. "That isn't my kind of thing at all. It's terrible and most offensive to any normal person. . . .

"Of course, the only way I could make amends at all for the things we all know I've done, such as holdups and gun fights with the police, would be to guarantee within myself that I would use any time remaining to me as constructively as possible."

Attorney Wirin said that "the only door remaining open is the governor's conscience."

But in Los Angeles, assistant Dist. Atty. J. Miller Leavy who helped prosecute Chessman dismissed the new material as "hogwash."

Bruce Bloomfield, 24-year-old University of California graduate student, was back on the Sacramento Capitol steps for a second campaign of picketing and fasting designed to influence the governor toward clemency.

Clark Tied Financially To Records He Played

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A statistician told House payola investigators today that 27 per cent of the records played on Dick Clark's television show over a two-year period were songs in which Clark may have had a financial stake.

However, the witness added that a statistical study also showed a close relationship between this figure and a popularity rating of the records—thus indicating that "the public taste was being met without consideration of 'possible interest.'"

The testimony by Bernard Goldstein, vice president of the New York City firm of Computech, Inc., drew doubting comment from a member of the subcommittee investigating Clark—Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.).

Moss charged the figure had been "weighted to the interest" of Clark who hired Computech to make the detailed study after the subcommittee asked the TV teen-agers' idol for information on how many of the records in which he had an interest were played on his show.

Moss said the figures were interesting but "valueless for any other purpose unless it might be to impress those who are looking for superficial results."

Goldstein, who brought 300 pounds of data with him, said his study covered every record played on Clark's "American Bandstand" show from Aug. 5, 1957, through Nov. 30, 1959.

He separated the song titles into two categories—the "A" records in which Clark could have had "any direct or indirect financial benefit" through his various holdings in the music and record industries, and the "B's"—all others.

Goldstein said the study showed that of the 15,662 songs played 4,230 or 27 per cent fell into the "A" category.

NOVATO STUDY

Traits Of 'Average' Teacher Told

A survey recently completed by the Novato Teachers Assn. reveals the "average" Novato teacher is a 38-year-old woman who lives and shops in Novato and has a household of 1.63 dependents.

She has taught in the district for three and one-half years and taught elsewhere for four years before coming to Novato. She earns $6,043 annually and has received a degree from a California state college.

ADDITIONAL STUDY

Before becoming a teacher, she had worked four years in the business world, but now considers herself a "career" teacher. She spends part of her vacation periods attending summer sessions at various colleges and universities and has earned an additional 17 college credits in the past five years.

Eighty-seven members of the district staff were questioned during the survey, according to an association spokesman.

Before entering teaching, the majority of the district's teachers, a total of 32, had worked in business and retail sales. Other occupations listed included entertainment, government work, industrial chemistry, newspaper work, music, agriculture and railroading.

HOLD OTHER JOBS

Twenty-two Novato teachers hold other jobs in addition to their teaching duties. Seventy of the 87 questioned patronize Novato stores.

Only 10 of the teachers questioned take no part in community activities. The remainder divide their time among service clubs, church groups, community groups, youth activities and Sunday school.

Forty-eight of the 87 live in Novato.

Hobbies and outside interests listed include sports, gardening, music, art, reading, camping, hunting and fishing, theater, writing and Scouting.

Fifty-eight of those questioned majored in education, English or sociology.

Of the 148 certificated personnel in the district, 142 belong to the Novato Teachers Assn., 132 are members of the California Teachers Assn. and 46 belong to the National Education Assn.

BETTER SETTLE FOR JUST PLAIN HEN EGGS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three boys seeking pigeons or their eggs found themselves stranded on a bridge girder 100 feet above the Monongahela River yesterday.

Twins Terrance and Arthur Keeley, 15, and Louis Jancel, 11, told police they had shinnied up the slanting girders of the pointed bridge before they realized they were so high. They climbed down after coaxing from two policemen.

The pigeons and eggs? The boys didn't find any.

'Glass Menagerie' Tonight At HAFB

Tennessee Williams' play, "The Glass Menagerie," will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at the Hamilton Air Force Base Service Club.

The play, which played to capacity houses on two weekends in Novato last month, is presented by the Novato Community Players under direction of Russell Dreosch. Taking lead roles in the drama of tenement life in St. Louis at the turn of the century are George Wahl, Sue Casey and Jim van der Beets.

Eichler Plans Homes West Of Terra Linda

Eichler Homes, Inc., plans to build 158 more homes in the newly annexed Nunes ranch to the west of Terra Linda.

Tentative maps for Eichler's Terra Linda Valley units 3 and 4 will be presented to the San Rafael Planning Commission at its meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall. The new subdivisions will be located on the extension of Del Ganado road.

Another subdivision of 20 homes is planned by Merz Bros. along Glen Park avenue in San Rafael, between Myrtle avenue and Hacienda court. It will be called Parme Terrace.

A public hearing will be held on a request for a use permit for a mortuary on the northwest corner of Lincoln and Prospect avenues. George B. Miller of San Francisco wants to renew a use permit, which was granted in 1957 but has expired.

Another public hearing is scheduled for the proposal to bring apartment zoning to a portion of East San Rafael Assessment District between Belvedere and Canal streets and Bellam boulevard. The area is now zoned for planned commercial and light industrial.

Apartment zoning is sought for five lots on Reservoir road from west of Wood street to Mirmar avenue. The lots are now zoned first class residential.

Rafael Racquet Club Estates, which plans a 55-acre subdivision along Fifth avenue southwest of Sun Valley, seeks apartment zoning for four and one-half acres. Developers are John J. Farrar, William Batey, and Hal Wagner.

Ernest J. Giomi wants to use an apartment residence at 16 East Crescent drive for music instruction.

Other matters on the agenda include requests for variances on setbacks and roof overhangs, and small subdivisions of two and three lots.

Good Guess By S.F. Woman Wins Her 'House Of Money'

When it comes to guessing money, Mrs. Caroline Feeney of San Francisco has the edge on everyone in Marin.

Mrs. Feeney won the $335.30 in a "house of money" displayed by Marin County Savings and Loan Assn. during its grand opening celebration by guessing within 33 cents of how much was in it.

When the money is all pennies, though, a couple of San Rafael girls are still better guessers.

Angelea Price of 175 Oak drive and Michelle Balfour of 246 Elvia court won a children's penny-guessing contest by estimating there were 3,758 pennies in the container. The count showed there were 3,756. The girls split $25 offered as first and second prizes.

Prizes of $1 each for close guesses went to Craig Balfour, brother of winner Michelle Balfour; Marilyn Hamilton, 23 Idlewood Place; Janice Beccia, 1765 Lincoln; Kevin Madera, 143 Solano, all of San Rafael; Louis Galetti, 257 San Francisco blvd., San Anselmo.

Bill Pandiana, 34 Belle avenue, Scott McDougall, 727 Montecillo road, Michael Fraize, 1444 Nye street, a Carolyn Hinrichs, 54 Balboa, all of San Rafael; Louis Devincenzi, 257 San Rafael boulevard, San Anselmo.

The savings and loan firm recently moved into newly built quarters at 990 Fifth avenue, from 1219 Fourth street, San Rafael.

Redwood Frosh Plan Assembly

The annual freshman assembly at Redwood High School, the third in a series of class programs for the student body, will be presented May 22.

"The Television Era" will be the theme of the assembly, student body vice president Richard Riede has announced.

Seniors will present their traditional "farewell assembly" the last week of school, Riede said.

Hallinan Home Picked As Site For Picnic

The home of Vincent Hallinan at Lagunitas road and Glenwood avenue in Ross has been chosen as the site of the annual National Guardian picnic June 26, it was announced today by publicity chairman Malvina Reynolds.

According to the Northern California National Guardian Committee, the money raised for the affair will go to a nonprofit progressive newspaper published in New York with circution on the West Coast.

Woman Hiker Now Leads Servicemen

WENDOVER, Utah (AP)—The Utah Highway Patrol reported today that Dr. Barbara Moore, the spunky British vegetarian, has passed her two countrymen in their cross-country hike.

The patrol radioed its Salt Lake City headquarters that Dr. Moore passed the two British servicemen while they were apparently asleep. She passed them a short distance east of Wendover.

The woman left the border town of Wendover at 3 a.m. She trailed the sergeants by six miles before retiring shortly before midnight.

At 7 a.m. Dr. Moore was about five miles ahead of the two servicemen, Mervyn Evans and Patrick Maloney.

Redwood Students Rehearse For Play

Redwood High School drama students are now in rehearsal for the production of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough, to be presented May 13 and May 14 in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

The cast, directed by Joseph Wadlington, includes Linda Foster, Marge Deedy, Dona Fry, and Bob Talmage.

Today is Tuesday, April 26, the 117th day of the year, with 249 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching is first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1564, William Shakespeare was baptized at the parish church at Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire, England.

In 1607, the first British colonists to establish a permanent settlement in America landed at Cape Henry, Va.

In 1785, naturalist, painter and writer John James Audubon was born.

In 1819, Lodge No. 1 of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was organized at Baltimore, Md.

In 1865, after a relentless search, Federal troops discovered the hiding place of John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln's assassin, and shot and killed him when he refused to surrender.

A thought for today: William Shakespeare, in the play "Othello" said: "How poor are they that have not patience."

Council Approves Pay Raise For Corte Madera Employees

Corte Madera's town employees will get a 3 per cent across-the-board cost-of-living pay raise for fiscal 1960-61, and members of the police force will get an additional raise to bring their total pay hike to about 10 per cent.

Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow's pay will go up from $802 to $867 per month.

The salary schedule for the town's superintendent of public works, for which an examination is to be given May 7, will be pegged at $484 to $587, rather than starting at $417.

These decisions were reached by four members of the town council (Raymond L. DeYoung was absent) last night

Brandow was instructed to incorporate them in a salary schedule resolution to be presented for passage at the next regular council meeting on May 2.

The town manager presented a proposed new salary schedule calling for an across-the-board raise of 2½ per cent. Councilman Roger F Morse suggested it be made three per cent after Brandow informed the council that Bureau of Labor Statistics figures showed a 3.08 per cent increase in the cost of living in the Bay Area during 1959.

Brandow urged the additional raise for policemen declaring, "Our police officers are definitely behind the average in the county in pay." The new scale will put the two patrolmen with two years service at $461 per month and place the latest patrolman hired and another to be added May 1 at $436.

Pay of police sergeant and inspector will go to $508 Police Chief Frank L. Nelson urged this category be raised to $530, and presented figures collected by Inspector Harold Hockett which showed the average for police sergeant in five other Marin cities as $537 The council, however, refused to go along, although Councilman Albert F. Kogler, near the end of the three-hour meeting, remarked he might still support the higher pay "if they can show us some real good reason for it."

Nelson's pay as police chief was raised only the three per cent in the across-the-board hike. However, the council, on suggestion of Brandow, added a $50 monthly stipend for Nelson's duties as fire chief. Nelson has served as fire chief on a purely volunteer basis, receiving no pay beyond the $3 per call paid all volunteer firemen.

This will bring Nelson's monthly pay to a total of $637.

"He's a good police chief and a good fire chief, and should be compensated for both," declared Mayor Edward Colthurst, who personally expressed willingness to raise Nelson's police chief pay to $613 and then add the $50 for his fire chief duties

Pay for gardener — the regular job of George Paraspolo, who is now also acting superintendent of public works—was placed in a range with a minimum of $417 per month. But the council, on urging of Brandow, placed the public works superintendency in a range of $484 to $587. Brandow said advertisements for applicants for the job at a lower range had been unproductive with only one other candidate besides Paraspolo. He said Paraspolo had indicated he might prefer to return to his fulltime gardener job.

A new classification of assistant public works superintendent was created, at Brandow's suggestion, with a salary range of $358 to $436. Brandow said the job would normally be that of street crew foreman. Morse objected that the small working force did not call for a foreman, but later went along with his fellow councilmen to approve the classification.

Pay of secretarial help was raised 5 per cent, to $2.37 per hour. A $5 hike in the $50 per month paid the town treasurer was approved. But the council held over a suggestion by Brandow that the retainer of Town Atty. John B. Ehlen be upped from $175 to $200 per month. Councilmen said they wanted to discuss it with Ehlen, who was not present last night

Ike, DeGaulle End Talks, Say Farewell

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today bade farewell to French President Charles de Gaulle with a pledge that "we'll stand together" in dealing with the Soviet Union.

De Gaulle told Eisenhower: "I have even greater confidence in our cause now since I have seen you."

The exchange took place on the north portico of the White House as de Gaulle paid a parting call on his host. De Gaulle was heading first for New York on a U. S. tour.

The French and U. S. chiefs were in agreement on a plan to challenge Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to demonstrate by action that he wants a relaxation of tension.

That action, at the start of next month's summit conference in Paris, was agreed on by the two presidents in four days of talks.

The two Western leaders agreed to make clear to Khrushchev that if he presses his Berlin demands too far he will kill all chance of getting an improvement in East-West relations in other fields.

TO STATE AGENCY

Corte Madera Plans Protest Of Billboard

The Corte Madera Town Council decided last night to carry the Battle of the Billboard to a higher jurisdiction. Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow was directed to draft a letter to the state Public Utilities Commission protesting the lease of Northwestern Pacific Railroad property just inside Larkspur to the Edgewater Inn for erection of a huge advertising sign.

The non-merger-minded Corte Madera council thus executed a flank attack on the merger-minded Larkspur Planning Commission, which has approved Campbell's plan for the sign.

Brandow's letter is to contain such words as "unsound" and "poor practice" relating to the lease of railroad property for other than railroad uses.

The battle is one of long duration and much frustration for the Corte Madera council. Two mayors ago, long before James Stockman bought the Edgewater Inn from Frank Rusalem, the council was battling Rusalem and Robert Campbell over roadside signs—not conforming to town ordinance—advertising the motel and Bob's in Marin restaurant.

Stockman and Campbell finally acceded to the town's demands and removed the offending signs (after winning some compromise), only to execute a quick flanking movement by leasing a triangle of railroad land just over the Larkspur line as the site for a billboard.

Brandow's attempt to outflank them by letter is to be presented in its final, strongly worded form to the council on May 2 for official adoption before being sent to the PUC.

Man Committed In Morals Case

Arthur Atwood, 34, of Terra Linda, who committed lewd acts with boys aged 5 and 8, was ordered committed to the Atascadero State Hospital yesterday as a sexual psychopath.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court sent Atwood to the hospital for 90 days of treatment and observation. After treatment there, Atwood will be returned to Marin for sentencing.

Atwood, San Francisco bellhop, molested the boys last year at 584 Las Colindas road, Terra Linda, where he formerly lived. He is married and a father of several children.

Giants Edge Cardinals, 9-8; Jones Set To Pitch Tonight

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants will send Sad Sam Jones against the St. Louis Cardinals tonight in an effort to stop the recent outburst of slugfests.

The Giants—who were walloped 9-4 by Chicago Sunday—came from behind last night to edge the Cards, 9-8, in a cliffhanger. The victory moved San Francisco back into a first place tie with Pittsburgh in the National League.

Manager Bill Rigney's Giants don't have to worry about being behind when Sad Sam has his stuff. The unbeaten righthander has two victories—a one-hitter and a three-hitter. He will oppose Larry Jackson.

The sluggers had to pull last night's victory out of the fire. The Giants got an early lead with a homer by Jim Davenport in the third frame, but the Cards immediately rallied for four sparked by former Giant Daryl Spencer's three-run homer.

St. Louis added one run in the sixth on a homer by Stan Musial, and the Giants scored three in the tops of the seventh to make it 5-4. The Cards increased it to 7-4 in the bottom of the frame—and the Willies went to work.

After two men walked, Don Blasingame singled home one. Then Willie McCovey put the Giants in front with a two-run homer.

Carl Sawatski walloped a pinch-hit homer for St. Louis in the eighth—but the Cardinals were still one run down when the game ended.

Johnny Antonelli picked up one of the easiest victories of his career, as he pitched just one rocky inning, allowing two hits and two earned runs. However, he was the pitcher of record when the Giants went ahead.

Mays had two hits to keep his string going. The speedy centerfielder has hit safely in all 11 games of the season.

McCovey had two hits in four trips, Davenport had two for three, and Orlando Cepeda had two for five.

It was the only game played in the National League.

Only two games were played in the American League, with the Kansas City Athletics defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6-1, and the Baltimore Orioles nipping the Washington Senators, 3-2.

The Athletics registered their victory over Herb Score, who didn't make much of a debut in a White Sox uniform.

Traded by the Indians for Barry Latman last week, Score was hammered out of the box in the fourth inning after he had given up seven hits, five walks and six runs, including a homer by Hank Bauer. Knuckleballer Bud Daley, meanwhile, held the White Sox to three hits and retired the last 14 batters he faced to gain his first victory.

First baseman Jim Gentile's three-run homer off Russ Kemmerer in the first inning stood up all the way in the Orioles' win over the Senators.

Milt Pappas ended a five-game losing streak for the Orioles by hurling a five-hitter. One of the hits was rookie Don Mincher's first major league homer. The Orioles got only five hits themselves off Kemmerer and Pedro Ramos. But after Gentile's first inning wallop, they didn't need any more.

Rod-Gun Club Turns Down Compromise On Bay Flats

The Marin Rod and Gun Club last night overwhelmingly passed a motion made by its board of directors that the club oppose the closure of the area in San Pablo Bay designated by Hamilton Air Force Base as a "danger zone."

This means the club refuses to accept restriction of the area on a scheduled basis, proposed as a compromise by the Air Force in a letter to the club April 15, after earlier protests.

The letter stated the area in question, a two-and-one-half mile stretch of water and mud flats behind Hamilton's shooting range, would be open for duck season and on most weekends. It was written by Capt. Kenneth H. Kronlund, assistant director of wing operations.

One of the many members who expressed opposition to the closure said "it would deny fishermen one of the state's prime fishing grounds, and once they take it away its gone forever." Another spokesman said "we must protect what little area is left for sportsmen."

Still another protestant, the Department of Fish and Game, was represented by Robert Jones, who pointed out that the restriction would force small boats to go so far out in the channel it would create "a navagational hazard due to the rough water."

In a statement by Walter T. Shannon, director of the Department of Fish and Game, which was read by Jones, it was proposed that a new location for the range be found or deflectors be placed behind the range's targets. Similar suggestions were voiced by rod and gun club members.

One spokesman for those few who favored accepting the Air Force's compromise said, "It is not only poor sportsmanship to want the bay, but the base would, with the safety zone, then have the only local range for high powered rifles."

The Hamilton range (accessible to civilians) is to be modified into a high powered rifle range, club president Peter Bertoni told members.

Recently, the Army Corps of Engineers, to whom the Air Force made application to close the area, received more than 500 post cards and 28 letters protesting the action.

Col. John S. Harnett, district engineer, last week said that efforts will be made to find a solution mutually acceptable to the Air Force and the protestants. If that fails, a hearing on the application will be scheduled, he said, but it will be at least 30 days before it is held.

Do Giants Have One Personality At Home And Another On Road?

HANLEY

ST. LOUIS — Bill Rigney looked at Busch Stadium, home of the Cardinals, and mused "hitting in Candlestick may just bring these and other fences in a little closer."

The Giant manager might have added that certainly was the case in Chicago where his men concluded their first 1960 road series during the weekend with the Cubs.

Candlestick's spacious area doesn't make Busch Stadium or Wrigley Field look like band boxes but easy outs in the new home of the Giants are over the fence here just as they were at Wrigley.

It would be premature to draw any conclusion that the Giants have acquired a dual personality—a Ty Cobb ability at home and a Babe Ruth characteristic on the road. The 28 runs they scored in their first two road games at Wrigley against the Cubs, including eight homers, could be used as a sound argument for the dual personality thesis.

However appealing and enticing that may appear to Giant fans back home, final judgment should be withheld until Rigney and his men have made at least one complete swing around the circuit.

The pre-season analysis tabbed the Giants as a slugging outfit but Candlestick's wind and distant fences forced them to adjust. They did adjust admirably in the first seven home games, winning five of them without scoring more than six runs in any contest.

THE BIG QUESTION in the mind of every Giant fan, as the team took off on its first road trip, was: "Will they be able to readjust on the road?"

The answer seemed to come quickly. Those 28 runs ostensibly supplied it. But were they actually the result of an adjustment and then a readjustment? The Giants are good, make no mistake about it. But are they that good?

Baseball isn't golf and golf isn't baseball. But any hacker knows that it is a dangerous thing to attempt adjustments and readjustments on a golf course. Seasoned pros can do it because they know what they are doing and more importantly—why.

MAYBE ALL OF the Giants are seasoned pros now or, as the New York boys would say: "They have matured." Well, Willie Mays certainly "matured" long ago both in the proper sense of the word when he attained his majority, and in the baseball sense before the Giants moved west.

And none will dispute that Mays is a seasoned pro. He definitely knows what he is doing on a baseball field—and why. Perhaps Mays did adjust in Candlestick and readjust on the road.

SOMEHOW, WE CAN'T buy it. We do believe, however, that Mays is swinging smoother than he ever has since the '58 move of the Giants to the Golden Gate. Only occasionally has he tried to overpower the ball, attacking it, as he did so often last year.

The same applies to Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland. They have been stroking the ball, not trying for homers which always come naturally with a smooth swing. Willie McCovey also is getting the idea. Like a golf course hacker with a sweet swing, McCovey did remarkable things as a rookie last year because of his natural buggy-whip stroke.

HE TEMPORARILY lost the touch when he began experimenting with something that was near-perfect. Now, the big fellow seems to be getting back in the groove. When he does, the fearsome foursome will be complete.

Everyone is rightly convinced Candlestick did force the Giants to adjust—a fortuitous and beneficial adjustment that corrected a monotonous habit of over-swinging and attacking the ball, a bad habit encouraged by the jet stream and that inviting left field pavilion in old Seals Stadium.

CANDLESTICK IS one of the best batting coaches in the business. But, as we said, we can't buy that dual personality stuff. The boys are swinging on the road just as they were in Candlestick—smoothly. The road results thus far are more productive because the parks are smaller.

Knockout Victim Unconscious Nearly 8 Hours

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxer Leroy Sayles regained consciousness this morning, almost eight hours after being knocked out and suffering a brain concussion in his second professional fight.

The 22-year-old Berkeley middleweight was floored last night in the second round of a preliminary to the Henry Hank-Rory Calhoun middleweight bout here.

A California Athletic Commission doctor said Sayles is in fair condition and ought to be all right in time.

He said the concussion apparently required no surgery but may have done permanent damage. The doctor said he will recommend Sayles' boxing license be permanently revoked.

ANDRE RODGERS REPORTEDLY TO BE TRADED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Chronicle said today the Giants and Philadelphia Phillies are set for a swap.

Chronicle baseball writer Bob Stevens wrote from St. Louis that the Phils are believed offering right-handed pitcher Jack Meyer and veteran utility man Dave Philley for the Giants' Andre Rodgers, a rangy shortstop.

If the Giants throw in either righthander Ray Monzant or young southpaw Joe Shipley, Stevens said, the Phils would add relief pitcher Dick Farrell to the deal.

Liston Scores Quick Kayo Over Harris

It took the big Philadelphia heavyweight just 2:35 of the first round last night to score a technical knockout over the Cut and Shoot schoolteacher before a record Texas crowd and closed circuit TV fans in 10 other cities.

Harris just barely had time to get in three left jabs to the nose before he was in trouble.

LEFT HOOK

A left hook was the damaging blow. Harris took an eight count under the ropes. More of a push than a punch quickly brought another eight count. Then Harris slipped and fell to the canvas and Liston was ready for the kill.

Liston cut loose with a right that caught Harris squarely on the chin.

Referee Jimmy Webb did not take time to start counting. He just raised Liston's hand.

"It was my easiest fight," Liston said after extending his record to 29-1 and recording his 20th knockout.

2ND DEFEAT

"He's a better puncher than Patterson," said Harris in taking his second defeat in 32 pro fights.

In 1958 Harris lost a 12th round TKO in a Los Angeles title fight to former champion Floyd Patterson.

Harris said he was surprised when Webb stopped the fight.

Hank Kayoes Calhoun In 2, Eyes Title Shot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bring on the champ, middleweight Henry Hank hollered today after knocking out Rory Calhoun in the second round of a scheduled 10 last night.

"If Gene Fullmer will fight me, I'll have the championship," said Hank, a cocky, 25-year-old Detroit battler.

But he acknowledged he'll fight anybody good for a fat payday. Matchmaker Bennie Ford said he'd try to get either Spider Webb or Dick Tiger to meet Hank here.

Hank, winning his seventh straight and 42nd fight, dropped Calhoun in the first round last night with a left hook to the head. Calhoun took the mandatory eight count, the last five on his feet.

They slugged it out in the second and for a while Rory, from White Plains, N.Y., was getting the better of it. But Hank unleashed a barrage climaxed by a devastating left hook. Then a left-right combination to the head put Calhoun on the Cow Palace deck.

He got up, but was too wobbly to stay up. Referee Vern Bybee gave him a helping hand and called a halt at 2:50.

The fight was officially scored a knockout.

"I've hit a lot of guys with hard left hooks with the same result: they wobble and go out," confided Henry, the third ranking middleweight. He went into the fight an 8-5 favorite.

Hank collected $8,000, Calhoun $7,500. The net gate was $18,203 from the crowd of 4,618.

Hank's record is now 42-10-1 with 51 knockouts. He's never been knocked out. The fight marked the second time Calhoun's been knocked out. Webb did it here.

"Well, he got nailed," Calhoun's manager, Al Bachman, said.

The manager added he'd like to bring Calhoun back to the Cow Palace—where Rory's lost five of six fights — but not against Hank. Rory wasn't talking.

KIDS CLEAN UP FISHING AREA

Approximately 40 members of the Marin Junior Rifle Club spent a busy and worthwhile day Saturday, clearing debris along a four-mile stretch of Papermill Creek. Under the direction of supervisors George Finney, Fritz Pfeffer and Gus Scheuermann, the teen-agers voted to do the work as part of its conservation project. Since trout season opens this Saturday, the stream will be in excellent condition for the hundreds of anglers who will flock to the area. Above, left to right, are Sherry Tuttle, Russell Boates and Dennis Scheuermann, shown picking up cans, bottles, papers, etc.

TRASH, ANYONE? — This is just about half of the debris the Marin Junior Rifle Club's "cleanup day" campaign collected Saturday. Following the work detail several members of the club were presented Hunter Rifle Safety certificates from Game Warden Al Giddings who cited the club's training program as one of the finest in California. Later the teenage workers were rewarded with a pot-luck picnic at Camp Taylor.

Deer Problem Hot Subject In Capitol

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Deer management, or mis-management, is a subject that ever is with us but it has been even more so in the past couple of weeks.

For one thing at a recent Fish and Game Commission meeting, a proposal for a single deer season, embracing the present coastal and inland seasons, with a one deer, either sex limit, was offered.

Secondly, the Citizens Advisory Committee on Big Game held its second meeting in the state Capitol.

And third, some interesting facts and theories about game management came out at a state senate hearing on another subject — the matter of predator control.

Because of the long controversy over deer management, most of which revolves around the questions of killing of female and immature deer and the extent to which range lands should be improved, seldom is anything new presented. However, once in a while old things are said in new ways and that provides some interest.

Putting together some of the statements made at the various meetings by Department of Fish and Game officials, it would appear the department feels harvest of surplus deer—perhaps up to 25 or 30 per cent of the herd total — is the prime management feature.

At the state senate hearing, Walter T. Shannon, director, said the control of predators is an expensive form of management and less effective or desirable than some others. He said management through harvesting of surplus animals often was a better means than control of predators.

Shannon said predator control was most desirable in areas where intensive management, through hunting, was carried on. This would lend some weight to charges over the years, that the department, when it was not permitted to have surplus deer hunted in certain areas, cut down its predator control in those areas, thus letting the lions, coyotes and bobcats have some of the deer for which it wasn't able to issue hunting permits.

The discussion also brought out a statement from Shannon that the department spent some $75,000 or $80,000 a year in habitat improvement for deer and about $240,000 for "management." When asked to explain what the "management" included, he said it meant taking surveys of population and conducting public hunting.

The citizens committee also had Shannon as a witness before it. One member wanted to know if it was true the department preferred to "manage" a range through harvesting of surplus animals before it attempted to improve the range.

Shannon, and Ben Glading, game management chief, admitted this was true for good reasons. They stated, as has been said often before, that, once a range has been overbrowsed, it takes it longer to make a comeback than the normal year-to-year feed increase would indicate.

LACK OF SPEED

Outlook Dim For Stanford Eleven

STANFORD (AP)—Cactus Jack Curtice, who came to Stanford in 1958 as head football coach with wit and good humor, appears serious and at times glum this spring.

"If you can't catch them, you can't tackle them," he says while watching his 73 players go through spring drills. "You just can't teach a boy to run faster than he can go."

Which pinpoints the Stanford problem—lack of overall speed.

"When you don't have speed, it hurts you most of all on defense," says Curtice. "A big, strong, slow boy can gouge his way for three or four yards on offense, but on defense if you can't overtake them you can't bring them down.

"The lack of speed has stymied us at the corners and in the secondary for the last two seasons."

BIG GUN BACK

Stanford gets back its big gun, record setting quarterback Dick Norman, the nation's leader in passing and total offense.

On the surface, 21 returning lettermen—only 13 lost—would seem to present an optimistic picture. But among those gone are the No. 1 and 2 men at both ends and the pass catching flanker back stop—six men who caught more than 80 per cent of Stanford's passes last season.

Stanford led the nation statistically in five departments on offense but won only three games against seven losses. The Indians gave up 261 points, more than any other team in Stanford history.

The backfield is loaded with lettermen. Scrambling for the quarterback spot behind Norman are last year's reserve Rod Sears and baseball pitcher Jim Smith. Three freshmen, John Power, Reg Rhodes and Gary Sargent battle to make the squad.

Righ half is solid with Mac Wylie, Gil Dowd and Hal Steuver returning. Fullback is equally set with returning Archie Schmitt, Gary Craig up from the redshirts and last year's regular, Skip Face. The latter, who scored 100 points, isn't in school this spring but is expected back in the fall.

Tom Boysen looked like the outstanding flanker back until he broke his foot stepping into a gopher hole as he walked off the practice field. Now the battle is between John Bessey, a letterman and Dale Ostrander, a reserve.

END PROBLEMS

Filling the end spots provides the biggest problems with leading pass catcher Chris Burford and Ben Robinson gone. Sophomores Vic Preisser and Bob Peters are battling with letterman George Honore for one spot while junior Rich Hearney leads for the other.

Unpredictable knees provide the big question mark at tackle. Co-captain elect Dean Hinshaw was hurt after one play in 1959 and Phil Toorbald, a brilliant frosh three seasons ago, has been fighting knee trouble ever since. Behind them are two freshmen, 250-pound Charlie Buehler and C. B. Simons and last year's surprising sophomore Jack Gordon.

The guards are experienced with Errol Scott, Ron Fernandes, Don Peter and John Butler the top candidates. They're being pressed by sophomore Steve Palyer and redshirt Dick Cook.

Center is strong with lettermen Doug Pursell and Chris Cottle plus sophomore Starr Rounds, voted last year's most valuable freshman.

PASS PLENTY

"We'll probably go with our experienced men and make our reserves mostly sophomores and juniors," said Curtice. "We'll be passing a lot. We have to. I hate to say it, but it looks blue.

"Washington has all its players back, USC and UCLA had very few upper classmen on last year's teams, and we pick up the Air Force Academy on our schedule."

MAGUIRE WINS

Junior Net Finals At M.V. Courts

Harvey Klyce of San Rafael and Brian Laurie of Mill Valley will team up against Red Witt of Larkspur and Gary Rose of San Pablo tomorrow afternoon in the 18 and under doubles finals of the Northern California Tennis Championships.

Since three of the four participants are Marin County residents, the match will be played at Mill Valley Tennis Club instead of San Francisco.

The Klyce-Laurie team won the first set Sunday, but darkness forced postponement of completion of the match until tomorrow. The match will start at approximately 3:30 p.m.

Warning On Reports Given

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The advent of the boating season has brought a warning from the state Division of Small Craft Harbors that all serious boating accidents must be reported to the state.

Lachlan M. Richards, chief of the Small Craft Harbors Division, issued the reminder yesterday. He noted that failure to report is a misdeameanor subject to fine or imprisonment or both.

Any accident on California waters resulting in death or injury to a person or damage to property in excess of $100 must be reported.

In cases involving death the report must be submitted within 48 hours. It's five days in other cases.

Richards said report forms are available through sheriff's offices, insurance companies and several boat landings.

Even Racehorses Are Affected By Change In Time

SAN MATEO (UPI)—Daylight saving time can be credited with an assist in El Matador's easy win in the fourth race at Bay Meadows yesterday.

Trainer Lou Carno was notified by phone Sunday night to scratch El Matador, but Carno forgot to move his watch up an hour Sunday when daylight saving time went into effect.

When Carno arrived at the track for scratch time at 7 a.m. yesterday (by his watch), it was 8 a.m. and too late. Carno thought about asking the stewards to allow him a late scratch, but instead he called owner Hal King in Los Angeles and persuaded him to let the horse run.

El Matador, with jockey Pete Moreno up, won going away.

Dodger Manager Has Pitching, Hitting Woes

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dodger manager Walt Alston was in a quandary today. He didn't know whether to worry about, the hitters or the pitchers as Los Angeles took on the Chicago Cubs.

So he worried about both.

Alston went with his one starter this season who has been effective — big Don Drysdale, hoping the fireballing side-armer can halt a four-game Dodger losing skein.

Opposing Drysdale was lean-jawed Glen Hobbie, who shut out the Dodgers on a five-hitter in the second game in the Coliseum.

As for the hitters, Alston juggled his lineup, ordered a two-hour batting drill at Wrigley Field yesterday on their day off.

With Duke Snider out of the lineup today because of a twisted trick knee, Alston went with Wally Moon, Don Demeter and rookie Tom Davis in the outfield.

Alston moved Johnny Roseboro—the club's leading regular hitter with .294 — into the No. 5 spot. He had talked of starting pinch-hit hero Chuck Essegian if things didn't improve. That may be his next move.

Add to his troubles the fact that Norm Larker's ulcer is acting up and you have a picture of the manager of the world champion club whose team is within a whisker of the second division.

"It always seems to act up in April," said Larker, who probably is doing some worrying for the skipper.

The Dodgers' touted young pitching staff started out like it was going to mow down the hitters like grass, but the hitters had to buy a base hit.

In the last series, the hitters finally began to get on base — not very often, but sometimes—and the pitchers couldn't seem to find the plate with radar. If they did, as often as not, somebody would knock it out of the park—usually Ken Boyer.

"It's enough to drive a guy nuts," moaned Alston.

Alston never has lost more than six straight since he took over the club in 1954 and he doesn't plan to start now, especially since the Dodgers return to Los Angeles after the Cub series for a long home stand.

The Dodgers will meet San Francisco's Giants Thursday night; then in order face Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in Memorial Coliseum.

He Learns While He Earns

WHO'S THE BOSS HERE?

Most modern, happy families share responsibilities. At the Millers, Mother is boss in the kitchen. Dad is head man in the wood-working shop in the basement. Out on his newspaper route, Jeff, Jr. is king. This is his own business, which he developed from scratch. He buys newspapers and sells them at a profit. It's great fun being one's own boss. But along with the privilege come definite responsibilities. A boy with a business must be punctual, dependable, and honest. He learns that he succeeds in direct proportion to the initiative and effort put forth. Although he probably wouldn't put it in these words, Jeff learns the dignity—and necessity—of hard work and genuine service to others. His parents know that in learning to be his own boss now, Jeff will be a better leader of men tomorrow. That's why they, and thousands of other parents, so thoroughly approve of newspaperboy training.

Brochures describing points of interest in Larkspur were ordered printed. They will be distributed to all members and be available free to the public.

The chamber also decided to join the Marin Visitors Bureau for the first time.

Ike Plans Effort To Prod Solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower soon will send Congress a special message prodding it on unfinished items in his legislative program, such as foreign aid and revision of the minimum wage law.

This was disclosed today by Republican congressional leaders after they met for more than two hours with the President.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) told newsmen the President was "quite concerned" about recommendations made in his State of the Union Message last January and still waiting congressional action.

Dirksen mentioned only foreign aid and revision of the minimum wage law as subjects which might be mentioned in Eisenhower's special message.

Dirksen and Charles A. Halleck, the House GOP leader, said the President had indicated opposition to two bills pending in the House—a measure to raise the pay of federal employes about $1,600,000,000 a year and the so-called emergency home ownership bill coming up in the House tomorrow.

Crazed Father Beats Children

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A 40-year-old auto parts store operator attacked his four children and wife early today with a claw hammer, beating one of the children to death and critically injuring two others.

Walter W. Brass, described by a neighbor as mild-mannered, attacked his family as they slept in their suburban Euclid home. He beat them over the head repeatedly with the steel hammer and then tried unsuccessfully to commit suicide.

Janet Lynn Brass, 3, died about four hours later.

The Community Chest idea began in Cleveland, Ohio.

HE WASN'T IN A HURRY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Thomas A. Callahan, 68, will no doubt have a more modern alibi the next time he visits Jacksonville.

Callahan told the policeman who arrested him before dawn yesterday that he was merely waiting for a streetcar. "There hasn't been a streetcar in this town in 20 years—10 days for vagrancy," Judge John Santora ruled.

Camp Escapee Nabbed By Policeman In L.A.

One of the two inmates who walked away from a San Quentin Prison conservation camp at Weott in Humboldt County on April 16 was captured last night by a police officer in downtown Los Angeles, minutes after the escapee allegedly robbed a supermarket of $2,135 and forced the assistant manager to help him escape.

The escapee, Jack Colevris, 32, of San Francisco, was arrested by officer G. R. Henderson on a downtown street after the patrolman heard the robbery broadcast on his radio and saw the bandit driving his hostage's car, United Press International reported.

Police said Colevris, who escaped April 16 from San Quentin, where he was serving 10 years to life for armed robbery, entered the market carrying a revolver and ordered a clerk to empty all the cash registers.

Colevris then demanded he be taken to assistant manager William E. Larue, 28, of Hawthorne, who was forced to hand over cash from the office safe.

The bandit then ordered Larue to drive him into the downtown area, where he released the hostage and drove away in his car.

Officers said Colevris was suspected of robbing several markets here since his escape from the prison camp.

Associate Warden Walter D. Achuff said Colevris will be tried in Los Angeles and possibly Humboldt County. Achuff said if Colevris is convicted he will probably be sent to Folsom.

The other escapee, still missing, is William Stabler, who had been in prison since 1953 for a robbery conviction in Los Angeles. He was serving a five year-to-life term.

Janis Martin Delights Thursday Music Club

The beauty of Miss Janis Martin, mezzo soprano, combined with her gorgeous voice, charming personality and perfect poise, made her performance last week for the Thursday Musical Club delightful. The program was given at the Kent Woodlands home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Price.

With Miss Peggy Donovan as her piano accompanist, Miss Martin sang in her first group: "Art Thou Troubled" from Rodelinda, Handel, "Qui Sedes Ad Deteram Patris," Bach, and "I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly" from Indian Queen by Henry Purcell.

Next Miss Martin sang three songs by Faure: "Adieu," "Mandoline" and "Les Berccaux." These were followed by seven Gypsy songs by Dvorak, including the favorite, "Songs My Mother Taught Me."

For her fourth group Miss Martin chose "Printemps Qui Commence" from Samson and Delilah, Saint-Saens, "Pres Des Remparts de Seville" from Carmen, Bizet. She concluded her program with "The Day Is No More," John Carpenter, and "Velvet Shoes," Randall Thompson.

For her encore, Miss Martin sang two spirituals arrangements by H. T. Burliegh; "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Chile" and "Ride On, King Jesus."

Mrs. John Wolfe, president, following her greeting to members and guests, announced that the nominating committee had been chosen to select officers for the coming season. On it are Mrs. Russell Smith, chairman, and Mesdames Herbert K. Brainerd and Harvie Freed. Mrs. Cloyd Kimball, program chairman, presented the artists and gave a brief summary of their musical backgrounds.

A tea, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry Drath, followed the program. Assisting her were Mrs. Dudley Miller, co-chairman, and Mesdames Ernest Kirschner, Edward Hindley, Carlo Caletti and Alfred Kuehl.

Presiding at the tea table, which was centered with cream and gold hued carnations and small chrysanthemums, were Mesdames Gus Niederholzer Jr. and Eugene Lloyd.

100 Sausalito Club Guests Hear Talk By Count Marco

A hundred guests swelled the attendance at the Sausalito Woman's Club on Thursday to a "packed house." The guest speaker was Count Marco, San Francisco newspaper columnist, who was presented by Mrs. Robert Scarborough, program chairman.

"Controversial," by his own admission, Count Marco preceeded to tell the audience what is wrong with American women. His pet antipathy, "basic black with pearls," was, by pre-arrangement, much in evidenc as the costume of the day, and worn with tongue in cheek. Count Marco's first barb was to deride women for dressing for the women in their circle rather than for the men in their lives. Most of his remarks were a repitition of those appearing in his column with advice that has been handded down since the time of Eve. "Take good care of your man — the competition is terrific. Avoid the 'morning look'—beware of quarrels over 'tremendous trifles' and, like European women, see to it that home and family are the paramount interests in life." A question and answer period followed the talk and as a finale, Count Marco was forced to admit that he preferred the United States as a place to live.

Several out of town members were seen in the audience. Mrs. Coulter McKeever of St. Helena joined her daughter, Mrs. Jerome Adams; Mrs. William McAfee of Hillsborough was with a "no host" luncheon group at the Alta Mira before the program, and Mrs. William Donaldson (a past president) of Belvedere and Mrs. Clayton Drew of Corte Madera were among the guests at a luncheon given by Mrs. Porter M. Griffith.

Assisting Mrs. L. S. M. Beckett at the reception desk were Mesdames Ernest H. King and John C. Stickney with Mesdames Frank Hogue and Willard A. Hall greeting arrivals.

Mrs. Charles H. Merrill Jr., who did the flower decorations, held to the "theme" by using black calla lilies entwined with pearls for her arrangements.

Mrs. Leonard G. James was tea chairman, and pouring for the large gathering were Mesdames James J. Carroll and Chester I. Dennis.

Lawyers' Wives Of Marin To Stage Style Show May 1

Subpoenas were recently served on the wives of Marin's lawyers. The "Legal Eagles" are not particularly concerned, since Uncle Sam's mailmen were "process servers," and the "writs" were invitations.

Lawyers' Wives of Marin will present a "Belles and Beaux of Yesteryear" fashion show on May 1, which happens to be not only May Day but Law Day in the United States as well.

Mrs. William T. Bagley is chairman of the fashion show, which will feature clothes dating back as far as 1820. Nor will the display be confined to the distaff side, for some leading lights of the Marin bar will parade male fashions of bygone generations.

Champagne will be served at the show, which will be the highlight of the organization's social season. "Witnesses" were ordered by subpoena to be present at the San Rafael Improvement Club between 5 and 7 p.m., then and there to partake of champagne and fun.

The Marin Bar Association and Legal Air Society are co-sponsors of the benefit affair, proceeds from which will assist the legal aid program in Marin County. Legal aid is the chief charitable enterprise of Lawyers Wives of Marin.

Mrs. Muirison K. Taylor is in charge of reservations and was responsible for the original invitations.

Other members of the committee are Mesdames Robert D. Huber, Sydney P Murman and P. Roy Vallarino refreshments; Roger P. Garety, Robert H. Andresen and Hugh Downey, clothes; and John G. Buresh, liaison.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. M. K. Taylor of Corte Madera.

'Crazy Tennis' Tournament Is A Success

So successful was the Mill Valley Tennis Club's recent "Crazy Tennis" tournament that Mrs. Bertram Hirch, tennis chairman, will repeat the tournament this fall.

That is, it will be repeated, Mrs. Hirsch says, if Mrs. Melvin Klyce feels up to bringing order out of chaos a second time. Mrs. Klyce was the "evil genius" who "paired" teams of three on a side and made up the "draw."

Carrying off honors in spite of handicaps were Mesdames John K. Bloom, James S. Reeve, Robert Huber, Warren Hodgdon, Robert Andresen and J. T. Sullivan.

After the clash of racquets died away luncheon was served in the clubhouse. Decorations continued the theme with broken racquet "arrangements," flower pots suspiciously resembling old discarded tennis shoes, and a hugh, old fashioned coffee pot.

Social chairman Mrs. C. Philip Seymour was assisted by Mesdames Lloyd Postel, Huber, Reeve and Sullivan, and Mrs. Klyce by Mesdames Aubrey Harwood and Eugene Crawford.

Presbyterian Women Hear Hall Chaplain

Lowell King, chaplain at Juvenile Hall, was speaker at the recent meeting of United Presbyterian Women.

The program "Our Youth, Our Town, Our Church" was arranged by Mrs. Philip Dickinson, chairman of the Social Education and Action Committee. Mrs. Dickinson spoke briefly at the conclusion of King's address and posed the question "What are we as Presbyterian women going to do about Juvenile Delinquency?"

Mrs. Walter Panholzer gave the devotions.

King, in his talk, referred to the prodigal son parable and said, "What would have happened if, when the prodigal son came to himself and decided to go home, he had seen that his own father was enjoying himself in this same den of iniquity —that his father was as bad or worse than he.

Or if when he got home he had found no one there.

"The story of the prodigal son is not as tragic as the story of most of the young people in Juvenile Hall because, when he came to himself and decided to return home, he had a home to go to and he had an understanding father who not only forgave him but welcomed him back."

Auxiliary Plans Many Activities

Activities to aid needy children of war veterans, and to improve conditions for all children have been emphasized by the American Legion Auxiliary throughout the country during April, Mrs. Jean Lestanguet, Child Welfare chairman of San Anselmo Unit 197, has announced.

Wednesday Market Day Planned For Marin By Northgate Group

Thursday is Market Day at Stow-on-the-Wold, England; Saturday in Ferrarra, Italy In Marin County Wednesday has been established as Market Day when, annually the Northgate Group transforms the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross into an old world market.

For weeks Mrs. Donald Perry, Market Day chairman, her committee, booth committee heads and their co-workers have been laboring to make this year's Market Day—May 18—the biggest and best ever.

Mrs. Winston J. Jones and Mrs. Hammond E. Wright, decor coordinators, have planned a unified scheme to carry out the country market theme—from a surrey at the entrance to the center grounds to the bonneted dairy maids selling eggs and chickens.

Mrs. Ralph Alden's Old Country Store area will include the white elephant booth presided over by Mrs. Walter C Beatie Jr.; the silent auction under the aegis of Mrs. Rafael Dufficy and Mrs. Fred Good; and the book and record booth under the direction of Mrs. John Buresh and Mrs. Leonard DeMartin. It might be added here that, while the books may range from old to the latest best seller, the records won't be Edison cylinders but microgrove for playing on the best hi-fi equipment.

Mrs. Arthur E. Simons and her committee promise a gift booth to compare favorably with the finest boutique anywhere in the world.

For just plain fun and relaxation on Market Day, Mrs. Paul Spengler Jr. and her committee have assembled an assortment of games. Mrs John McGee and Mrs. James E. Barnes, with the help of their green-thum assistants will set up The Potting Shed, featuring slips and plants from Marin's most beautiful gardens. Equally gay will be the hat-blooming tree presided over by Mrs. John C Cummings.

For the comfort of all concerned Mrs. Jack Hunt Jr. will have for sale an assortment of handy decorated shopping bags and Mrs. Harry Koons will provide checking service so that customers may stroll unburdened about the grounds.

And, in addition to the delectable home-made pies, cakes, breaks, cookies, cupcakes and candies for sale, Mrs. Frank Brown and her "Harvey girls" will serve lunch; and Mrs. William Grace will dispense her famed ice cream lovingly made in hand-freezers.

To round out a full day, for "snacking" before or after lunch—or indeed, all day long—the Northgate Juniors, under the supervision of Mrs. A. Barlow Ferguson will sell soda pop, cotton candy, hot dogs and such treats. They'll also have a supply of balloons for sale.

Assisting Mrs. Perry as chairman of the 1960 event is a steering committee including Mesdames Frank Dettner, Philip Nathan, Harvie M. Freed, Walter Baird, and Mrs. Simons.

Posters and signs will be made by Mrs. Fisher Kinslow and Mrs. James Heynemann.

Joanne Willis Ronning Marries Robert E. Long In Mill Valley

A popular Marin couple joined the ranks of the young marrieds on Sunday when Joanne Willis Ronning became the bride of Robert Edwin Long, only son of Mr. and Mrs Edwin Shepard Long of Sausalito.

Joanne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Ronning of Mill Valley, was given in marriage by her father at a single ring, 4 o'clock ceremony at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour Mill Valley. The Rev. D. Murray Hammond officiated at the rites.

Joanne's peau de soie gown had a lace yoke worked with seed pearls and pearlquins. The long skirt had a full bustle and ended in a train with lace applique scattered over the skirt. The finger tip veil fell from a lace coronet seeded with tiny pearls and her bouquet was white tulips. The bride's attendants, in a springtime color scheme, wore identical dresses of jade green chiffon over taffeta, made with three quarter sleeves and tulip skirt; their headdresses were fashioned of ribbon and pearls, with short veils, to match their gowns. They carried nosegays of yellow baby roses. Serving as maid of honor was Miss Sally Lilleston of Mill Valley, with bridesmaids, the Misses Bonnie Reardon and Kathryn Neher, also of Mill Valley and Pamela Powell of San Anselmo. Six year old Suzanne Brown was her cousin's flower girl wearing white organdy eyelet embroidery over jade green taffeta and carrying a tiny basket filled with yellow baby roses.

Bob's best man was Robert Ratti of San Francisco and the three ushers were Stephen De Maeyer of Mill Valley and Robert Ehlers and James Forkin of San Francisco.

Mrs. Ronning chose aqua silk for her daughter's wedding. Made with a portrait neckline and cummerbund midriff with tulip skirt, her shoes and bag were matching in color. Completing her costume was a hat of soft chiffon flowers in pastel pink and mauve. Her flowers were pink cymbidiums.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Long, wore a two piece rose beige tissue taffeta, the skirt pleaed and the jacket styled after Chanel. Her hat was tailored lace over stiffened tulle and her flowers were also pink cymbidiums.

A reception for 150 immediately followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. A white four tiered wedding cake adorned with satin bells was featured. Assisting with the guest book were the bride's cousins, Carolyn Brown of Belvedere, Cynthia Willis of Corte Madera, Nancy Upham of Mill Valley and Beverly and Nancy Wortman of San Francisco.

When leaving by car for Carmel and San Simeon, the new Mrs. Long wore a brown and white checked suit with bone straw hat, shoes and bag. The couple will be at home to friends early in May at 147 West Blithedale, Mill Valley.

Joanne was graduated from Tamalpais High School and Bob's high school alma mater is Madrin Catholic; both attended College of Marin. The bride is affiliated with Job's Daughters and Bob is a member of Native Sons and a reservist in the Air Force. He is employed at Pacific Telephone in San Francisco.

The couple's engagement was announced on Christmas day in 1958 and recently there have been many parties in their honor. Joanne's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ronning of San Bruno and Mr. Harold G. Willis and the late Mrs. Willis of Healdsburg. Bob is the grandson of the late Capt. and Mrs. Edwin C. Long and the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McAlister.

Show Will Honor St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild

Take a memo, Miss Jones! Address it to the Modern Mother.

If you are this modern mother, then Fashion Focus will be sending you a special memo next Tuesday at Rickey's popular fashion luncheon.

It will be fashionable "Memo's to a Modern Mother" who regardless of age feels young, thinks young and offers fresh, youthful ideas to her community.

Refreshing symbol of the modern mother who successfully combines homemaking with service to her church and community is Tuesday's honored group, the Saint Raphael's Mothers' Guild. They look back on 32 successful years coordinating the spiritual and educational forces of the home and school in a program of child training.

Tuesday's memo's might say "Always Bright Color," "Be Pretty by the Pool" or "Make Mine for Men." They'll be short, sweet and to the point of spring fashion. Look marvelous!

Showing the marvelous ways to look and be eight attractive mothers, all members of St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild, delightfully outfitted for a busy schedule from Mother's Day through summer by a San Rafael shop.

The usual memo of the modern mother "Have Hair, What to do?" will be answered by a san Rafael salon of beauty with hair styles bound for carpooling or dinner dancing.

The popular luncheon series is open to the public, with luncheon served at 12:30 and reservations made by calling Rickey's.

O'Donnell-Jackowski Rites Held In Tiburon

An 11 o'clock nuptial Mass Saturday morning at St. Hilary's in Tiburon united in marriage Jean Jackowski of Mill Valley and Francis P. O'Donnell of Narbeth, Pa.

White chyrsanthemums adorned the altar when the Rev. John J. O'Brien performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 100 guests.

The bride recited her vows wearing a floor length white silk brocade gown fashioned with very full skirt and fitted bodice having a high scoop neckline and three-quarter sleeves.

A coronet of orange blossoms held her shoulder length veil, and her flowers were a cascade of lilies of the valley and phalaenopsis orchids. She was given in marriage by her father, Michael L. Jackowski of Mill Valley.

The maid of honor, Judy Crillo of San Francisco, and the bride's junior bridesmaid, Jean's only sistter, Elaine, were dressed alike in gowns of pink chiffon over taffeta having scoop necklines, elbow length sleeves and gathered skirts with cummerbunds. Their headdresses were bandeaux of pink leaves, and they carried bouquets of pink tulips.

Serving the bridegroom, whose parents are both deceased, as best man, was Stanley Barnickel of Costa Mesa, Calif., and the bride's two uncles, Alvin Kahnberg and John McWilliams, both of Sacramento, escorted guests to their seats.

Mrs. Jackowski attended her daughter's wedding in a royal blue print silk dress, pink hat and gloves, and wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

Standards of croft lilies and other white flowers flanked the receiving line as the newly married pair greeted guests at a reception in the Alta Mira Hotel following their marriage.

When the bride left for a two weeks' honeymoon at an undisclosed destination, she was wearing an aqua Irish linen sheath, beige coat, cage veil and gloves and black patent shoes.

The O'Donnells will live in Carmel, since the bridegroom is employed as a correctional officer with the department of corrections at Soledad, Calif. He is an alumnus of La Salle College and received his master's degree in psychology from Fordham University.

The new Mrs. O'Donnell was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and attended Hunter College in New York City, where she was also employed at the Institute of Life Insurance.

Take Time To Inspect Our Investment In Our Youth

Each year about this time, the public schools of the county invite parents and taxpayers to visit the schools and inspect the way in which their money is being spent.

This is no idle gesture. This is a serious attempt on the part of school officials to demonstrate to both their supporters and their critics just what they are trying to do, and how they are trying to do it.

It should be much more than just going to school to see little Johnny in a skit or inspecting the dress that Mary made in the sewing class. Neither should it be a time of meeting the teacher or trying to get Henry's D raised to a C.

It should, instead, be a visit by mature, adult stockholders in our nation's most important industry to their factories. In these workrooms are formed the future. There the ingredients which go into the final product are poured together. There our nation's youth are shaped.

It is important whether the final product is good or bad. As stockholders each of us should be concerned with the general conditions of our great organization. As parents, many of us are even more interested in specific models of the general product.

In any event all of us should be willing to take some time to inspect our factories. Especially is this true if we stockholders are inclined to be critical.

Sometimes a critic will find that the thing of which he is most critical already has been corrected, and that the evil he remembers is a thing of the past.

Sometimes a visit by a critic may provide him with a practical experience in why things are done as they are which will make his suggestion more practical for the school authorities. Good ideas from laymen sometimes are tossed aside as impractical when in fact a modest revision of the proposal might make it acceptable, even embraced.

There are educators who feel they are trained to do their job and a layman "just can't know what he's talking about." We hope this type is on the decrease.

However, we do know that most school people are looking for suggestions which will help them do a better job.

Why not visit your school and see if you can be one to improve our investment?

A Flower For The Heart

Pretty bells of purple and white foxgloves with their speckled throats are blooming again on serene spikes in Marin gardens.

It is strange to think that someday our very lives may depend on the leaves from this handsome plant. Yet, it may be the case. They are a powerful, yet reasonably safe, heart stimulent. Another name for foxglove is its scientific one of Digitalis, which is the name of the medicine. Drug firms have succeeded in synthesizing the active drug in these leaves, but it is interesting that in some cases physicians believe the leaves themselves in pill form are better.

Digitalis is an old world plant which has gone wild and become naturalized in some parts of America, particularly Northern California and Oregon. It seems to thrive among the ferns under the redwood and bay trees.

As a flower and as a medicine, it gladdens the hearts of a number of Marinites.

MAN CREATED TO BUILD, NOT DESTROY

Vandals smashed 3,350 windows on the New Haven Railroad last year. It cost about $40 apiece to replace them.

The record was set in Stamford, Conn., when 54 car windows were broken in one day.

Destructive as human beings may be at times, they are going against their very nature when they give vent to their baser impulses.

Man is made by God to build, not destroy. He approaches true happiness only by being creative, never by being destructive.

Vandals who smash windows probably do it as a mischievous prank. And while they may experience a momentary, perverted pleasure in shattering the property of others, they likewise sense something of the degredation that takes place in themselves.

If they were meted out a punishment that compelled them to destroy, day after day, they would eventually do such harm to themselves that they might go mad.

"What a man sows, that he will also reap."

Grant, O Father, that I can find happiness only in being creative, not destructive.

To Make Your Boss Happy, Just Skip These Tired Old Remarks

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that bosses get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"You may be king of the roost in your office, but this is not your office. This is your home."

"The employees' grievance committee wants to see you. It's about the water cooler again."

"If I had an expense account like yours, Mr. Foogle, I wouldn't have to ask you for a raise."

"Your wife says that, conference or no conference, she has to talk to you this very minute."

"I hate to be an office snitch, J. P., but if you knew that your vice president is saying behind your back you'd—"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Every Citizen Is Murderer

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

This morning, April 22, at 10 a.m., every citizen of California committed murder.

In our name, the state killed a man at San Quentin. Killed him in the very way the law itself considers the most heinous of all methods of killing — with premeditation. With extended, precise preparations, absolutely cold-blooded, impersonal.

For this man, life is now over. But the rest of us must live with the guilt of our share of participation in his death.

We now face participation in another official killing to be done in our names by the state on May 2 — the scheduled execution of Caryl Chessman. This can be stopped by a concentration of letters and wires by groups and individuals to both Gov. Brown and the justices of the State Supreme Court.

The degree of guilt, the character of the condemned, is not the issue. The issue is capitol punishment which by its very nature involves us all in murder.

I urge every citizen to sign the petitions now being circulated which would place the whole issue of capitol punishment on the ballot this next election. In this way every citizen of California can vote unequivocably on whether or not official murder can be done in his name.

No Honor With White Supremacy

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

British newspapers (I should say some British newspapers) are inclined to call the South Africans' rising call for independence a "self-inflicted wound" for their position "which might not be healed for generations."

Rather, I think, the governing policy of tyrannical white supremacy is a self-inflicted wound by that governing body, which disclaims any place of honor in the eyes of any free people.

FEPC Finding Discrimination Not Solely Prerogative Of Caucasians

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Fair Employment Practices Commission, the new state bureaucracy created by the Legislature at the heighth of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's popularity, is now finding out that discrimination is not wholly the prerogative of the Caucasian race.

In its most recent report to the governor, the commission cited a case in which a Negro waitress was "refused consideration" for employment by a drug-store, the part-owner of which was of Oriental ancestry.

Later, and after the commission gestapo took up the case, the Oriental drug-store owner hired the waitress, after disclaiming original discrimination. The pattern is, of course, that it's usually been easy for government officials to frighten members of another race.

ANOTHER PECULIAR instance was outlined in the report. A Caucasian cook, dispatched by his union to a restaurant job, stated he was rejected by the Caucasian employer on the ground that only Chinese cooks were used. This case hasn't been disposed of as yet, but is currently "under investigation."

It will be interesting to find out what the disposition of the case finally is. If the FEPC holds that discrimination existed, then it will be trodding on the toes of a restaurant employer who obviously wants to serve up Chinese food to his customers. If it hold that no discrimination existed, then it will be tacitly admitting that the fair employment practices act was adopted solely for the benefit of races other than Caucasion. This admission, of course, would make the act more unconstitutional than it already is, as all people are supposed to have "equal justice under the law." At least, this is the slogan on the United States Supreme Court Building in Washington, D.C.

SOME OF THE COSTS of the new bureaucracy are interesting, when compared with some of the other services the state provides.

For instance, on the basis of the commission's budget for the current fiscal year, the average cost of investigating a single case averages about $1,250. In other words, when the commission receives a complaint, the taxpayers of the state are required to provide $1,250 for investigation, writing a report, and eventually disposing of the case.

On the other hand, it costs most of the state college only around $900 to provide a college education for a student for an entire school year!

AND AGAIN from figures out of the state budget, it costs the state less to house and feed inmates at Folsom and San Quentin Prisons for an entire year than it does for the FEPC to investigate one case!

The FEPC report indicates that business is picking up. It states that since the operation started last September, a cumulative total of 162 complaints have been filed. But, the report points out, nearly half of the cases filed were handed the commission in the past two months.

Of course, as the bureaucracy grows, so will the number of cases, as the commission must have enough business to justify its total employees and see that the division grows and grows!

STILL 30% CLOSED

Congress Doing Better On Committee Secrecy

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Congress has barred the press and public from three of every 10 committee meetings so far this year.

A Congressional Quarterly survey covering the first three months of 1960 shows that 287, or 30 per cent, of 952 committee sessions have been held behind closed doors. This represents a decline from the 32 per cent secrecy ratio recorded for the same period in 1959. During the first three months of 1958, the figure was 33 per cent.

Since virtually all legislation is hammered into shape by Senate and House committees before it is cleared for floor debate, many critics of secrecy in government contend that closed-door sessions hide an important part of the legislative process from the public.

THE PRESIDENT of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, J. R. Wiggins, hailed the decline in committee secrecy since 1954, when closed meetings accounted for 41 percent of the total, but said the percentage could be reduced still further.

Wiggins, who also is vice president and executive editor of the Washington Post, said:

"Congress always has been the most openly conducted of the three branches of the federal government and it should be. Altogether too many committee meetings were conducted behind closed doors a few years ago and it is gratifying to note the number is diminishing. The number can be further reduced, I am convinced, if the committee meetings are conducted in the spirit of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946."

THE CQ SECRECY survey is based on a day-to-day tally of committee meetings as reported in the Congressional Record. The 1946 Legislative Reorganization Act requires that a list of committee meetings and hearings be published daily in the Record.

Of the committees reporting 30 or more meetings so far in 1960, House Ways and Means showed the highest secrecy percentage. The committee, which goes over thorny tax legislation and social security measures, preferred to work in private 76 percent of the time, closing 29 of 38 reported meetings.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee closed 35 of 51 meetings (69 percent) and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee closed 16 of its 32 sessions (50 percent). Both groups hear secret testimony from government officials and military leaders on the world situation.

Not included in the secrecy study were the meetings of the busy House Appropriations Committee, which holds all of its meetings in closed session and reports none of them in the Record. The Appropriations subcommittees prefer to go over budget requests in private because of limited office space. Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) also feels that public hearings tend to be more drawn out.

Press photographers are a tough-skinned breed and let nothing stand in their way when they're after a picture. When Khrushchev visited San Francisco last fall a lens lion became embroiled in a battle with a butcher. "What was it about?" asked a colleague later. "He got sore about nothing," protested the photog. "I was just standing in his meat on the counter."

In the crush, another photog. climbed over a recumbent female. "She's fainted," a reporter pointed out. "Either that," said the photog., adjusting his lens, "or she's on sale."

Many College Of Marin Students Needing Remedial English

College of Marin trustees pondering the problem of student difficulties with the subject of English fired some sharp criticisms recently at the faculty's ability to use the language.

Trustee Robert E. Oliver complained: "I am particularly disturbed by the material I get from the scholarship committee. It is always particularly abrupt and most cryptic and difficult to understand."

Said college vice president Paul Clymer, chairman of the scholarship committee: "We can write longer minutes."

Retorted Oliver: "Maybe clearer is what I am talking about. I would like to understand it."

THE TRUSTEE'S comment was prompted by a brief communique from the English department and scholarship committee recommending dropping "the present English 50-52 six-unit arrangement" and substituting "English X, five hours per week for three units, covering the same kind of material now included in English 50-52."

After learning that this meant that students very dificient in English would carry a lighter load of "subremedial English" next fall, the trustees okayed the recommendation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Deedy inquired whether the catalog wording for English X would be the "same high flown expression as you have for English 50 and 52." E. Dewart Lewis, chairman of the Department of English, said the description would be rewritten.

ENGLISH 50, in the catalog, is now described this way:

"Introductory Communication. Training and practice in communication. Special emphasis is placed upon increasing the student's ability to read rapidly, effectively and critically and to express himself in speaking and writing."

Commented Mrs. Deedy:

"Why don't we say a spade is a spade . . . and say we are doing basic English, sentence structure, grammar."

Mrs. Deedy—who has frequently voiced her concern at student deficiencies in English—also took a few "diplomatic" swipes at the teachers handling the remedial English classes.

"It takes a certain kind of person who can work effectively and willingly with these students . . . some of you eminent scholars find it a chore," she observed.

It's interesting to note the college English department's attitude toward remedial courses. Said instructor Cornelius B. Weber: "Remedial is the key word. The English department here regards it as meaning the kind of course in which minor surgery is performed . . . deficiencies are removed."

A REMEDIAL student, then, is defined by the English department as one with minor deficiencies.

But of 383 students taking the required Subject A examination in English last fall at College of Marin, only 70 passed. There were, then, 313 students with these "minor deficiencies"—313 who were required to take remedial courses.

And of these 313, 252 were so low that they were forced to take two "subremedial" courses, six units and six hours per week for one semester.

The change in requirements will ease the load somewhat for these students with "minor deficiencies," but it isn't going to change the number of students who are deficient in English.

And the number is despairingly and sadly large.

AS THE COLLEGE'S English department chairman (Lewis) reported, nearly all the entering College of Marin students expect to fail the Subject A examination. Most high school teachers he has talked to are never surprised at the large numbers who fail.

Subject A, according to Lewis, is a performance test and a safer guide to estimate students' capabilities in English than other tests.

But, asks Mrs. Deedy, if it is the best instrument to determine performance, "What of the number of students who cannot pass the test — and many high school people have told me they can't ever do it—are they doomed before they start?

Perhaps the answer, as suggested by a trustee of one Marin school district, is to work out a new coordinated program of English, kindergarten through high school—and examine present methods of teaching English with a sharply critical eye.

Certainly no school should sit back and placidly accept the fact that many of its students are going to fail the Subject A examination.

Breast Feeding Best For Baby, And Has Advantages For Mother

"I'm flat where I should have curves," writes a mother-to-be. "I'm afraid I won't be able to nurse my baby. However, I want to try.

"I have several questions. Do psychologists still say breast feeding is best? How can a mother who nurses her baby tell how much he is eating? When can a baby be weaned? Doesn't breast feeding tie a mother down?"

Your lack of curves does not mean you'll be unable to nurse your baby. A good many amply curved mothers can't nurse their babies, while many flat-chested ones can.

Why? I don't know. Talk with your doctor about it.

Most psychologists feel breast feeding is better. Bottle babies get along all right if they're loved, comforted and cuddled while eating. They must have the right formula too.

Mothers who breast feed their babies needn't worry about how much their little ones eat. Their babies stop when they're satisfied. Their food is the best. They let their mothers know when they don't get enough.

The time of weaning varies greatly. Some mothers start meaning when their babies are only two or three months old. Others wait until they're ready to drink from a cup. The wise rule is not to rush weaning.

Breast feeding needn't tie a mother down. Most babies can become accustomed to an occasional bottle when their mothers are away. When they're taken places mothers don't have to carry along bottles, sterilizing equipment and formula. That's a blessing.

The thieves knocked Coram down, grabbed the wrong bag and sped out of town in a fast car.

Fishing Limit Fails

GENEVA (AP)—The World Maritime Conference failed by a single vote today to set a new universal limit for territorial waters and exclusive fishing rights.

The conference voted 54-28 in favor of a Canadian-American proposal for a six-mile limit to territorial waters, with nations to have exclusive fishing rights for six more miles beyond their territorial waters after 1970.

The proposal was rejected because it failed to obtain the necessary two-thirds majority.

Present limit is three miles.

'Copter Company Plans Taxi Service

A helicopter company is ready to open a Marin-to-San Francisco air-taxi business "right now" if an appropriate landing and take off spot can be found in or near San Rafael.

The company interested in setting up a commercial helicopter service from Marin to San Francisco International Airport is the Bay Aviation Services Co., headed by Ed Gough of San Francisco. Gough's firm runs the executive aircraft terminal at the San Francisco Airport and Oakland Air Motor at the Oakland Airport. It provides copter service to Candlestick Park when the Giants are playing at home.

H. L. (Buck) Rogers, who says he saw the Wright Brothers take off at Kitty Hawk in 1903, was in town yesterday to look for a helicopter site near San Rafael. Rogers is in charge of ticketing for the Bay Aviation Services Co.

Rogers gave these figures on what a 'copter taxi service would mean for the Marin businessman:

Present plans call for a chopper with space for three passengers at one time. Each passenger would be allowed up to 40 pounds of baggage. The ride to San Francisco would take about 20 minutes. Fare would be $22.50 per person one way.

Eventually, Rogers said the company may be able to cut the cost if volume increases sufficiently.

Richard L. Shirley, manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, accompanied Rogers on a tour of Marin yesterday, looking for possible sites. Shirley said the new civic center site area may be able to accommodate the helicopter service a few years from now.

They also inspected the Loch Lomond area for a possible site.

The company wants to start the service immediately.

"We're ready to go in 24 hours if we can find the space," said Rogers.

Rogers, now 75, has been an aircraft fan ever since Dec. 17, 1903, when the first airplane took off for a short flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. He recalls he and his grandfather went home and immediately built a three-wing airplane with bamboo and linen.

"I got it off the ground," says Rogers. But not very far. The engine fell out, and Rogers crashed and suffered a broken arm. His mother immediately marched out and lit a match to the plane.

His second plane flew from Pennsylvania to California in 33 days, Rogers recalls. That was about 1906 or 1907. His grandfather drove ahead in a car, and Rogers had to do some fast flying to keep up with the car.

During World War I, Rogers piloted an observer plane for the French and recalls matching his rifle against a German pilot and his pistol in an air-to-air exchange.

Later on, when a machine gun was installed in his plane, Rogers says he shot about four inches off the propeller because the machine gun was not synchronized with the propeller.

He later worked as movie cowboy and stunt man. Rogers says his brother, the late Navy Cmdr. Charles Rogers, wrote a book about him entitled, "The Life of Buck Rogers."

Rogers claims that he and his brother were the first to own an airport in California. That was in Los Angeles.

STRANGE SYSTEM

Giraffe's Long Windpipe Triggers Scientific Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—A giraffe's nostrils are way up there but its lungs are down here. That is an outline of a giraffe puzzle which has been agonizing the scientific minds of psysiologists since the first encounter between such a scientist and this implausible beast.

The only place breathed-in air serves any purpose is in the lungs. But in the giraffe the distance between where the air goes in and where it is used can be as much as 11 feet. All of this long, long windpipe is "dead space" which the giraffe must keep filled with air.

Physiologically it is an unlikely arrangement and, theoretically, an impossible one. No one has ever seen a giraffe bothered by it, however, and science has had to accept that it works. This explains the avid curiosity with which three scientists seized upon the chance to look into a giraffe.

A deceased giraffe called Hi Hat, late inmate of the Royal Oak (Mich.) Zoo, had a tragic death. Her babe died soon after its birth and Hi Hat became depressed, lost her appetite, and died three weeks later from no apparent cause.

Almost everyone believed she had died of a broken heart. The physiological scientists, Drs. Eugene D. Robin, Joseph M. Corson and Gustave J. Dammin, failed to confirm that in their microscopic examinations, they said. Cause of death is unknown.

But their principal interest was in Hi Hat's lungs and long, long windpipe which they removed and fixed in formaldehyde. For comparison purposes they obtained the lungs and windpipe of a man and those of a cow

The comparison showed that the volume of air required to fill the "dead space" windpipe of the giraffe was well over four times that required for the cow's windpipe and more than nine times that required by a man's.

The capacity of the giraffe's lungs to draw in air was two and a half times greater than that of the cow's and about eight times that of the man's. This suggested part of the explanation, and the weight of giraffe lungs was twice that of the cow's although in total body weights the animals are comparable.

Microscopic examinations showed that giraffe lung tissue was thicker than cow's or man's, and contained a heavy network of elastic fibers which, the scientists reported to the technical journal Nature, was "admirably suited for the extra work that might be required to ventilate a large dead space."

You Needn't Speak English To Get License

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Giuseppe doesn't speak English very well, but he is a pretty good driver — good enough to qualify for a driver's license, if he wasn't for that language barrier.

Yet that won't stop Giuseppe. He'll get a license even if the driver's examination has to be given him in his native Italian. The examiner also may employ phonograph records, flash cards and toy cars.

This year about 60,000 Californians are expected to take similar tests in 100 Motor Vehicle Dept. offices around the state. All but a comparative few will pass.

"And it's surprising how few who pass have accidents," says a veteran examiner. "They know they've had a rough time getting a license. They appreciate it. And they know how fast they can lose it if they do something wrong."

Some of those taking the tests, like Giuseppe, are fluent only in their native tongues—which may be anything from Hungarian to Chinese. Others are native Americans with bare literacy.

Allowing drivers to be licensed despite a lack of fluency in English is not new. What is new is California's use of phonograph records to do it, begun on a full-scale basis in 1958 and since copied by several states.

The records—aimed at standardizing and speeding up testing — are used in special oral examinations which substitute for written tests on driving rules given regular license applicants.

Much the same questions which appear on the written tests are spoken on the records, slowly and with precise articulation. Applicants mark "true" or "false" on examination blanks and pick out road signs mentioned by the recorded voice.

If he fails the test, an applicant doesn't necessarily flunk the examination. He may understand driving regulations perfectly, but not understand the record.

The recorded voice for instance, directs an applicant to "look over the sheet until you come to a sign which means stop."

A French speaking applicant may well know that a traffic sign marked "stop" means "arrete" in his language, even though he can't understand the English directions used on the record.

In separate interviews with each applicant, the examiner—who may speak several languages — may determine this, principally by the use of small flash cards carrying replicas of road signs.

The examiner also may use toy cars placed on make-believe highways to find out whether the applicant knows the rules of the road.

If the applicant can readily identify road signs by sight — explaining them either in his native language or English — and does indeed know traffic laws, he'll be passed, and take a driving test.

Scouts To Get Awards Tonight

Ron Turner will be given an Eagle Scout award and Dennis Moody will be presented with a Star Scout award at a joint court of honor of Novato's Troop 56 of the Explorer Scouts tonight at 8 o'clock at Hill School.

According to Scoutmaster Ancil Moody and Explorer advisor Richard Beebe, plans are under way to make the joint court of honor an annual event during Boy Scout Week.

WORST DISASTER

18 Years Ago Today, 1,500 Died In Mine

TOKYO (AP)— A series of tremendous explosions ripped through the Honktiko colliery in Manchuria April 26, 1942.

Five days later Manchuria's Japanese puppet government announced in a communique there were "not a few victims."

This was a laconic summary of the greatest mine disaster in the history of the world. More than 1,500 men, chiefly Chinese and Manchurian coolies, had perished.

The Japanese military, whose was machine was being fed by the Honkeiko colliery and the industries in the area, did not want the rest of the world to know what happened.

RIGID CENSORSHIP

A rigid censorship was imposed. And when Japan was defeated in 1945, much of the story of the Honkeiko disaster went up in the smoke of burned documents and papers.

This story can be pieced together:

The colliery was situated in a great industrial section of southeastern Manchuria near Fushun. It was operated by the semi-government Manchurian Heavy Industries Corp., which developed Manchuria for Japan.

The government communique said the accident occurred in the lower stratum of the Ryuto pit.

RESCUE SQUADS

"As soon as the accident occurred, the company organized rescue squads and made the utmost effort to prevent a spread of the disaster," it said.

"At present, reconstruction is proceeding smoothly. Coal mine operations were partially resumed on April 30. A complete resumption on the scale preceding the accident is expected soon. No damage whatsoever was done to the iron works."

That was the official version.

But recently, Zoroku Hatakeyama, 67, managing director of the colliery at the time told his story in an interview.

HISTORY

Hatakeyama, now chairman of the board of the Mining Welfare Facilities Construction Co., said:

"The Honkeiko colliery was a very rich mine, producing 80,000 to 100,000 tons a month of top grade coking coal.

"We employed over 10,000 Manchurian and Chinese coolies. None was slave labor. They all came on their own free will for the wages we paid.

"I don't remember the exact number of casualties. I think 1,538 seems to be accurate. The 1960 World Almanac lists 1,549 killed. All of them, except for about 30 Japanese foremen, were Chinese and Manchurian.

FIRST EXPLOSION

"The first explosion occurred in the lowest passage. Gas leaked out from some cleavage and was ignited by pick sparks. A very violent explosion took place.

"The gas explosion precipitated several cave-ins. At one cave-in an iron cable was cut, producing sparks. Another explosion occurred.

"Then the fire spread and caught coal dust in the underground air. There was a series of monstrous explosions everywhere.

"Autopsies showed about 300 miners were killed by the blasts.

"Others could have been saved, if they had not rushed out to main horizontal passages. Those who chose to sit out the explosions in their galleries were rescued."

Well Aged

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A newly discovered relic of the prohibition era now decorates the back bar of Salvatore John's Tavern.

Workmen remodeling the place found a four-foot metal tank fitted neatly into a wall.

John, who leased the tavern two years ago, had no idea how it got there. But inspection of the tank disclosed that it contained five gallons of truly ancient moonshine and apparently had been cached there about 35 years ago.

Study Indicates Schools Should Put More Stress On Three L's

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California high schools need to give more attention to three L's—libraries, laboratories and to an extent, languages — a partially complete survey indicates.

Frank B. Lindsay chief of the state Bureau of Secondary Education, said the survey showed that about 70 per cent of the state's high schools generally do a good job

These schools have made big strides recently, he feels, in the teaching of history, geography, mathematics and physics.

About 30 per cent of the high schools have weaknesses which need correction, Lindsay said.

The accreditation survey by the California Assn of Secondary School Administrators has been in operation for three years. Up to now, 207 of the state's 589 high schools have been visited by five-man teams of teachers, administrators and college professors.

Lindsay admitted that the program had "bogged down" somewhat during the current year, but he predicted an upturn next year in the number of schools applying for accreditation.

"I think it inevitable that unless the high schools cooperate, the Legislature will impose some compulsory accreditation," he said. "It's going to be essential that the public know where their schools are falling down and where they're doing well."

Lindsay said that academic shortcomings seemed to fall within these categories:

LIBRARIES: "Our best students aren't being trained to use the school library—something which they'll have to do in college.

"Libraries are not acquiring always the new books they need to keep abreast. Teachers have not stood on their hind legs and yelled about it."

LABORATORIES: "In all too many instances there's not enough time in a class period for laboratory work in the sciences. By the time you get the apparatus set up, there's no time for experimentation.

"Provision ought to made for students to use laboratories before and after school, or possibly on Saturdays as they do with the laboratories at Lowell and Mission High Schools in San Francisco."

LANGUAGES: "There is a shortage of classes in senior high school for students who have begun accelerated foreign language studies in grade school or junior high It's going to take the college and high school teachers working together to decide on a smooth program."

Lindsay said a teachers' conference has been scheduled June 20-30 in Santa Barbara to outline a six-year program of foreign language instruction, beginning in the seventh grade.

The accreditation survey shows "every cause for optimism about California high schools," Lindsay said, especially in these areas:

HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY: "High schools are trying as never before to teach up-to-date courses. They're realizing that our youngsters need to know more about the underdeveloped nations. World history and geography are getting revamped now in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland — and very soon, in Contra Costa County."

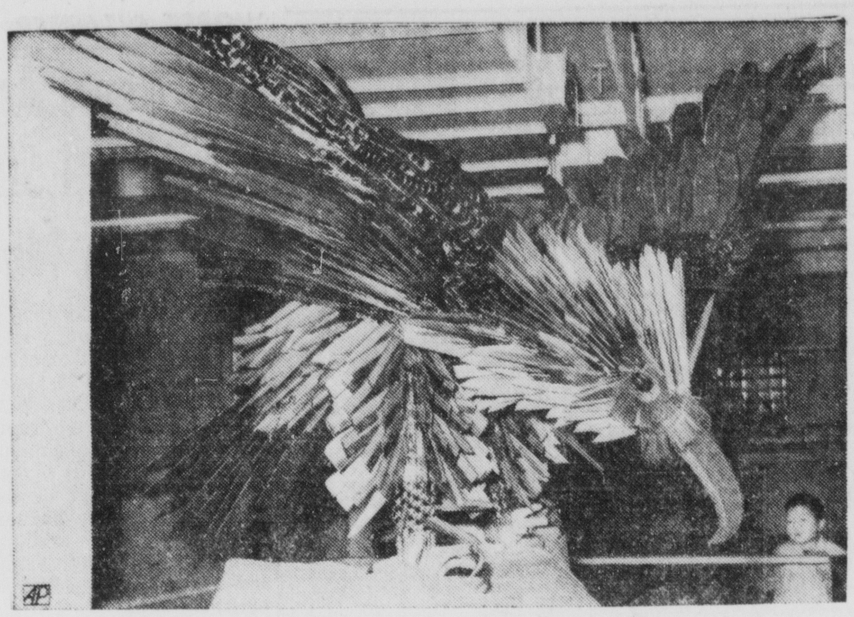
MATHEMATICS: "There are two big changes The first was developed at the University of Illinois and is being tried out now in Palo Alto, Santa Barbara and Berkeley. The emphasis is on finding the pattern behind the set of figures in algebra, say, or geometry—not on memorization.

"The second method came from Yale University and is being used widely in Santa Clara County. Briefly, it groups together solid and plane geometry and tends to de-emphasize trigonometry in favor of probability, and statistics in a mild way."

PHYSICS: "A new approach developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology offers less dissection of gas engines and steam engines and more emphasis on basic principles. Two of our teachers trained in this course at MIT from San Diego County, are going to teach the course to 30 other teachers this summer, so the idea will spread."

"DATING" COURSES: "The 'dating' courses are becoming less frequent—and I hope they become even less so. Social living is an objective to be achieved in the schools, but not something to be formerly taught."

PARENTS: "More parents than ever before are concerned about what the schools are doing. Ten years ago, teachers would talk till they were blue in the face, and still they could not persuade parents to have their youngsters sign up for algebra."



THIS EAGLE'S A SHARP BIRD

This "steel eagle" probably produced many a bloody finger prior to its completion for a Tokyo department store display. The bird, which took a week to make, is composed of hardware: Saws, knives, sickles and a hatchet beak.

Tidelot Filling Meets Protest

One objection has been filed against proposed dredging and filling of tidelots in Richardson Bay by Tom E. Nowell, 360 Pine Hill road, Mill Valley.

George Kappas, San Francisco, who owns adjacent property, has sent an objection to the Army Corps of Engineers in San Francisco, saying the proposed work would infringe on his property.

An Engineers' officer reported the corps would attempt to settle the matter through mediation.

The property is located toward the bay from the Northwestern Pacific tracks and immediately east of the Highway 101 bridge across the bay.

Dr. Josiah Bartlett, a physician, was first governor of the state of New Hampshire, taking office in 1792.

Winter Lingers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather still clung to extreme northern portions of the country today but elsewhere spring showers fell over large areas of the Pacific Northwest, the Great Lakes region and the Southwest.

Snow or snow flurries whitened the Plains States along the Canadian border and in the upper Mississippi Valley, ranging from a trace to two inches at Bemidji, Minn. Temperature readings were in the 20s in North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming.

Marin Fair To Offer Record Prize Money

Almost $14 000 in more than 550 state money prizes will be offered to exhibitors at the 15th annual Marin Art and Garden Fair, to be held in Ross June 30 through July 4.

This is a record sum for awards in the county event, with prizes ranging from $1 to $400 for a single entry, according to Marcelle B. McCoy, fair manager.

The premium list booklet, containing rules, judging information and full descriptions of exhibits and their prizes was mailed yesterday. Copies may be obtained at the fair office at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

2nd Sausalito Fire Linked To Break-In

Heirlooms Missing After Flames Doused In House

Fire broke out and a burglary was uncovered at the home of Robert L. Spiegl and R. John Hutchings at 156 Harrison street, Sausalito, at 4:35 p.m. yesterday—just 16 hours after a fire and burglary at Bauman Brothers and Dick Miller Associates shop at Sausalito yacht harbor.

Spiegl said today that at least $2,000 worth of heirlooms belonging to Dr. Hutchings were burned in the fire. He estimated that about $500 worth of personal items were stolen. These included such things as a portable typewriter, camera, overnight bag, binoculars and a clock radio.

There was also, Spiegl said, smoke damage to the basement storeroom where the fire took place, as well as loss in family books and papers belonging to Dr. Hutchings.

ARSON PROBE

Fire Chief Mathew J. (Matts) Perry said it looked as if someone had entered the home, gone upstairs to pick up some articles out of Spiegl's bedroom, taken the articles and, then upon leaving, dropped a match or a cigarette into the books in the basement storeroom. He said an arson investigation was under way today.

"We're going to comb the neighborhood," Perry said.

Police Chief Howard Goerndt said his department also has started an investigation. On an initial investigation, he said, it was hard to tell whether a forced entry was made since firemen had to break a door to get in to fight the fire in what is called the old Shoobert house. (The home was once owned by Fanny Shoobert, who now lives in San Anselmo.)

DISCOVERS FIRE

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Tom Mathews of 148 Harrison street at about 4:30 p.m.

"It was lucky the neighbor next door spotted the smoke," Perry said, "or there wouldn't be anything left of the house." There was no one home at the time.

Perry said there was nothing highly inflammable, such as paint cans or oil rags, in the storeroom.

Spiegl, an employee of Schwabacher-Frey Co., San Francisco stationers, said many of the items destroyed were "personal property very hard to be evaluated in money."

The firemen had the fire under control in 10 minutes.

Chief Goerndt said today that "we are sure that it was burglary at the Bauman Brothers and Dick Miller Associates shop at the yacht harbor, but we don't know if the fire was set to cover up for it."

The fire, which was estimated to have caused $45,000 in damage, broke out early yes-

DONALD D. LEISTER

Ross Trustees Select New Schools Chief

Ross School Board members last night chose a new superintendent for the district: Donald D. Leister, 29, now principal of a school in San Jose.

He will replace Stephen Parodi, who will move to the San Anselmo School District as superintendent on July 1.

Leister now is principal of Jefferson School in the San Jose Unified School District. He has been with the district for six years and has been principal for three years.

Leister and his wife, Shirley, have three young sons.

He is a graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara, received his master's degree from San Jose State College, and took further graduate work at Stanford University.

He served with the 11th Airborne Division in Japan from 1946 to '48, and in Korea in 1950-'51.

Leister was chosen by the board from more than 70 candidates. Final selection was made from five candidates whom the board chose for interviews.

Parodi has been superintendent for eight years. Previously he was principal of Park School in Mill Valley.

De Gaulle To Visit Here Tomorrow On Bay Tour

French President Charles de Gaulle will be a brief Marin County visitor tomorrow afternoon.

After receiving a gay and tumultuous spring-day greeting with ticker tape in New York this morning after his second trans-Atlantic arrival—the first was in 1945 when he came as provisional president at the war's end—he will fly into San Francisco International Airport at 11:50 a.m. tomorrow aboard an Air Force jet from Washington.

San Francisco hopes to provide even more ticker tape and all-around fun during de will include a crowded sched-Gaulle's two-day stay, which will include a crowded schedule of receptions, interviews and tours.

Plans include a bay tour from Sausalito starting about 4 p.m. tomorrow.

He will drive across the Golden Gate Bridge to the Army Engineers' dock, board a Coast Guard vessel and see Marin's green hills from the water—along with such other details as San Francisco, Alcatraz and Angel Islands and the East Bay.

Just how visibility will be is still uncertain with slightly discouraging word of a small storm due to bring intermittent rain tomorrow.

In Manhattan, greetings included playing of the Marsellaise by chimes of famed Old Trinity Church, while the 6-feet-4 de Gaulle stood in an open limousine and beamed on the crowds in spring sunshine.

San Francisco will provide an out-sized bed eight feet long at the Mark Hopkins Hotel where Gov. Edmund G. Brown will visit the sumptuous suite tomorrow afternoon before the Sausalito trip.

WEATHER MAN SAYS RAINS TO CONTINUE

Light rain began falling in Marin before noon today, and the Weather Man predicted more of the same intermittently through tomorrow.

The showers were brought by a small storm curving in from the sea, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

The forecaster said the snow line in the mountains would be at about 5,000 feet.

Small craft warnings were flying on the coast for southerly winds of 23 and 34 m.p.h. and fresh southeast winds were predicted for the high mountains and inland valleys.

Brown Claims He's Unable To Save Chessman

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown today all but ruled out executive clemency that would save Caryl Chessman from execution next Monday.

"I am constitutionally now prohibited from extending clemency," he said.

Brown said he's still convinced that Chessman is guilty of the kidnap-robbery-sex charges which brought the death sentence 12 years ago.

Some material has been presented to him this week through clemency secretary Cecil Poole, he said. But he said that he finds it contains nothing to change his conviction as to Chessman's guilt.

The governor, described by Chessman's attorneys as the prisoner's last hope, read to newsmen a section of the state constitution which says:

"Neither the governor nor the legislature shall have power to grant pardons, or commutation of sentence, in any case where the convict has been twice convicted of a felony, unless upon written recommendation of a majority of the judges of the Supreme Court."

Brown noted that Chessman had eight prior felonies; that the court twice refused to recommend clemency.

"Under any reasonable concept of what is intended by the Constitution, I am powerless," he said. (See story on Chessman on page 6.)

Neglected Baby Moved To Hospital

An eight-month-old San Rafael boy, ill, bruised and neglected in his squalid quarters, enjoyed his new "home" at San Rafael General Hospital today in a clean crib.

Little Guy Fields, son of Richard and Diana N. Fields of 922 B street, was taken from his makeshift, arm-chair bed last night after complaints from neighbors.

The case came to the attention of police about 7 p.m. when a neighbor called to report that the baby was being neglected.

Johnnie C. Howe, about 29, of 922 B street, told Officer Leland Ahern that Mrs. Fields had asked him to care for the baby yesterday morning but had not been home all day. Howe said he heard that the mother was at a Fourth street bar.

Police said the child had large bruise marks on both sides of his face, is suffering from an ear infection and has a chest congestion. The infant was bathed and cleaned at the neighboring apartment of Mrs. Marie Jewel Van Winkle, then admitted to the hospital.

Officers said the Fields apartment was a mess, with beer bottles and dirty linen and bedding strewn about. The child had been placed in a large arm chair pushed against the wall to form a makeshift bed, the officers reported.

Officer Earl Christensen said he received a telephone call this morning from Mrs. Fields, who wanted to know where her baby was. The officer referred her to the probation office,

Rhee's Resignation Expected As Rebellion Topples Regime

Political Aides Join In Demands He Quit

SEOUL, South Korea (Wednesday) (UPI)—President Syngman Rhee's forces crumbled before a historic unarmed rebellion today. Expectations mounted he would step down from power at any minute and submit his and Korea's future to a new election.

Rhee captiulated yesterday (Tuesday) to his outraged populace and promised to quit "if the people desire" but this was not enough and new riots erupted throughout Korea. A mob of 100,000 laid siege to the barricaded presidential palace and shouted for Rhee's resignation.

Rhee's whole regime appeared crumbling. His once trusted lieutenants deserted him in the National Assembly and joined in demands he quit. His police, who killed at least 158 persons in a week of rioting, fled their posts. His ambassador to Washington quit under fire.

RED MOVE FEARED

And there were fears of some overt Communist move to take advantage of the uprising.

In Washington, the United States summoned its Korean war allies to an extraordinary session to discuss the possibility of a new Communist attack.

The State Department also issued a statement calling for "adequate measures to redress grievances of the people." It took note of Rhee's declaration "that he is prepared to resign."

Students who led the demonstrations threatened new rioting today unless Rhee leaves office and calls new elections. Police fired into their midst yesterday and killed 23 persons, bringing to 158 the number killed in a week of violence.

JOIN STUDENTS

The army, which had supported Rhee without firing on the students, began fraternizing today with the rebels. They joined hands in policing the capital city, which was quiet during the early morning but still under martial law and tense.

Today was one of the darkest in the career of Rhee, who was reported to have left his presidential palace while he made up his mind whether to quit at once or to hold onto power.

The only out appeared for him to resign, call new presidential elections and then run again for the presidency. Some of the student demonstrators said they would vote for him—that their protests were not against Rhee the man but against the graft and corruption in his government.

It was one of history's greatest unarmed revolutions and all indications were it had won.

U.S. Summons Korean War Allies To Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today called for early action by Korean President Syngman Rhee to "redress the grievances of the Korean people."

It also summoned its Korean war allies into an extraordinary session to discuss the possibility of a Communist attack against troubled Southern Korea.

15 NATIONS

State Department press officer Lincoln White said representatives here of the 15 nations which fought under the United Nations banner in Korea had been summoned to a session at the State Department "to discuss the situation in Korea," including its military implications.

Other officials said the 16 countries would talk about danger that Communist forces in North Korea might be tempted to intervene again in the south because of the political chaos there.

READY TO RESIGN

White, noting that Rhee has "indicated that he is prepared to resign" and "has promised to hold new elections, said:

"We are naturally following these developments closely in the hope that adequate measures will be taken to redress grievances of the people. Latest press reports from Seoul, however, indicate that demonstrations against the government are continuing."

White added under questioning that the United States was hoping for quick action by Rhee. But he declined to elaborate on the "adequate measures" it wants him to take.

Court Action Considered In Expense Case

San Anselmo School District trustees may institute court action in an attempt to force payment of travel expenses of three superintendent candidates from public funds.

Trustees Philip S. Bundschu and Robert W. Corlett said today the possibility will be discussed. The board's next regular meeting will be May 9.

County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis, whose office handles payment of San Anselmo district accounts against warrants issued by the school board, has refused to issue warrants for payment of the superintendent candidates' expenses on the basis of an opinion by the county counsel that such payment was illegal. The attorney general last week rendered a similar opinion.

The amount at issue is $549.62. It is for expenses of a candidate from Florida, one from Wisconsin and one from Southern California seeking the San Anselmo superintendency for which Stephen L. Parodi of Belvedere, Ross School superintendent, was subsequently hired.

The warrants call for payment of $485.62 to Orrick Travel Bureau and $63.87 to the Edgewater Inn.

The five members of the San Anselmo School District board today joined in a statement outlining their reasons for agreeing to pay expenses of the candidates.

The board pointed out that 79 applicants for the job were screened down to five. Of these five, two were in Marin County. The statement continued:

"The question naturally arose at this point whether the board should go to see the candidates where they were or to have the candidates come to

Korea Envoy Bows To Threat, Quits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—South Korea's ambassador resigned today shortly after anti-Rhee elements in Washington's Korean colony threatened to seize the embassy with the aid of Korean military trainees here.

Ambassador You Chang Yang acknowledged that he received a 24-hour ultimatum to quit or be ousted. It came from Koh Byong-Choll, a long-time leader here of forces opposing Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Yang said, however, that he had decided independently to resign, because he had found he was wrong in believing that the wave of anti-government rioting in South Korea was Communist-instigated.

"It seems that I have made mistakes," he said. "Therefore, I am submitting my resignation to the government. I am sending a telegram to the acting foreign minister, Mr. Huh Chung."

Koh said he made his threat to oust Yang with the support of Korean students and residents in Washington as well as of Korean troops undergoing special training here.

Among the Korean troops in the Washington area of 39 army men, 37 of them officers, attending the U. S. Army Engineers School at nearby Ft. Belvoir, Va., and several military doctors at service medical centers.

Koh is a Washington businessman and close friend of John M. Chang, leader of the opposition Democratic party in Korea.

"I told the ambassador that if he didn't resign today, we would move in and take over the embassy," Koh said.

"We had planned to (act) this morning, but we postponed action because of President Rhee's statement last night" offering to permit new elections.

Koh said the ambassador "retracted his charges of Communist instigation of the demontrations and promised to resign."

Yang confirmed this account of the conversation.

County Loses Huge Sum On Warrants

Six thousand warrants against Marin Municipal Court defendants have remained unserved within the past 10 years, representing potential payments of $90,000 to $120,000.

Leon A de Lisle, county auditor-controller, handed this news to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today and was promptly given permission to do something about it.

What deLisle proposed to do—and was unanimously supported on motion of Supervisor William D. Fusselman—was to use his data processing machinery to compile a master list in alphabetical order so that cities and counties can quickly see the location of defaulters.

"Enforcement is falling down," said deLisle. "Our judges are shocked . . . I have the complete support of our three municipal judges."

De Lisle said his list of 6,000

$7,000 Damage In Fairfax Home Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Gardiner Jr. returned home this noon to find firemen fighting a blaze at their home at 220 Scenic avenue, Fairfax. Damage was estimated at $7,000.

Damage was to the second story of the house and the basement. The couple expected to spend the night at the home of a relative in Larkspur.

Fire Chief Charles Thornton said a gas heater may have caused the blaze, but cause has not officially been established.

Newcomers To State Amazed At Multiplicity Of School Districts

(This is the second of a series of articles on Marin County's school district setup and possibilities for revamping it.)

By DONALD G. DAVIS

There are 29 school districts in Marin. There is one junior college district. There are high school districts and elementary districts. Only one — Novato—is unified.

Some of them are called union districts, some have the word "joint" in their names.

Newcomers to California are mystified. Many of them come from states where one superintendent and one school board operate a school system like that in Novato composed of kindergarten through grade 12. The only way such a system can be achieved in California is through unification. A unified system even can include a junior college.

A school district is a kind of municipality. The governing board of a school district sets up and adopts budgets and collects taxes or has some other agency collect for it. The boards are made up of people who are elected on the public ballot And they set the policy under which a district is to operate, and hire and fire personnel from administrators to janitors.

When two like districts join, the resultant district is called a union district. If a single district takes in areas in two or more counties it is a joint district. A number of elementary districts, for example, could join together and become a union elementary school district. Also they could be brought together to form a union high school district, as is the case of the Tamalpais Union High School District.

The Tamalpais Union High School District has within its boundaries 12 elementary school districts. If these districts were eliminated, their boards wiped out, and the whole district placed under one board and administration, it would be a unified district.

Unified districts also can be formed, as was Novato, from an elementary district. Such a district then must erect a high school and offer high school courses.

But if the Fairfax and San Anselmo districts, for instance, were to unify, the one new district might take over Sir Frances Drake High School and would no longer be part of Tamalpais Union High School District.

In California, there also are city school districts. The only one in Marin is in San Rafael. Actually there are a San Rafael High School District and a San Rafael Elementary School District, governed by one board.

FEEDING TIME FOR BABY SEAL

HERKIMER, an orphaned baby seal, patiently awaits breakfast at the Marin County Humane Society. Mel L. Morse, secretary-manager prepares formula of ground fish, canned milk and vitamins. The seal, about a week old, was being buffeted by waves at Duxbury Reef near Bolinas yesterday, apparently helpless. A dead sea lion had been floating in the area, and Leo J. Leoni, Bolinas fisherman, decided the baby seal's mother was dead. He took the seal to Mrs. Evelyn Sharon of Bolinas, who called the Humane Society. Normally, baby seals should not be touched or picked up, Morse said. Mothers leave the young in the sand and always come back for them. (Independent-Journal photo)

PLANNERS' FIRST ACTION

Restaurant Addition Approved In Novato

In its first official business meeting, the Novato Planning Commission last night approved construction of a second story addition to Cloud Five restaurant at 1009 First street.

Plans submitted by developer Louis Nave were approved as in keeping with the existing building, but must be carried out under architectural supervision. The addition would house a banquet room and rest rooms, Nave said.

The banquet room was approved by the county planning commission on April 16, 1957, but had never been constructed, the city planners were told by B. D. Dobbs, chief planner with the county planning staff, who is acting as adviser to the city commission until June 30.

PERMIT ASKED

An application by Robert Strockbine for a use permit for construction of a nursery and temporary office building at the corner of Atherton avenue and Highway 101 was approved pending approval of plans showing adequate parking space and a lathed structure Strockbine intends to build.

Although Dobbs said he believed the North Marin master plan and the state Division of Highways both indicate an interchange structure at the site of the nursery, there are no precise plans available

Because of the possibility of eventual state purchase, the state will be notified of the temporary use permit.

A request by Kaehler Construction Co. for a permanent sign at the entrance to Forest Park subdivision was continued until May 9 pending submission of a more complete design of the proposed sign.

AMENDMENT VOTED

Approval of an amendment to the plans of the Northland Shopping Center on South Novato blvd. near Rowland avenue to permit inclusion of a medical-dental building was approved with the following three conditions:

1. That no building permit be issued until the architectural supervisor approve development plans for construction and improvements.

2. That access to the site is achieved through Rowland avenue after it is sufficiently developed.

3. That either the entire property remain under one owner or it be divided into two parcels with a 20-foot easement recorded against each so Rowland avenue access may be extended.

Applying for the plan alteration for construction of the building was Larry Witter and Associates.

The commissioners set for May 23 a public hearing on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance which would allow the east side of Railroad avenue between Cherry and Peach streets to be zoned general commercial. Petitioners Ravetz and Rowland plan a trailer court there.

Also continued to May 23 was an application to amend the zoning ordinance so property on the west side of First street between Grant and Olive avenues would be zoned general commercial.

The planners put the matter over pending further study of the North Marin master plan in regard to the downtown section of the city.

Also put over for further study was an application by Mrs. Elna Bach that a beauty parlor be ruled a legitimate home occupation in a residential zone. The present ordinance does not permit operation of a beauty shop but allows occupations including architects, writers, musicians, hand craftsmen, etc., to operate in a residential area.

The commission adjourned until May 2 at 8 p.m in the city hall when it will study proposals from three professional planning organizations to update the North Marin master plan.

Under consideration will be Lawrence J. Livingston Jr. of San Francisco, Herman Ruth of Oakland and the Marin County planning staff.

Building Fund Drive Delayed For Hospital

The proposed building fund drive for San Rafael General Hospital has been indefinitely deferred, it was announced today.

Announcement of the postponement was made jointly by E. Francis Hore, president of the San Rafael General Hospital Foundation board; Judge N. Charles Brusatori, chairman of a community advisory committee for the campaign, and Bryon W. Leydecker, hospital trustee, and general campaign chairman.

'TECHNICAL QUESTIONS'

The announcement said only that postponement was "until a future date to be determined after certain technical questions have been resolved."

It was learned, however, that several members recently added to the hospital foundation's board of trustees wish to further familiarize themselves with the hospital's financial arrangements before launching any campaign for funds.

A countywide campaign to raise $300,000 had been scheduled for May and June.

NEW WING

With these funds the trustees had planned to begin construction this fall of a new three-story medical-surgical wing of reinforced concrete, as the first of a two-stage building program.

Board president Hore said after a meeting of the trustees last night that deferral of the campaign "in no way means that we have abandoned plans to modernize and expand the facilities of the hospital. The need is critical. We will resume plans for a building fund drive as soon as possible, probably early next year."

10 Per Cent Of Marin Census Takers Quit

More than one-tenth of Marin County's total force of census takers quit during the course of "Phase 1," it was disclosed today by a poll of seven crew leaders.

The number totals 12 out of 110 in the county—something of a contrast to "three or four" cut of 619 in northern California estimated by District Supervisor James T. Hammons.

Hammons said he had personal knowledge of only three who had resigned, "in most instances to get better jobs," though there might be more. The ones he knew about included two who went to Mare Island on civil service appointments and a third who took over personnel work at the state Home, he said.

Crew by crew check of what's been happening in Marin County gave miscellaneous causes for the drop-outs but the over-all trouble seemed to be that "nobody thought it was going to take so long."

One crew leader suggested also that "many went in hoping to ride a gravy train, and got discouraged early—others had commitments or emergencies, of course, but those who stayed found out that the pay wasn't so bad and now there's a wish to get in on Phase 2. Three phoned me about that last night."

Of those who quit, their reasons broke down as follows:

Three didn't like the work.

Two felt that the job went on too long, and this reason had special point for three who said they'd planned trips and had to leave when the time arrived.

Four left because of illness of self or family members or a death in the family.

Payment for this year's census work is "somewhat higher than it was before because more questions are now involved," said Hammons.

He said that he had no definite figures to show the precise difference but that "on a piece-work basis they got so much for transcribing, so much for listing each person per household—it depends on what is done."

Some of the census takers in rural areas haven't been happy with a piece-work basis of calculation, Hammons said, but most of these have been pacified by going on an hourly basis allowed in view of the longer distance between calls as compared with work in towns and cities.

Mill Valley Woman Hurt In Mishap

Gertrude Brennan, 76, Mill Valley housewife, suffered an injured hip and lacerations last night when a car door slammed and knocked her to the pavement in front of 33 Homestead boulevard.

Sheriff's Deputy Edmond Mauberret said Mrs. Brennan appeared to have injured her hip or leg, and had lacerations on her knee.

Her grandson, Craig Conzelman of 11 Plymouth avenue, said Mrs. Brennan was getting out of the car parked on an incline about 5 p.m. The door slammed, and she fell to the pavement.

Mill Valleyans End Odyssey In San Diego

Three former Mill Valleyans wound up an odyssey today in San Diego.

Bob Van Blaircom, 29; his wife, Jane, 28, and Phil Price, 23, arrived at the Southern California port in the 40-foot yacht in which they sailed from the Isle of Wight by a round-about route on a voyage that took a year, the Associated Press reported from San Diego.

The three went to England together last year. At the Isle of Wight, they purchased the 40-foot yacht Armorel. In it, they set sail on a leisurely cruise. They visited Spain and Portugal, crossed the Atlantic, touched at various West Indies ports and finally sailed through the Panama Canal.

En route, they added another crew member: A seagoing cat, picked up in Cartagena, Spain.

The odyssey is really not quite over. Van Blaircom said they will sail the Amorel up the coast to Sausalito, and he and his wife will then make their home aboard it.

Meeting Postponed

The Larkspur School District board, scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. today, has postponed its meeting to May 4 because this week is Public Schools Week, Supt. Vaughn D. Seidel reported.

29 Automonous Districts In Marin Set School Policies

There are two budgets, and the high school and elementary districts are not coterminous. The high school district also includes two other elementary districts—Dixie and San Quentin—that are governed by their own boards. If Dixie and San Quentin were to unify with San Rafael, the city district would become a unified district.

So Marin has a cross-hatch of school districts. The newcomer to California, accustomed to his own state's county system, wonders how it all started, and why it stays that way.

The state Department of Education is pushing unification wherever it can, and one high official of that department recently said in Marin, "In two years 65 per cent of the students in the state will attend schools in unified districts."

That means that populous areas, big cities, will vote for unification. But many of the large sparsely populated areas may stick to small, locally governed, grass-roots school systems.

California's school districts resemble somewhat those of early New England. Public education in the early days was largely confined to elementary education. Anyone who wanted to go beyond the eighth grade went to a private school. Public high schools came later.

Elementary districts already had been formed. When high schools were built, new districts were created to operate them. Later, junior college districts were formed, and again with their own boards of trustees and budgets and courses of study.

So that is why in Marin's various school systems, there are some districts with boards of trustees responsible for the education of youngsters from kindergarten through the eighth grade, and other districts and boards responsible for education of ninth through twelfth grades.

There is still another set for freshmen and sophomores at the junior college level. Public education beyond that point is governed either by the state, as in the state colleges, or by the regents of the University of California.

Why, one might ask, is this situation allowed to exist? Would it not save a lot of money if there was unification? Would not unification provide for a better education program? The questions are not easily answered, and in their answering there arise several points of view.

Will Thompson, music composer of East Liverpool, Ohio, wrote both "Softly, Tenderly Jesus Is Coming" and "There's a Great Day Coming."

PENNSYLVANIA BALLOTS

Nixon Faces Test In Primary Voting

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Richard M. Nixon faces no opposition in two state primaries today, but he may find some pitfalls on at least one of the uncrowded ballots.

In Pennsylvania, his total will be compared with the 951,932 votes won by President Eisenhower four years ago. A rather poor showing could start talk of dumping Nixon and looking elsewhere for a Republican presidential nominee.

If Nixon surpasses the Eisenhower total, however, that might squelch any further attempt to boost Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as a possible candidate.

Observers may have a difficult time squeezing significance out of the day's other primary, Massachusetts. There, Nixon is unopposed on the Republican ballot, and the state's junior senator, John F. Kennedy, is unopposed on the Democratic ballot.

The Pennsylvania ballot allows write-ins, and Democrats as well as Rockefeller supporters are hoping for unusual demonstrations of appeal by their favorites.

Any large amount of write-in votes for a Democrat or Rockefeller could hurt Nixon and give the recipient a tremendous psychological boost.

Nixon backers have not shown any pre-primary concern. In fact one prominent official resident of Pennsylvania, who has endorsed Nixon, most likely will be too busy in Washington to vote. He is President Eisenhower.

Two special congressional elections in the state may shed some light on the present strength of the parties. In the normally Republican 17th and 18th districts, voters will pick successors to the late Reps. Richard M. Simpson and Alvin R. Bush, both Republicans.

In the hotly contested West Virginia primary campaign, Kennedy and Sen. Hubert M. Humphrey of Minnesota, the only opponents on the May 10 Democratic ballot, continue their tour of the state.

Fatality Toll Cut To 500 In Iranian Quake

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Weary rescue teams pressed on today, digging dead and injured from the ruins of the quake-shattered city of Lar.

Death estimates dropped sharply as more accurate reports reached the capital.

"The total is not expected to exceed 500 dead," said Dr. Hussein Khatibi, director of Iran's Red Cross.

Officials at the scene, 550 miles south of Tehran, originally had estimated that as many as 2,000 perished in the two Sunday quakes which battered Lar, a city of 14,000, and Gerash, nearby complex of villages.

A Red Cross pilot, who flew low over Lar late yesterday and landed nearby, said the damage did not appear as heavy as originally reported.

Red Cross officials said most of the homeless are now in tents and everyone has been clothed and fed.

Cubans Hold Slayers Of U.S. Ship Captain

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban officials today held two American bad check men who killed a ship captain trying to rescue them from a Bahaman island and fled in his cabin cruiser.

Cuban authorities captured the pair—Alvin Table Jr., 25, and William Sees, 23—and the stolen yacht Muriel III yesterday after they went aground on an islet near Isabela de Sagua, 200 miles east of Havana.

Officials said the fugitives would be brought to Havana, but did not say when. The British want them in the Bahamas on charges of murder and piracy.

Table, Sees and Table's 18-year-old bride, the former Barbara Fisher of San Antonio, Tex., stole a boat in Key West last week, ran out of gas and were stranded last Tuesday on Elbow Cay, a deserted island in the Bahamas. Their boat broke up on the rocks.

On Sunday Angus Boatwright, 55, of Key West, owner of the Muriel III, spotted the castaways while cruising for game fish with four Pennsylvania men who had chartered his boat.

Kent Hokanson, 21, mate of the Muriel, said Sees swam out and shot Boatwright after the skipper refused to land. He said Table joined Sees aboard the boat and they let the four Pennsylvanians swim ashore, floating Boatwright's body with them on life jackets. Hokanson said he dove overboard and also swam ashore, and Sees and Table fled in the Muriel, leaving Barbara Table on the island.

A Coast Guard plane picked up the castaways and flew them to Nassau. Another Coast Guard plane shadowed the Muriel but turned back five miles from the Cuban coast because of the strained relations between the United States and Cuba.

The British Embassy asked the Cuban government to apprehend the fugitives.

The British placed no charges against Barbara Table, but she said she hoped to stay in Nassau until her husband was brought there.

Gambler Arrested

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Justice Department today announced indictment of Chicago gambler Anthony J. Accardo on tax charges and arrested the reputed Mafia kingpin at his plush suburban home.

The indictment, which charged Accardo on three counts of filing false income tax claims, was returned here last night by a special federal grand jury in the northern district of Illinois.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Foul Play Ruled Out

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police said today they believe federal appeals court Judge W. Lynn Parkinson drowned either by accident or design and was not a murder victim.

"There is absolutely no reason to suspect robbery or foul play," Chief of Detectives James McMahon said.

McMahon said he viewed Parkinson's body after it was found Sunday floating in Lake Michigan and could see no marks of violence. An autopsy showed the 57-year-old Indiana jurist died by drowning, McMahon pointed out.

Air Jaunts Admitted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jerome K. Kuykendall, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, said today he has taken five free airplane trips since he took office in 1953.

He said he regards all as justifiable and proper.

Kuykendall told reporters two of the trips, in planes owned by natural gas pipeline companies, were to Louisiana to attend funerals of FPC commissioners.

He described two other trips as inspections and said the fifth was a round-trip to Atlantic City, where he addressed the Edison Electric Institute.

Someone's Missing

STUART, Va. (AP)—Everyone was back in court here yesterday afternoon as a five-minute recess ended—everyone, that is, except the defendant.

John Franklin Smith, 24, of Ararat, on trial for felonious shooting, walked out of the courtroom and hasn't been seen since.

Drone Flies Wild

PORT ARGUELLO (UPI)—A seven-and-a-half-foot Navy drone target craft escaped its radio control yesterday and flew over populated areas before crashing in the Pacific.

Air Force interceptor planes were set aloft to shoot down the propeller-driven drone when it got loose and headed north toward San Francisco, traveling at more than 200 miles an hour. The drone crashed about 50 miles north of here at Morro Bay before the interceptors spotted it.

Polaris Passes Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Polaris missile has flown more than 1,150 miles, the longest range yet covered by this submarine weapon.

The Navy announced the "fully successful" flight last night, shortly after the 28-foot, solid-fuel missile was launched from a land pad in a test designed to work out technical bugs in the second stage.

New Weapon Revealed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Existence of the Air Force's first air-to-air guided missile packing a nuclear punch was revealed yesterday by the Air Force and officials of Hughes' Aircraft Co., developers of the weapon.

Called the Nuclear Falcon, the weapon will be produced at Hughes' facilities at Tucson, Ariz., under a 23-million dollar Air Materiel Sommand contract.

Actor Quits Hospital

Mother Saves Son

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A slim, 123-pound mother, strengthened by hysteria, lifted a 3,600-pound station wagon enough to allow her trapped son to crawl free.

But the strain cracked several vertebrae in Mrs. Maxwell C. Rogers' back. She is reported in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Rogers managed to get the vehicle several inches off the ground Sunday night after Charles Rogers, 16, was pinned. He had been working on the station wagon when a jack slipped.

East Germans Parade

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German Communist government paraded its army through the streets of East Berlin before dawn today in defiance of four-power agreements on the presence of German troops in the divided city.

The parade was billed as a rehearsal for next Sunday's May Day celebrations. But as a show of strength it underlined Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's warning to the West yesterday that a Soviet-East German peace treaty would end western access to Berlin.

100 Hurt In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—About 100 persons were injured today in a prolonged battle between 3,000 baton-wielding police and twice as many extreme leftist students trying to break into the Parliament building to protest the Japan-U.S. security pact.

Mrs. Sabo and the bird were rescued by the fire department.

Bigamist Escapes Jail

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Joseph R. Dischino, 35, former high school civics teacher, who supported two wives in adjoining towns, has escaped jail for bigamy because of his four children.

"If it weren't for the children," Superior Court Judge Daniel D. O'Brien told him yesterday, "I wouldn't hesitate in sending you to jail."

Judge O'Brien then pronounced a suspended one-year term and placed Dischino on five years probation.

His first wife, mother of three, has agreed to take him back.

Nehru, Chou Fail To Reach An Agreement

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and Premier Shou Enlai today ended a week of talks on their border dispute without any apparent progress toward an agreement.

In a joint communique they said their talks had led to "greater understanding" of each government's viewpoint, "but did not resolve their differences."

Nehru rejected a proposal by by Chou that India abandon her claim to 15,000 square miles in the Ladakh sector of Kashmir. Chou in return offered to leave to India the 36,000 square miles on the northeast frontier which India and China both claim.

"There can be no question of bartering away this area. Its ownership (by India) is a settled fact," Nehru told reporters after seeing Chou off to Nepal.

Nehru said the week-long negotiations has brought "no lessening in the basic tensions"

Vet Fund Resolution Passed By Supervisors

The Marin County Board of Supervisors declared today in a resolution of intention that if the county uses $300,000 in the veterans memorial fund to build the juvenile hall addition, the amount will be paid back to the fund.

The board also declared that it intends to continue to collect funds "for the purpose of constructing a veterans' memorial auditorium."

It was further expressed in the resolution that the reimbursement is to be made "on or before the time the fund will have accumulated sufficient moneys to finance . . . the auditorium, to be built at a time set forth . . . in 1965-66."

The resolution, at the insistence of Supervisor William D. Fusselman, will be sent to various county veterans groups.

This is being done, apparently, to set forth more positively the board's attitude on what will be done for the veterans. The money has been collected since 1943 through a small increment in the tax rate, and until this morning, according to some county government observers, the board had never said, positively, that the money was to go to an auditorium.

Veterans organizations had recommended that the money be used for an auditorium, and it has been estimated that it would cost a million and half dollars.

W. P. Duhamel, county veterans service officer, told the board today that a recent poll of 15 veterans organizations produced the following vote:

On the question of using the money for juvenile hall, four voted "yes," and seven voted "no." On the question of whether to take no action there was one vote. One of the 15 organizations was not polled.

Duhamel said he estimated there are approximately 35,000 veterans in Marin County, and 15 per cent of them belong to veterans' organizations. "But these outfits," said Duhamel, "have always been the spokesmen. If you want to poll the Democrats or Republicans you poll their committees. It's the same thing here."

County Auditor Leon A. de Lisle said: "My personal analysis is that the veterans are not basically opposed, but I have sensed a deep disappointment that their memorial had to be postponed. Therefore I've prepared this resolution offering the suggestion for the future."

The board recently indicated it would rather borrow the veterans memorial money for juvenile hall than construct it on a lease basis. No formal action has been taken.

Ross Board Hears Report On Budget

The Ross School District board last night received a preliminary report from Supt. Steven L. Parodi that next year's budget will be set at $230,909, or $5,472 more than last year.

The board also chose the firm of Weiser, Dreiman and Weseman to conduct the audit of the 1959 school year funds.

The board heard a report by Mrs. Charles Doyle of the Parent-Teacher Assn. that students have registered for a total of 325 class hours in the district's summer program. Trustees also asked the P-TA to study other districts' foreign language programs and recommend a program to the board.

The trustees approved contracts of all teachers returning to the district next year and announced that kindergarten registration will be May 25, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at Ross School.

WARRANTS

warrants unserved, dating from 1950, is based on a system whereby defendants owing bail or fines (the amounts usually $15 to $20) aren't put under pressure as a rule. Notice goes to cities or counties, those outside Marin being supposed to cooperate without profit but sometimes making little effort to do so.

Marin cities, with whose police de Lisle proposed to confer once he's organized the data, get a percentage of collections, to be used on street work.

These warrants aren't bench warrants and defendants can't be brought in on them, nor can police collect. They just have to find defendants and try to send them to court to pay, de Lisle stressed.

"It's a terrific problem in the whole State of California," said de Lisle. "Other counties should be interested if we move on it."

He said the processing would cost $270 per 1,000 names, save that he plans to use the job as "fill-in" work when his staff isn't otherwise occupied.

Prom Theme Chosen At Redwood High

"Pres de la Mer" is theme chosen for Redwood High School's junior prom this year.

The theme and decorations committees, headed by Carol Ensler and Paula Daly, selected the theme. The prom is to be held May 28 at the Corinthian Yacht Club in Belvedere.

Change Order Approved For Civic Center

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today approved the first change order on the now-abuilding county civic center.

The total additional money to be spent is not to exceed $12,345.

At the same time the board approved a system of allowing Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham to approve change orders that will not exceed $4,500. Brigham immediately said he would approve none that were not either purely engineering in essense or of an emergency nature.

PROGRESS REPORTS

The board also authorized Aaron Green of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation to appear periodically before to the board to present progress reports.

As each change order was approved there developed detailed discussion between Green and Supervisor William D. Fusselman. But Fusselman said he wanted to make it plain he "was not needling this gentleman. This is not petty. These things are coming up that we didn't know about before and I want to ask questions to find out about them." Other members of the board agreed.

Most expensive change order, not to exceed $10,000, is for construction of a concrete wall that Green said will have the effect of saving several "large, beautiful oak trees." He said that a ground cut will have to be made closer to the trees than it was originally planned, but that by using a concrete wall the cut will not have to be made so deeply.

He added that savings in the amount of concrete in the foundations of the building will compensate for much of this cost, and that there will be a saving from making less of an excavation in the cut.

STORM DRAIN

Also approved was a $559 order for the removal of debris, small trees and a concrete foundation of an old home, and $1,786 for a change in a storm drain line.

Throughout the discussion Fusselman wanted to know what emergencies might arise that would require immediate approval by Brigham of changes.

Brigham said he had no intention of approving anything except those of engineering and emergency nature, and both he and Green gave as an example the discovery of a spring.

In each vote approving the changes, Fusselman abstained.

CAPTAIN — William R. O'Brien, 270 Bretano way, Greenbrae, has been named master of the SS Hawaiian Citizen, first all-container ship in the Pacific. The ship will sail under the Matson flag. Captain O'Brien has been with Matson Lines since 1925 and has commanded 12 different ships. The Hawaiian Citizen will sail from San Francisco Monday on her maiden voyage to Hawaii.

Woman Leaps To Death From Bridge

A San Francisco woman drove her car onto the Golden Gate Bridge this morning, stopped, ran to the rail and jumped.

The body later was identified as that of Mrs. Jeanne Eastman Hamilton, 41, of 1819 Diamond street.

Her husband told San Francisco coroner's deputies that his wife had been depressed and did not appear to be in good spirits this morning. No other details were immediately available.

Highway Patrolman Donald Barr was driving north just behind the Hamilton car about 10:15 a.m. when it stopped. Barr ran after the woman and attempted to stop her but was too late.

Visitors Bureau To Plan Publicity

A regional publicity program will top the agenda of a monthly meeting of the Marin Visitors Bureau of the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Northwestern Savings and Loan building in San Rafael.

Mrs. Esther Dearth, bureau chairman, said there will also be a report on the progress toward the "Dollars for Drake" campaign to place a bronze statue of Sir Francis Drake on Drake's Bay.

EXPENSES

San Anselmo. . . . If the full board were to travel to see the five candidates, it would have meant that the board would have traveled to Miami, Fla., to Milwaukee, Wis., and to Los Angeles for the interviews. These travel expenses would have been legitimate and legal board expenses. The amount of this expense would have been somewhere in the neighborhood of $3,200, or six times the amount now in question. . . .

"There are many sections in the various California codes which permit payment for travel expenses to persons doing work for various public agencies. Unfortunately, there is nothing specific in the Education Code that permits what we wanted to do. By the same token, there is nothing in the Education Code which prohibits school boards from doing this. . . .

"It might have been a method that the San Anselmo Board could have adopted to have had these candidates come as "consultants' to our board and thereby paid the travel expenses . . . It was our feeling that to use such a method was a ruse . . .

"Another point that merits emphasis is that in announcements sent out, we stated that we were offering a minimum salary of $12,000 per year and that we would offer a four-year contract. . . . The sum of approximately $500 was not an unreasonable amount to risk in order to find the best person we could."

Bundschu and Corlett said the court action being considered would be an application for a write of mandate to force County Superintendent Hollis to issue checks against the school district. This would be a method of testing the law.

Names of George J. Benoit Jr., board president, Mrs. Rose Eiserich, Mrs. Mary A. Hedin, Bundschu and Corlett were appended to the statement giving reasons for going counter to the county counsel's opinion that the expenditure might not be legal.

terday and gutted the boat supply shop.

Goerndt reported his department is still investigating possibility of arson in addition to burglary, but that "there is nothing new on it at this time."

Henry R. Bauman of the firm said the burglars took $1,500 from the safe. He said they must have entered through the back window, jimmied a door which connects with the chartroom and then gone out the front door.

Bauman said all of his stock is going into salvage and he hopes to get the shop open again within 30 days.

OBITUARIES

Rites Held For Retired Bank Exec

Private funeral services for La Clair Pontious, retired banker who died Sunday at his home in Greenbrae, were to be held today at Russell and Gooch chapel in Mill Valley.

Later he became deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and, in 1928, joined the Anglo-California National Bank, from which he retired as senior vice president.

During World War II, he served as chairman of the Navy Price Adjustment Board of the San Francisco District and received the Distinguished Civilian Service award.

Pontious resided at 25 El Portal drive in Greenbrae.

10-Year-Old Girl Attacked By Dog

A dog in Kent Woodlands attacked a 10-year-old girl last night, inflicting arm wounds that required 10 stitches to close, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Victim was Lisa M. Dollar of 36 North Ridgewood road. Her mother, Olga M. Dollar, called the sheriff at 5:15 p.m. Mrs. Dollar told Deputy Douglas Gledhill her daughter was walking her dog when another dog ran from the vicinity of 15 North Ridgewood.

West Recasts Proposal For Disarmament

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers reshaped their disarmament proposal today into a set of basic principles stressing a step-by-step approach to total disarmament under strict international controls.

The Western move was in answer to a Soviet request that the 10-nation disarmament conference first agree on a set of basic principles before getting down to details on such matters as controls.

TELL CONDITIONS

The five Western powers declared that disarmament progress and any agreement finally reaches must fulfill the following conditions:

1. "Disarmament must be carried out by stages, each stage to be completed as rapidly as possible although no fixed timetable can be laid down in advance for the process as a whole."

2. "Nuclear and conventional measures must be balanced so that no country or group of countries will obtain, at any stage, a significant military advantage and so that equal security for all will be maintained and thus international confidence progressively increased."

U.N. FRAMEWORK

3. "Disarmament measures must be effectively controlled throughout by an international disarmament organization withing the framework of the U.N., to ensure that compliance with these measures is verified from their entry into force and that there is no evasion throughout the disarmament progress and thereafter."

4. "Disarmament measures must be negotiated progressively according to the possibility of their early implementation and effective control."

To Attend Conference

Dr. Stephen A. Duff of 1104 Irwin street, San Rafael, will attend a conference of the executive board of the California Chiropractic Assn. this weekend at the Mayfair Hotel in Los Angeles.

Judge Studies Arguments Against Harbor Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Judge Murle C. Shreck of Sacramento County Superior Court studied charges today that the state Small Craft Harbors Commission competed unfairly with private harbor owners.

The judge heard arguments yesterday from Julius H. Selinger of San Rafael, attorney for the Inland Harbor and Fishing Resorts Assn., and Richard L. Mayers, deputy attorney general for the state.

The commission, established by the 1957 Legislature, makes loans to cities, counties and districts to build small craft harbors on inland and coastal waterways. The association is a private group with members in Marin, San Mateo, Alameda, Contra Costa, Sacramento, Napa, San Joaquin and Solano Counties.

The association filed suit March 25 charging that the loans and the legislation setting them up were a government invasion of a private industry that did not require state intervention. The suit claimed that the 1957 legislative act was unconstitutional.

Mayers argued that the act lay within the powers of the Legislature and should not be subject to constitutional review by the court.

Selinger also challenged the act because it allowed the commission to make loans wherever it found them to be "feasible." He said that this gave the commission "arbitrary, limitless and boundless" power.

Mayers replied that other sections of the act describing loan contract terms furnished sufficient safeguards against unwise loans.

Both attorneys will file briefs and are expected to be back in court for additional argument in about one month.

CENTRAL PHARMACY

National Epilepsy Group To Offer Drugs At Cost

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Epilepsy League will offer at cost drugs which control the seizures of epileptics.

Howard R. Koven, an attorney and newly elected board chairman of the National Epilepsy League, said yesterday the plan represented an entirely new service concept in national voluntary health agency assistance.

Under the league plan, Koven said, a central pharmacy will be created in the organization's headquarters here to fill the prescriptions of epileptics. The approximately 1,500,000 Americans who suffer from the malady will become eligible for service by paying $1 a year

Noting that the average cost of drugs purchased by an epileptic ranges between $115 to $125, Koven said that through the "inherent advantages of volume buying" the league hopes to bring the newer, more effective and costlier medicines within the reach of all epileptics."

Maurice A. Melford, the group's national director, said it will take 1,500 memberships to put the plan into operation. He said it would be launched by making needed drugs available to members at an initial reduction of 25 per cent from regular retail prices.

Save Chessman Forces Plan New Fire Try

The Marin Chessman Committee will try for a third time tonight to light a "torch of life" in protest of the execution of Caryl Chessman at San Quentin Prison next Monday.

Plans for a 20-to-30 foot jet of flame atop Wolfback Ridge in Sausalito last night were stopped before the propane installation could be completed.

McPhail Fuel Co. representatives were making the last connection from a seven-foot tank when objections from property owners brought a halt to work.

Robert O'Leary, Sausalito, said a property owner on the ridge had previously given approval of the jet—then withdrawn it when the equipment moved in. O'Leary originated the flame protest idea at the organizational meeting of the Chessman Committee Thursday in Sausalito.

But O'Leary claimed he has owner-permission tonight.

The jet woufld be outside Sausalito city limits.

Sausalito fire and police departments put out a smouldering protest fire Thursday after fire permission had been denied because of high winds. A Marin County Fire Department representative said today that no fire permit is needed in the ridge area.

"We'll have a flame high enough to be seen in Sacramento," O'Leary said.

Another member of the Chessman Committee, Mrs. Gerd Stern of Sausalito, is organizing an "orderly" protest cavalcade to San Quentin Sunday, the day before the execution.

Se said buses and cars will represent Corte Madera, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Sausalito, San Anselmo, San Rafael, Kentfield and Tiburon-Belvedere. The cavalcade will form at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Marin City.

Cavalcade representation will attempt to phone Governor Edmund G. Brown from the prison gates, she said. "Some of them may stay all night."

ODDS AGAINST CHESSMAN 3-1 INSIDE PRISON

San Quentin Prison inmates were reported today to be quoting odds of three cartons of cigarettes to one that Caryl Chessman will die in the gas chamber next Monday morning, his ninth execution date in nearly 12 years.

Chessman himself, though hopeful that new evidence will clear his name, was said to have estimated odds of 99-1 against action that will save him.

Hospital Cost Review Slated

The Marin County Hospital District board will review a cost study of operations for the last six months of 1959 at 8 p.m. today in Marin General Hospital.

Also on the agenda: Discussion of a contractural matter with a psysiatrist (doctor of physical medicine); report on consultant and surveyor's bills for the new construction; letter of appreciation from San Rafael General Hospital for the board's endorsement of its expansion program.

Magazine Writers' Probe Into His Case Gives New Hope To Chessman

By RANDALL GOULD

Caryl Chessman feels sudden new hope.

"I think now," he said yesterday afternoon, "that I have a chance for proof that, as I've always claimed, I am not the Red Light Bandit.

"Beyond that, I don't know. . . . But I don't feel dead yet."

This attitude, less than a week from his ninth date with the gas chamber next Monday, contrasted strongly with the convict-author's resignation at a time when he had legal guarantee of at least two months more life—just after his Feb. 19 reprieve.

Chessman said that the reason behind his renewed animation was that "facts have been dug up finally, by a magazine team that started out for just another Chessman story but got into the material I've wanted brought out."

The U.S. Supreme Court had yesterday once more denied appeal for stay of execution and writ of review, actions sought by attorney A. L. Wirin of the American Civil Liberties Union without active support from Chessman who abandoned his court fight some weeks ago.

All concerned in the case seemed by today agreed that sole hope lay in convincing Gov. Edmund G. Brown that Chessman was not the Red Light Bandit and that crash action toward clemency would be justified.

While Chessman spoke at San Quentin Prison in an interview room near Death Row, in San Francisco his attorney George T. Davis finally named a man Chessman himself has refused to identify, charging that a forgery-bad check fugitive variously known as Nick or Charles Terranova or Charles Sevaran was the bandit.

Davis introduced Argosy magazine writers Milton Machlin of New York and William R. Woodfield Jr. of Los Angeles, as well as Richmond investigator William Linhart. They said victims had described the bandit as having a forehead scar, protruding teeth and height which match Terranova but not Chessman.

"A lot of vital information has been right out in the open," said Chessman, who had earlier conferred with Davis and attorney Rosalie Asher. "These fellows turned it up readily. They got access to Los Angeles police records finally, with much bearing on my contention that I'm not the guilty man in this case."

How fast could matters move now? Chessman showed full awareness of how close he now stands to "the little green room" but placed stress on what "the full truth" might do for him.

"I believe that the story as it is now developing will finally make people wonder how I was ever convicted," he said.

"Anybody like the Red Light bandit, a fellow who forced women repeatedly and coldbloodedly, would certainly be known to the police from previous offenses," said Chessman. "That isn't my kind of thing at all. It's terrible and most offensive to any normal person. . . .

"Of course, the only way I could make amends at all for the things we all know I've done, such as holdups and gun fights with the police, would be to guarantee within myself that I would use any time remaining to me as constructively as possible."

Attorney Wirin said that "the only door remaining open is the governor's conscience."

But in Los Angeles, assistant Dist. Atty. J. Miller Leavy who helped prosecute Chessman dismissed the new material as "hogwash."

Bruce Bloomfield, 24-year-old University of California graduate student, was back on the Sacramento Capitol steps for a second campaign of picketing and fasting designed to influence the governor toward clemency.

Clark Tied Financially To Records He Played

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A statistician told House payola investigators today that 27 per cent of the records played on Dick Clark's television show over a two-year period were songs in which Clark may have had a financial stake.

However, the witness added that a statistical study also showed a close relationship between this figure and a popularity rating of the records—thus indicating that "the public taste was being met without consideration of 'possible interest.'"

The testimony by Bernard Goldstein, vice president of the New York City firm of Computech, Inc., drew doubting comment from a member of the subcommittee investigating Clark—Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.).

Moss charged the figure had been "weighted to the interest" of Clark who hired Computech to make the detailed study after the subcommittee asked the TV teen-agers' idol for information on how many of the records in which he had an interest were played on his show.

Moss said the figures were interesting but "valueless for any other purpose unless it might be to impress those who are looking for superficial results."

Goldstein, who brought 300 pounds of data with him, said his study covered every record played on Clark's "American Bandstand" show from Aug. 5, 1957, through Nov. 30, 1959.

He separated the song titles into two categories—the "A" records in which Clark could have had "any direct or indirect financial benefit" through his various holdings in the music and record industries, and the "B's"—all others.

Goldstein said the study showed that of the 15,662 songs played 4,230 or 27 per cent fell into the "A" category.

NOVATO STUDY

Traits Of 'Average' Teacher Told

A survey recently completed by the Novato Teachers Assn. reveals the "average" Novato teacher is a 38-year-old woman who lives and shops in Novato and has a household of 1.63 dependents.

She has taught in the district for three and one-half years and taught elsewhere for four years before coming to Novato. She earns $6,043 annually and has received a degree from a California state college.

ADDITIONAL STUDY

Before becoming a teacher, she had worked four years in the business world, but now considers herself a "career" teacher. She spends part of her vacation periods attending summer sessions at various colleges and universities and has earned an additional 17 college credits in the past five years.

Eighty-seven members of the district staff were questioned during the survey, according to an association spokesman.

Before entering teaching, the majority of the district's teachers, a total of 32, had worked in business and retail sales. Other occupations listed included entertainment, government work, industrial chemistry, newspaper work, music, agriculture and railroading.

HOLD OTHER JOBS

Twenty-two Novato teachers hold other jobs in addition to their teaching duties. Seventy of the 87 questioned patronize Novato stores.

Only 10 of the teachers questioned take no part in community activities. The remainder divide their time among service clubs, church groups, community groups, youth activities and Sunday school.

Forty-eight of the 87 live in Novato.

Hobbies and outside interests listed include sports, gardening, music, art, reading, camping, hunting and fishing, theater, writing and Scouting.

Fifty-eight of those questioned majored in education, English or sociology.

Of the 148 certificated personnel in the district, 142 belong to the Novato Teachers Assn., 132 are members of the California Teachers Assn. and 46 belong to the National Education Assn.

Three Insurance Men Honored

BETTER SETTLE FOR JUST PLAIN HEN EGGS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three boys seeking pigeons or their eggs found themselves stranded on a bridge girder 100 feet above the Monongahela River yesterday.

Twins Terrance and Arthur Keeley, 15, and Louis Jancel, 11, told police they had shinnied up the slanting girders of the pointed bridge before they realized they were so high. They climbed down after coaxing from two policemen.

The pigeons and eggs? The boys didn't find any.

'Glass Menagerie' Tonight At HAFB

Tennessee Williams' play, "The Glass Menagerie," will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at the Hamilton Air Force Base Service Club.

The play, which played to capacity houses on two weekends in Novato last month, is presented by the Novato Community Players under direction of Russell Dreosch. Taking lead roles in the drama of tenement life in St. Louis at the turn of the century are George Wahl, Sue Casey and Jim van der Beets.

Eichler Plans Homes West Of Terra Linda

Eichler Homes, Inc., plans to build 158 more homes in the newly annexed Nunes ranch to the west of Terra Linda.

Tentative maps for Eichler's Terra Linda Valley units 3 and 4 will be presented to the San Rafael Planning Commission at its meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall. The new subdivisions will be located on the extension of Del Ganado road.

Another subdivision of 20 homes is planned by Merz Bros. along Glen Park avenue in San Rafael, between Myrtle avenue and Hacienda court. It will be called Parme Terrace.

A public hearing will be held on a request for a use permit for a mortuary on the northwest corner of Lincoln and Prospect avenues. George B. Miller of San Francisco wants to renew a use permit, which was granted in 1957 but has expired.

Another public hearing is scheduled for the proposal to bring apartment zoning to a portion of East San Rafael Assessment District between Belvedere and Canal streets and Bellam boulevard. The area is now zoned for planned commercial and light industrial.

Apartment zoning is sought for five lots on Reservoir road from west of Wood street to Mirmar avenue. The lots are now zoned first class residential.

Rafael Racquet Club Estates, which plans a 55-acre subdivision along Fifth avenue southwest of Sun Valley, seeks apartment zoning for four and one-half acres. Developers are John J. Farrar, William Batey, and Hal Wagner.

Ernest J. Giomi wants to use an apartment residence at 16 East Crescent drive for music instruction.

Other matters on the agenda include requests for variances on setbacks and roof overhangs, and small subdivisions of two and three lots.

Good Guess By S.F. Woman Wins Her 'House Of Money'

When it comes to guessing money, Mrs. Caroline Feeney of San Francisco has the edge on everyone in Marin.

Mrs. Feeney won the $335.30 in a "house of money" displayed by Marin County Savings and Loan Assn. during its grand opening celebration by guessing within 33 cents of how much was in it.

When the money is all pennies, though, a couple of San Rafael girls are still better guessers.

Angelea Price of 175 Oak drive and Michelle Balfour of 246 Elvia court won a children's penny-guessing contest by estimating there were 3,758 pennies in the container. The count showed there were 3,756. The girls split $25 offered as first and second prizes.

Prizes of $1 each for close guesses went to Craig Balfour, brother of winner Michelle Balfour; Marilyn Hamilton, 23 Idlewood Place; Janice Beccia, 1765 Lincoln; Kevin Madera, 143 Solano, all of San Rafael; Louis Galetti, 257 San Francisco blvd., San Anselmo.

Bill Pandiana, 34 Belle avenue, Scott McDougall, 727 Montecillo road, Michael Fraize, 1444 Nye street, a Carolyn Hinrichs, 54 Balboa, all of San Rafael; Louis Devincenzi, 257 San Rafael boulevard, San Anselmo.

The savings and loan firm recently moved into newly built quarters at 990 Fifth avenue, from 1219 Fourth street, San Rafael.

Redwood Frosh Plan Assembly

The annual freshman assembly at Redwood High School, the third in a series of class programs for the student body, will be presented May 22.

"The Television Era" will be the theme of the assembly, student body vice president Richard Riede has announced.

Seniors will present their traditional "farewell assembly" the last week of school, Riede said.

Hallinan Home Picked As Site For Picnic

The home of Vincent Hallinan at Lagunitas road and Glenwood avenue in Ross has been chosen as the site of the annual National Guardian picnic June 26, it was announced today by publicity chairman Malvina Reynolds.

According to the Northern California National Guardian Committee, the money raised for the affair will go to a nonprofit progressive newspaper published in New York with circution on the West Coast.

Woman Hiker Now Leads Servicemen

WENDOVER, Utah (AP)—The Utah Highway Patrol reported today that Dr. Barbara Moore, the spunky British vegetarian, has passed her two countrymen in their cross-country hike.

The patrol radioed its Salt Lake City headquarters that Dr. Moore passed the two British servicemen while they were apparently asleep. She passed them a short distance east of Wendover.

The woman left the border town of Wendover at 3 a.m. She trailed the sergeants by six miles before retiring shortly before midnight.

At 7 a.m. Dr. Moore was about five miles ahead of the two servicemen, Mervyn Evans and Patrick Maloney.

Redwood Students Rehearse For Play

Redwood High School drama students are now in rehearsal for the production of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough, to be presented May 13 and May 14 in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

The cast, directed by Joseph Wadlington, includes Linda Foster, Marge Deedy, Dona Fry, and Bob Talmage.

Today is Tuesday, April 26, the 117th day of the year, with 249 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching is first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1564, William Shakespeare was baptized at the parish church at Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire, England.

In 1607, the first British colonists to establish a permanent settlement in America landed at Cape Henry, Va.

In 1785, naturalist, painter and writer John James Audubon was born.

In 1819, Lodge No. 1 of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was organized at Baltimore, Md.

In 1865, after a relentless search, Federal troops discovered the hiding place of John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln's assassin, and shot and killed him when he refused to surrender.

A thought for today: William Shakespeare, in the play "Othello" said: "How poor are they that have not patience."

Council Approves Pay Raise For Corte Madera Employees

Corte Madera's town employees will get a 3 per cent across-the-board cost-of-living pay raise for fiscal 1960-61, and members of the police force will get an additional raise to bring their total pay hike to about 10 per cent.

Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow's pay will go up from $802 to $867 per month.

The salary schedule for the town's superintendent of public works, for which an examination is to be given May 7, will be pegged at $484 to $587, rather than starting at $417.

These decisions were reached by four members of the town council (Raymond L. DeYoung was absent) last night

Brandow was instructed to incorporate them in a salary schedule resolution to be presented for passage at the next regular council meeting on May 2.

The town manager presented a proposed new salary schedule calling for an across-the-board raise of 2½ per cent. Councilman Roger F Morse suggested it be made three per cent after Brandow informed the council that Bureau of Labor Statistics figures showed a 3.08 per cent increase in the cost of living in the Bay Area during 1959.

Brandow urged the additional raise for policemen declaring, "Our police officers are definitely behind the average in the county in pay." The new scale will put the two patrolmen with two years service at $461 per month and place the latest patrolman hired and another to be added May 1 at $436.

Pay of police sergeant and inspector will go to $508 Police Chief Frank L. Nelson urged this category be raised to $530, and presented figures collected by Inspector Harold Hockett which showed the average for police sergeant in five other Marin cities as $537 The council, however, refused to go along, although Councilman Albert F. Kogler, near the end of the three-hour meeting, remarked he might still support the higher pay "if they can show us some real good reason for it."

Nelson's pay as police chief was raised only the three per cent in the across-the-board hike. However, the council, on suggestion of Brandow, added a $50 monthly stipend for Nelson's duties as fire chief. Nelson has served as fire chief on a purely volunteer basis, receiving no pay beyond the $3 per call paid all volunteer firemen.

This will bring Nelson's monthly pay to a total of $637.

"He's a good police chief and a good fire chief, and should be compensated for both," declared Mayor Edward Colthurst, who personally expressed willingness to raise Nelson's police chief pay to $613 and then add the $50 for his fire chief duties

Pay for gardener — the regular job of George Paraspolo, who is now also acting superintendent of public works—was placed in a range with a minimum of $417 per month. But the council, on urging of Brandow, placed the public works superintendency in a range of $484 to $587. Brandow said advertisements for applicants for the job at a lower range had been unproductive with only one other candidate besides Paraspolo. He said Paraspolo had indicated he might prefer to return to his fulltime gardener job.

A new classification of assistant public works superintendent was created, at Brandow's suggestion, with a salary range of $358 to $436. Brandow said the job would normally be that of street crew foreman. Morse objected that the small working force did not call for a foreman, but later went along with his fellow councilmen to approve the classification.

Pay of secretarial help was raised 5 per cent, to $2.37 per hour. A $5 hike in the $50 per month paid the town treasurer was approved. But the council held over a suggestion by Brandow that the retainer of Town Atty. John B. Ehlen be upped from $175 to $200 per month. Councilmen said they wanted to discuss it with Ehlen, who was not present last night

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today bade farewell to French President Charles de Gaulle with a pledge that "we'll stand together" in dealing with the Soviet Union.

De Gaulle told Eisenhower: "I have even greater confidence in our cause now since I have seen you."

The exchange took place on the north portico of the White House as de Gaulle paid a parting call on his host. De Gaulle was heading first for New York on a U. S. tour.

The French and U. S. chiefs were in agreement on a plan to challenge Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to demonstrate by action that he wants a relaxation of tension.

That action, at the start of next month's summit conference in Paris, was agreed on by the two presidents in four days of talks.

The two Western leaders agreed to make clear to Khrushchev that if he presses his Berlin demands too far he will kill all chance of getting an improvement in East-West relations in other fields.

Tecumseh, Indian chief of the Shawnees, is named in English, "shooting star."

TO STATE AGENCY

Corte Madera Plans Protest Of Billboard

The Corte Madera Town Council decided last night to carry the Battle of the Billboard to a higher jurisdiction. Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow was directed to draft a letter to the state Public Utilities Commission protesting the lease of Northwestern Pacific Railroad property just inside Larkspur to the Edgewater Inn for erection of a huge advertising sign.

The non-merger-minded Corte Madera council thus executed a flank attack on the merger-minded Larkspur Planning Commission, which has approved Campbell's plan for the sign.

Brandow's letter is to contain such words as "unsound" and "poor practice" relating to the lease of railroad property for other than railroad uses.

The battle is one of long duration and much frustration for the Corte Madera council. Two mayors ago, long before James Stockman bought the Edgewater Inn from Frank Rusalem, the council was battling Rusalem and Robert Campbell over roadside signs—not conforming to town ordinance—advertising the motel and Bob's in Marin restaurant.

Stockman and Campbell finally acceded to the town's demands and removed the offending signs (after winning some compromise), only to execute a quick flanking movement by leasing a triangle of railroad land just over the Larkspur line as the site for a billboard.

Brandow's attempt to outflank them by letter is to be presented in its final, strongly worded form to the council on May 2 for official adoption before being sent to the PUC.

Man Committed In Morals Case

Arthur Atwood, 34, of Terra Linda, who committed lewd acts with boys aged 5 and 8, was ordered committed to the Atascadero State Hospital yesterday as a sexual psychopath.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court sent Atwood to the hospital for 90 days of treatment and observation. After treatment there, Atwood will be returned to Marin for sentencing.

Atwood, San Francisco bellhop, molested the boys last year at 584 Las Colindas road, Terra Linda, where he formerly lived. He is married and a father of several children.

Giants Edge Cardinals, 9-8; Jones Set To Pitch Tonight

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants will send Sad Sam Jones against the St. Louis Cardinals tonight in an effort to stop the recent outburst of slugfests.

The Giants—who were walloped 9-4 by Chicago Sunday—came from behind last night to edge the Cards, 9-8, in a cliff-hanger. The victory moved San Francisco back into a first place tie with Pittsburgh in the National League.

Manager Bill Rigney's Giants don't have to worry about being behind when Sad Sam has his stuff. The unbeaten righthander has two victories—a one-hitter and a three-hitter. He will oppose Larry Jackson.

The sluggers had to pull last night's victory out of the fire. The Giants got an early lead with a homer by Jim Davenport in the third frame, but the Cards immediately rallied for four sparked by former Giant Daryl Spencer's three-run homer.

St. Louis added one run in the sixth on a homer by Stan Musial, and the Giants scored three in the tops of the seventh to make it 5-4. The Cards increased it to 7-4 in the bottom of the frame—and the Willies went to work.

After two men walked, Don Blasingame singled home one. Then Willie McCovey put the Giants in front with a two-run homer.

Carl Sawatski walloped a pinch-hit homer for St. Louis in the eighth—but the Cardinals were still one run down when the game ended.

Johnny Antonelli picked up one of the easiest victories of his career, as he pitched just one rocky inning, allowing two hits and two earned runs. However, he was the pitcher of record when the Giants went ahead.

Mays had two hits to keep his string going. The speedy centerfielder has hit safely in all 11 games of the season.

McCovey had two hits in four trips, Davenport had two for three, and Orlando Cepeda had two for five.

It was the only game played in the National League.

Only two games were played in the American League, with the Kansas City Athletics defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6-1, and the Baltimore Orioles nipping the Washington Senators, 3-2.

The Athletics registered their victory over Herb Score, who didn't make much of a debut in a White Sox uniform.

Traded by the Indians for Barry Latman last week, Score was hammered out of the box in the fourth inning after he had given up seven hits, five walks and six runs, including a homer by Hank Bauer. Knuckleballer Bud Daley, meanwhile, held the White Sox to three hits and retired the last 14 batters he faced to gain his first victory.

First baseman Jim Gentile's three-run homer off Russ Kemmerer in the first inning stood up all the way in the Orioles' win over the Senators.

Milt Pappas ended a five-game losing streak for the Orioles by hurling a five-hitter. One of the hits was rookie Don Mincher's first major league homer. The Orioles got only five hits themselves off Kemmerer and Pedro Ramos. But after Gentile's first inning wallop, they didn't need any more.

Rod-Gun Club Turns Down Compromise On Bay Flats

The Marin Rod and Gun Club last night overwhelmingly passed a motion made by its board of directors that the club oppose the closure of the area in San Pablo Bay designated by Hamilton Air Force Base as a "danger zone."

This means the club refuses to accept restriction of the area on a scheduled basis, proposed as a compromise by the Air Force in a letter to the club April 15, after earlier protests.

The letter stated the area in question, a two-and-one-half mile stretch of water and mud flats behind Hamilton's shooting range, would be open for duck season and on most weekends. It was written by Capt. Kenneth H. Kronlund, assistant director of wing operations.

One of the many members who expressed opposition to the closure said "it would deny fishermen one of the state's prime fishing grounds, and once they take it away its gone forever." Another spokesman said "we must protect what little area is left for sportsmen."

Still another protestant, the Department of Fish and Game, was represented by Robert Jones, who pointed out that the restriction would force small boats to go so far out in the channel it would create "a navagational hazard due to the rough water."

In a statement by Walter T. Shannon, director of the Department of Fish and Game, which was read by Jones, it was proposed that a new location for the range be found or deflectors be placed behind the range's targets. Similar suggestions were voiced by rod and gun club members.

One spokesman for those few who favored accepting the Air Force's compromise said, "It is not only poor sportsmanship to want the bay, but the base would, with the safety zone, then have the only local range for high powered rifles."

The Hamilton range (accessible to civilians) is to be modified into a high powered rifle range, club president Peter Bertoni told members.

Recently, the Army Corps of Engineers, to whom the Air Force made application to close the area, received more than 500 post cards and 28 letters protesting the action.

Col. John S. Harnett, district engineer, last week said that efforts will be made to find a solution mutually acceptable to the Air Force and the protestants. If that fails, a hearing on the application will be scheduled, he said, but it will be at least 30 days before it is held.

ANDRE RODGERS REPORTEDLY TO BE TRADED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Chronicle said today the Giants and Philadelphia Phillies are set for a swap.

Chronicle baseball writer Bob Stevens wrote from St. Louis that the Phils are believed offering right-handed pitcher Jack Meyer and veteran utility man Dave Philley for the Giants' Andre Rodgers, a rangy shortstop.

If the Giants throw in either righthander Ray Monzant or young southpaw Joe Shipley, Stevens said, the Phils would add relief pitcher Dick Farrell to the deal.

Do Giants Have One Personality At Home And Another On Road?

HANLEY

ST. LOUIS — Bill Rigney looked at Busch Stadium, home of the Cardinals, and mused "hitting in Candlestick may just bring these and other fences in a little closer."

The Giant manager might have added that certainly was the case in Chicago where his men concluded their first 1960 road series during the weekend with the Cubs.

Candlestick's spacious area doesn't make Busch Stadium or Wrigley Field look like band boxes but easy outs in the new home of the Giants are over the fence here just as they were at Wrigley.

It would be premature to draw any conclusion that the Giants have acquired a dual personality—a Ty Cobb ability at home and a Babe Ruth characteristic on the road. The 28 runs they scored in their first two road games at Wrigley against the Cubs, including eight homers, could be used as a sound argument for the dual personality thesis.

However appealing and enticing that may appear to Giant fans back home, final judgment should be withheld until Rigney and his men have made at least one complete swing around the circuit.

The pre-season analysis tabbed the Giants as a slugging outfit but Candlestick's wind and distant fences forced them to adjust. They did adjust admirably in the first seven home games, winning five of them without scoring more than six runs in any contest.

THE BIG QUESTION in the mind of every Giant fan, as the team took off on its first road trip, was: "Will they be able to readjust on the road?"

The answer seemed to come quickly. Those 28 runs ostensibly supplied it. But were they actually the result of an adjustment and then a readjustment? The Giants are good, make no mistake about it. But are they that good?

Baseball isn't golf and golf isn't baseball. But any hacker knows that it is a dangerous thing to attempt adjustments and readjustments on a golf course. Seasoned pros can do it because they know what they are doing and more importantly—why.

MAYBE ALL OF the Giants are seasoned pros now or, as the New York boys would say: "They have matured." Well, Willie Mays certainly "matured" long ago both in the proper sense of the word when he attained his majority, and in the baseball sense before the Giants moved west.

And none will dispute that Mays is a seasoned pro. He definitely knows what he is doing on a baseball field—and why. Perhaps Mays did adjust in Candlestick and readjust on the road.

SOMEHOW, WE CAN'T buy it. We do believe, however, that Mays is swinging smoother than he ever has since the '58 move of the Giants to the Golden Gate. Only occasionally has he tried to overpower the ball, attacking it, as he did so often last year.

The same applies to Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland. They have been stroking the ball, not trying for homers which always come naturally with a smooth swing. Willie McCovey also is getting the idea. Like a golf course hacker with a sweet swing, McCovey did remarkable things as a rookie last year because of his natural buggy-whip stroke.

HE TEMPORARILY lost the touch when he began experimenting with something that was near-perfect. Now, the big fellow seems to be getting back in the groove. When he does, the fearsome foursome will be complete.

Everyone is rightly convinced Candlestick did force the Giants to adjust—a fortuitous and beneficial adjustment that corrected a monotonous habit of over-swinging and attacking the ball, a bad habit encouraged by the jet stream and that inviting left field pavilion in old Seals Stadium.

CANDLESTICK IS one of the best batting coaches in the business. But, as we said, we can't buy that dual personality stuff. The boys are swinging on the road just as they were in Candlestick—smoothly. The road results thus far are more productive because the parks are smaller.

Knockout Victim Unconscious Nearly 8 Hours

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxer Leroy Sayles regained consciousness this morning, almost eight hours after being knocked out and suffering a brain concussion in his second professional fight.

The 22-year-old Berkeley middleweight was floored last night in the second round of a preliminary to the Henry Hank-Rory Calhoun middleweight bout here.

A California Athletic Commission doctor said Sayles is in fair condition and ought to be all right in time.

He said the concussion apparently required no surgery but may have done permanent damage. The doctor said he will recommend Sayles' boxing license be permanently revoked.

It took the big Philadelphia heavyweight just 2:35 of the first round last night to score a technical knockout over the Cut and Shoot schoolteacher before a record Texas crowd and closed circuit TV fans in 10 other cities.

Harris just barely had time to get in three left jabs to the nose before he was in trouble.

LEFT HOOK

A left hook was the damaging blow. Harris took an eight count under the ropes. More of a push than a punch quickly brought another eight count. Then Harris slipped and fell to the canvas and Liston was ready for the kill.

Liston cut loose with a right that caught Harris squarely on the chin.

Referee Jimmy Webb did not take time to start counting. He just raised Liston's hand.

"It was my easiest fight," Liston said after extending his record to 29-1 and recording his 20th knockout.

2ND DEFEAT

"He's a better puncher than Patterson," said Harris in taking his second defeat in 32 pro fights.

In 1958 Harris lost a 12th round TKO in a Los Angeles title fight to former champion Floyd Patterson.

Harris said he was surprised when Webb stopped the fight.

Hank Kayoes Calhoun In 2, Eyes Title Shot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bring on the champ, middleweight Henry Hank hollered today after knocking out Rory Calhoun in the second round of a scheduled 10 last night.

"If Gene Fullmer will fight me, I'll have the championship," said Hank, a cocky, 25-year-old Detroit battler.

But he acknowledged he'll fight anybody good for a fat payday. Matchmaker Bennie Ford said he'd try to get either Spider Webb or Dick Tiger to meet Hank here.

Hank, winning his seventh straight and 42nd fight, dropped Calhoun in the first round last night with a left hook to the head. Calhoun took the mandatory eight count, the last five on his feet.

They slugged it out in the second and for a while Rory, from White Plains, N.Y., was getting the better of it. But Hank unleashed a barrage climaxed by a devastating left hook. Then a left-right combination to the head put Calhoun on the Cow Palace deck.

He got up, but was too wobbly to stay up. Referee Vern Bybee gave him a helping hand and called a halt at 2:50.

The fight was officially scored a knockout.

"I've hit a lot of guys with hard left hooks with the same result: they wobble and go out," confided Henry, the third ranking middleweight. He went into the fight an 8-5 favorite.

Hank collected $8,000, Calhoun $7,500. The net gate was $18,203 from the crowd of 4,618.

Hank's record is now 42-10-1 with 51 knockouts. He's never been knocked out. The fight marked the second time Calhoun's been knocked out. Webb did it here.

"Well, he got nailed," Calhoun's manager, Al Bachman, said.

The manager added he'd like to bring Calhoun back to the Cow Palace—where Rory's lost five of six fights — but not against Hank. Rory wasn't talking.

KIDS CLEAN UP FISHING AREA

Approximately 40 members of the Marin Junior Rifle Club spent a busy and worthwhile day Saturday, clearing debris along a four-mile stretch of Papermill Creek. Under the direction of supervisors George Finney, Fritz Pfeffer and Gus Scheuermann, the teen-agers voted to do the work as part of its conservation project. Since trout season opens this Saturday, the stream will be in excellent condition for the hundreds of anglers who will flock to the area. Above, left to right, are Sherry Tuttle, Russell Boates and Dennis Scheuermann, shown picking up cans, bottles, papers, etc.

TRASH, ANYONE? — This is just about half of the debris the Marin Junior Rifle Club's "cleanup day" campaign collected Saturday. Following the work detail several members of the club were presented Hunter Rifle Safety certificates from Game Warden Al Giddings who cited the club's training program as one of the finest in California. Later the teenage workers were rewarded with a pot-luck picnic at Camp Taylor.

Deer Problem Hot Subject In Capitol

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Deer management, or mis-management, is a subject that ever is with us but it has been even more so in the past couple of weeks.

For one thing at a recent Fish and Game Commission meeting, a proposal for a single deer season, embracing the present coastal and inland seasons, with a one deer, either sex limit, was offered.

Secondly, the Citizens Advisory Committee on Big Game held its second meeting in the state Capitol.

And third, some interesting facts and theories about game management came out at a state senate hearing on another subject — the matter of predator control.

Because of the long controversy over deer management, most of which revolves around the questions of killing of female and immature deer and the extent to which range lands should be improved, seldom is anything new presented. However, once in a while old things are said in new ways and that provides some interest.

Putting together some of the statements made at the various meetings by Department of Fish and Game officials, it would appear the department feels harvest of surplus deer—perhaps up to 25 or 30 per cent of the herd total — is the prime management feature.

At the state senate hearing, Walter T. Shannon, director, said the control of predators is an expensive form of management and less effective or desirable than some others. He said management through harvesting of surplus animals often was a better means than control of predators.

Shannon said predator control was most desirable in areas where intensive management, through hunting, was carried on. This would lend some weight to charges over the years, that the department, when it was not permitted to have surplus deer hunted in certain areas, cut down its predator control in those areas, thus letting the lions, coyotes and bobcats have some of the deer for which it wasn't able to issue hunting permits.

The discussion also brought out a statement from Shannon that the department spent some $75,000 or $80,000 a year in habitat improvement for deer and about $240,000 for "management." When asked to explain what the "management" included, he said it meant taking surveys of population and conducting public hunting.

The citizens committee also had Shannon as a witness before it. One member wanted to know if it was true the department preferred to "manage" a range through harvesting of surplus animals before it attempted to improve the range.

Shannon, and Ben Glading, game management chief, admitted this was true for good reasons. They stated, as has been said often before, that, once a range has been overbrowsed, it takes it longer to make a comeback than the normal year-to-year feed increase would indicate.

LACK OF SPEED

Outlook Dim For Stanford Eleven

STANFORD (AP)—Cactus Jack Curtice, who came to Stanford in 1958 as head football coach with wit and good humor, appears serious and at times glum this spring.

"If you can't catch them, you can't tackle them," he says while watching his 73 players go through spring drills. "You just can't teach a boy to run faster than he can go."

Which pinpoints the Stanford problem—lack of overall speed.

"When you don't have speed, it hurts you most of all on defense," says Curtice. "A big, strong, slow boy can gouge his way for three or four yards on offense, but on defense if you can't overtake them you can't bring them down.

"The lack of speed has stymied us at the corners and in the secondary for the last two seasons."

BIG GUN BACK

Stanford gets back its big gun, record setting quarterback Dick Norman, the nation's leader in passing and total offense.

On the surface, 21 returning lettermen—only 13 lost—would seem to present an optimistic picture. But among those gone are the No. 1 and 2 men at both ends and the pass catching flanker back stop—six men who caught more than 80 per cent of Stanford's passes last season.

Stanford led the nation statistically in five departments on offense but won only three games against seven losses. The Indians gave up 261 points, more than any other team in Stanford history.

The backfield is loaded with lettermen. Scrambling for the quarterback spot behind Norman are last year's reserve Rod Sears and baseball pitcher Jim Smith. Three freshmen, John Power, Reg Rhodes and Gary Sargent battle to make the squad.

Righ half is solid with Mac Wylie, Gil Dowd and Hal Steuver returning. Fullback is equally set with returning Archie Schmitt, Gary Craig up from the redshirts and last year's regular, Skip Face. The latter, who scored 100 points, isn't in school this spring but is expected back in the fall.

Tom Boysen looked like the outstanding flanker back until he broke his foot stepping into a gopher hole as he walked off the practice field. Now the battle is between John Bessey, a letterman and Dale Ostrander, a reserve.

END PROBLEMS

Filling the end spots provides the biggest problems with leading pass catcher Chris Burford and Ben Robinson gone. Sophomores Vic Preisser and Bob Peters are battling with letterman George Honore for one spot while junior Rich Hearney leads for the other.

Unpredictable knees provide the big question mark at tackle. Co-captain elect Dean Hinshaw was hurt after one play in 1959 and Phil Toorbald, a brilliant frosh three seasons ago, has been fighting knee trouble ever since. Behind them are two freshmen, 250-pound Charlie Buehler and C. B. Simons and last year's surprising sophomore Jack Gordon.

PASS PLENTY

"We'll probably go with our experienced men and make our reserves mostly sophomores and juniors," said Curtice. "We'll be passing a lot. We have to. I hate to say it, but it looks blue.

"Washington has all its players back, USC and UCLA had very few upper classmen on last year's teams, and we pick up the Air Force Academy on our schedule."

MAGUIRE WINS

Junior Net Finals At M.V. Courts

Harvey Klyce of San Rafael and Brian Laurie of Mill Valley will team up against Red Witt of Larkspur and Gary Rose of San Pablo tomorrow afternoon in the 18 and under doubles finals of the Northern California Tennis Championships.

Since three of the four participants are Marin County residents, the match will be played at Mill Valley Tennis Club instead of San Francisco.

The Klyce-Laurie team won the first set Sunday, but darkness forced postponement of completion of the match until tomorrow. The match will start at approximately 3:30 p.m.

Warning On Reports Given

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The advent of the boating season has brought a warning from the state Division of Small Craft Harbors that all serious boating accidents must be reported to the state.

Lachlan M. Richards, chief of the Small Craft Harbors Division, issued the reminder yesterday. He noted that failure to report is a misdeameanor subject to fine or imprisonment or both.

Any accident on California waters resulting in death or injury to a person or damage to property in excess of $100 must be reported.

In cases involving death the report must be submitted within 48 hours. It's five days in other cases.

Richards said report forms are available through sheriff's offices, insurance companies and several boat landings.

Even Racehorses Are Affected By Change In Time

SAN MATEO (UPI)—Daylight saving time can be credited with an assist in El Matador's easy win in the fourth race at Bay Meadows yesterday.

Trainer Lou Carno was notified by phone Sunday night to scratch El Matador, but Carno forgot to move his watch up an hour Sunday when daylight saving time went into effect.

When Carno arrived at the track for scratch time at 7 a.m. yesterday (by his watch), it was 8 a.m. and too late. Carno thought about asking the stewards to allow him a late scratch, but instead he called owner Hal King in Los Angeles and persuaded him to let the horse run.

El Matador, with jockey Pete Moreno up, won going away.

Dodger Manager Has Pitching, Hitting Woes

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dodger manager Walt Alston was in a quandary today. He didn't know whether to worry about the hitters or the pitchers as Los Angeles took on the Chicago Cubs.

So he worried about both.

Alston went with his one starter this season who has been effective — big Don Drysdale, hoping the fireballing side-armer can halt a four-game Dodger losing skein.

Opposing Drysdale was leanjawed Glen Hobbie, who shut out the Dodgers on a five-hitter in the second game in the Coliseum.

As for the hitters, Alston juggled his lineup, ordered a two-hour batting drill at Wrigley Field yesterday on their day off.

With Duke Snider out of the lineup today because of a twisted trick knee, Alston went with Wally Moon, Don Demeter and rookie Tom Davis in the outfield.

Alston moved Johnny Roseboro—the club's leading regular hitter with .294 — into the No. 5 spot. He had talked of starting pinch-hit hero Chuck Essegian if things didn't improve. That may be his next move.

Add to his troubles the fact that Norm Larker's ulcer is acting up and you have a picture of the manager of the world champion club whose team is within a whisker of the second division.

"It always seems to act up in April," said Larker, who probably is doing some worrying for the skipper.

The Dodgers' touted young pitching staff started out like it was going to mow down the hitters like grass, but the hitters had to buy a base hit.

In the last series, the hitters finally began to get on base — not very often, but sometimes—and the pitchers couldn't seem to find the plate with radar. If they did, as often as not, somebody would knock it out of the park—usually Ken Boyer.

"It's enough to drive a guy nuts," moaned Alston.

Alston never has lost more than six straight since he took over the club in 1954 and he doesn't plan to start now, especially since the Dodgers return to Los Angeles after the Cub series for a long home stand.

The Dodgers will meet San Francisco's Giants Thursday night, then in order face Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in Memorial Coliseum.

He Learns While He Earns

WHO'S THE BOSS HERE?

Most modern, happy families share responsibilities. At the Millers, Mother is boss in the kitchen. Dad is head man in the wood-working shop in the basement. Out on his newspaper route, Jeff, Jr. is king. This is his own business, which he developed from scratch. He buys newspapers and sells them at a profit. It's great fun being one's own boss. But along with the privilege come definite responsibilities. A boy with a business must be punctual, dependable, and honest. He learns that he succeeds in direct proportion to the initiative and effort put forth. Although he probably wouldn't put it in these words, Jeff learns the dignity—and necessity—of hard work and genuine service to others. His parents know that in learning to be his own boss now, Jeff will be a better leader of men tomorrow. That's why they, and thousands of other parents, so thoroughly approve of newspaperboy training.

The chamber also decided to join the Marin Visitors Bureau for the first time.

Ike Plans Effort To Prod Solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower soon will send Congress a special message prodding it on unfinished items in his legislative program, such as foreign aid and revision of the minimum wage law.

This was disclosed today by Republican congressional leaders after they met for more than two hours with the President.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) told newsmen the President was "quite concerned" about recommendations made in his State of the Union Message last January and still waiting congressional action.

Dirksen mentioned only foreign aid and revision of the minimum wage law as subjects which might be mentioned in Eisenhower's special message.

Dirksen and Charles A. Halleck, the House GOP leader, said the President had indicated opposition to two bills pending in the House—a measure to raise the pay of federal employes about $1,600,000,000 a year and the so-called emergency home ownership bill coming up in the House tomorrow.

Crazed Father Beats Children

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A 40-year-old auto parts store operator attacked his four children and wife early today with a claw hammer, beating one of the children to death and critically injuring two others.

Walter W. Brass, described by a neighbor as mild-mannered, attacked his family as they slept in their suburban Euclid home. He beat them over the head repeatedly with the steel hammer and then tried unsuccessfully to commit suicide.

Janet Lynn Brass, 3, died about four hours later.

The Community Chest idea began in Cleveland, Ohio.

HE WASN'T IN A HURRY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Thomas A. Callahan, 68, will no doubt have a more modern alibi the next time he visits Jacksonville.

Callahan told the policeman who arrested him before dawn yesterday that he was merely waiting for a streetcar. "There hasn't been a streetcar in this town in 20 years—10 days for vagrancy," Judge John Santora ruled.

Camp Escapee Nabbed By Policeman In L.A.

One of the two inmates who walked away from a San Quentin Prison conservation camp at Weott in Humboldt County on April 16 was captured last night by a police officer in downtown Los Angeles, minutes after the escapee allegedly robbed a supermarket of $2,135 and forced the assistant manager to help him escape.

The escapee, Jack Colevris, 32, of San Francisco, was arrested by officer G. R. Henderson on a downtown street after the patrolman heard the robbery broadcast on his radio and saw the bandit driving his hostage's car, United Press International reported.

Police said Colevris, who escaped April 16 from San Quentin, where he was serving 10 years to life for armed robbery, entered the market carrying a revolver and ordered a clerk to empty all the cash registers.

Colevris then demanded he be taken to assistant manager William E. Larue, 28, of Hawthorne, who was forced to hand over cash from the office safe. The bandit then ordered Larue to drive him into the downtown area, where he released the hostage and drove away in his car.

Officers said Colevris was suspected of robbing several markets here since his escape from the prison camp.

Associate Warden Walter D. Achuff said Colevris will be tried in Los Angeles and possibly Humboldt County. Achuff said if Colevris is convicted he will probably be sent to Folsom.

The other escapee, still missing, is William Stabler, who had been in prison since 1953 for a robbery conviction in Los Angeles. He was serving a five year-to-life term.

Janis Martin Delights Thursday Music Club

The beauty of Miss Janis Martin, mezzo soprano, combined with her gorgeous voice, charming personality and perfect poise, made her performance last week for the Thursday Musical Club delightful. The program was given at the Kent Woodlands home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Price.

With Miss Peggy Donovan as her piano accompanist, Miss Martin sang in her first group: "Art Thou Troubled" from Rodelinda, Handel, "Qui Sedes Ad Deteram Patris," Bach, and "I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly" from Indian Queen by Henry Purcell.

Next Miss Martin sang three songs by Faure: "Adieu," "Mandoline" and "Les Berccaux." These were followed by seven Gypsy songs by Dvorak, including the favorite, "Songs My Mother Taught Me."

For her fourth group Miss Martin chose "Printemps Qui Commence" from Samson and Delilah, Saint-Saens, "Pres Des Remparts de Seville" from Carmen, Bizet. She concluded her program with "The Day Is No More," John Carpenter, and "Velvet Shoes," Randall Thompson.

For her encore, Miss Martin sang two spirituals arrangements by H. T. Burliegh; "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Chile" and "Ride On, King Jesus."

Mrs. John Wolfe, president, following her greeting to members and guests, announced that the nominating committee had been chosen to select officers for the coming season. On it are Mrs. Russell Smith, chairman, and Mesdames Herbert K. Brainerd and Harvie Freed. Mrs. Cloyd Kimball, program chairman, presented the artists and gave a brief summary of their musical backgrounds.

A tea, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry Drath, followed the program. Assisting her were Mrs. Dudley Miller, co-chairman, and Mesdames Ernest Kirschner, Edward Hindley, Carlo Caletti and Alfred Kuehl.

Presiding at the tea table, which was centered with cream and gold hued carnations and small chrysanthemums, were Mesdames Gus Niederholzer Jr. and Eugene Lloyd.

100 Sausalito Club Guests Hear Talk By Count Marco

A hundred guests swelled the attendance at the Sausalito Woman's Club on Thursday to a "packed house." The guest speaker was Count Marco, San Francisco newspaper columnist, who was presented by Mrs. Robert Scarborough, program chairman.

"Controversial," by his own admission, Count Marco preceeded to tell the audience what is wrong with American women. His pet antipathy, "basic black with pearls," was, by pre-arrangement, much in evidenc as the costume of the day, and worn with tongue in cheek. Count Marco's first barb was to deride women for dressing for the women in their circle rather than for the men in their lives. Most of his remarks were a repitition of those appearing in his column with advice that has been handded down since the time of Eve. "Take good care of your man — the competition is terrific. Avoid the 'morning look'—beware of quarrels over 'tremendous trifles' and, like European women, see to it that home and family are the paramount interests in life." A question and answer period followed the talk and as a finale, Count Marco was forced to admit that he preferred the United States as a place to live.

Several out of town members were seen in the audience. Mrs. Coulter McKeever of St. Helena joined her daughter, Mrs. Jerome Adams; Mrs. William McAfee of Hillsborough was with a "no host" luncheon group at the Alta Mira before the program, and Mrs. William Donaldson (a past president) of Belvedere and Mrs. Clayton Drew of Corte Madera were among the guests at a luncheon given by Mrs. Porter M. Griffith.

Assisting Mrs. L. S. M. Beckett at the reception desk were Mesdames Ernest H. King and John C. Stickney with Mesdames Frank Hogue and Willard A. Hall greeting arrivals.

Mrs. Charles H. Merrill Jr., who did the flower decorations, held to the "theme" by using black calla lilies entwined with pearls for her arrangements.

Mrs. Leonard G. James was tea chairman, and pouring for the large gathering were Mesdames James J. Carroll and Chester I. Dennis.

Lawyers' Wives Of Marin To Stage Style Show May 1

Subpoenas were recently served on the wives of Marin's lawyers. The "Legal Eagles" are not particularly concerned, since Uncle Sam's mailmen were "process servers," and the "writs" were invitations.

Lawyers' Wives of Marin will present a "Belles and Beaux of Yesteryear" fashion show on May 1, which happens to be not only May Day but Law Day in the United States as well.

Mrs. William T. Bagley is chairman of the fashion show, which will feature clothes dating back as far as 1820. Nor will the display be confined to the distaff side, for some leading lights of the Marin bar will parade male fashions of bygone generations.

Champagne will be served at the show, which will be the highlight of the organization's social season. "Witnesses" were ordered by subpoena to be present at the San Rafael Improvement Club between 5 and 7 p.m., then and there to partake of champagne and fun.

The Marin Bar Association and Legal Air Society are co-sponsors of the benefit affair, proceeds from which will assist the legal aid program in Marin County. Legal aid is the chief charitable enterprise of Lawyers Wives of Marin.

Mrs. Muirison K. Taylor is in charge of reservations and was responsible for the original invitations.

Other members of the committee are Mesdames Robert D. Huber, Sydney P Murman and P. Roy Vallarino refreshments; Roger P. Garety, Robert H. Andresen and Hugh Downey, clothes; and John G. Buresh, liaison.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. M. K. Taylor of Corte Madera.

'Crazy Tennis' Tournament Is A Success

So successful was the Mill Valley Tennis Club's recent "Crazy Tennis" tournament that Mrs. Bertram Hirch, tennis chairman, will repeat the tournament this fall.

That is, it will be repeated, Mrs. Hirsch says, if Mrs. Melvin Klyce feels up to bringing order out of chaos a second time. Mrs. Klyce was the "evil genius" who "paired" teams of three on a side and made up the "draw."

Carrying off honors in spite of handicaps were Mesdames John K. Bloom, James S. Reeve, Robert Huber, Warren Hodgdon, Robert Andresen and J. T. Sullivan.

After the clash of racquets died away luncheon was served in the clubhouse. Decorations continued the theme with broken racquet "arrangements," flower pots suspiciously resembling old discarded tennis shoes, and a hugh, old fashioned coffee pot.

Social chairman Mrs. C. Philip Seymour was assisted by Mesdames Lloyd Postel, Huber, Reeve and Sullivan, and Mrs. Klyce by Mesdames Aubrey Harwood and Eugene Crawford.

Fashions from a Novato store will be shown.

Miss Millie Cameron of the John Robert Powers Studio in San Rafael will give a demonstration of makeup

Mrs. Robert Sherman is model chairman.

Those who are to model are Mesdames James Henderson, Charles Broan, Arthur Grahman, Leroy Jones, Carlos Rivamonte, Harold Avery and Don Aughney, Misses Joanne Suvell, Pat Baseheart, Gail Coniglio.

Presbyterian Women Hear Hall Chaplain

Lowell King, chaplain at Juvenile Hall, was speaker at the recent meeting of United Presbyterian Women.

The program "Our Youth, Our Town, Our Church" was arranged by Mrs. Philip Dickinson, chairman of the Social Education and Action Committee. Mrs. Dickinson spoke briefly at the conclusion of King's address and posed the question "What are we as Presbyterian women going to do about Juvenile Delinquency?"

Mrs. Walter Panholzer gave the devotions.

King, in his talk, referred to the prodigal son parable and said, "What would have happened if, when the prodigal son came to himself and decided to go home, he had seen that his own father was enjoying himself in this same den of iniquity —that his father was as bad or worse than he.

Or if when he got home he had found no one there.

"The story of the prodigal son is not as tragic as the story of most of the young people in Juvenile Hall because, when he came to himself and decided to return home, he had a home to go to and he had an understanding father who not only forgave him but welcomed him back."

Mrs. Winston J. Jones and Mrs. Hammond E. Wright, decor coordinators, have planned a unified scheme to carry out the country market theme—from a surrey at the entrance to the center grounds to the bonneted dairy maids selling eggs and chickens.

Barnes, with the help of their green-thum assistants will set up The Potting Shed, featuring slips and plants from Marin's most beautiful gardens. Equally gay will be the hat-blooming tree presided over by Mrs. John C Cummings.

For the comfort of all concerned Mrs. Jack Hunt Jr. will have for sale an assortment of handy decorated shopping bags and Mrs. Harry Koons will provide checking service so that customers may stroll unburdened about the grounds.

And, in addition to the delectable home-made pies, cakes, breaks, cookies, cupcakes and candies for sale, Mrs. Frank Brown and her "Harvey girls" will serve lunch; and Mrs. William Grace will dispense her famed ice cream lovingly made in hand-freezers.

To round out a full day, for "snacking" before or after lunch—or indeed, all day long—the Northgate Juniors, under the supervision of Mrs. A. Barlow Ferguson will sell soda pop, cotton candy, hot dogs and such treats. They'll also have a supply of balloons for sale.

Assisting Mrs. Perry as chairman of the 1960 event is a steering committee including Mesdames Frank Dettner, Philip Nathan, Harvie M. Freed, Walter Baird, and Mrs. Simons.

Posters and signs will be made by Mrs. Fisher Kinslow and Mrs. James Heynemann.

Joanne Willis Ronning Marries Robert E. Long In Mill Valley

A popular Marin couple joined the ranks of the young marrieds on Sunday when Joanne Willis Ronning became the bride of Robert Edwin Long, only son of Mr. and Mrs Edwin Shepard Long of Sausalito.

Joanne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Ronning of Mill Valley, was given in marriage by her father at a single ring, 4 o'clock ceremony at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour Mill Valley The Rev. D. Murray Hammond officiated at the rites.

Joanne's peau de soie gown had a lace yoke worked with seed pearls and pearlquins. The long skirt had a full bustle and ended in a train with lace applique scattered over the skirt. The finger tip veil fell from a lace coronet seeded with tiny pearls and her bouquet was white tulips. The bride's attendants, in a springtime color scheme, wore identical dresses of jade green chiffon over taffeta, made with three quarter sleeves and tulip skirt; their headdresses were fashioned of ribbon and pearls, with short veils, to match their gowns. They carried nosegays of yellow baby roses. Serving as maid of honor was Miss Sally Lilleston of Mill Valley, with bridesmaids, the Misses Bonnie Reardon and Kathryn Neher, also of Mill Valley and Pamela Powell of San Anselmo. Six year old Suzanne Brown was her cousin's flower girl wearing white organdy eyelet embroidery over jade green taffeta and carrying a tiny basket filled with yellow baby roses.

Bob's best man was Robert Ratti of San Francisco and the three ushers were Stephen De Maeyer of Mill Valley and Robert Ehlers and James Forkin of San Francisco.

Mrs. Ronning chose aqua silk for her daughter's wedding. Made with a portrait neckline and cummerbund midriff with tulip skirt, her shoes and bag were matching in color. Completing her costume was a hat of soft chiffon flowers in pastel pink and mauve Her flowers were pink cymbidiums.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Long, wore a two piece rose beige tissue taffeta, the skirt pleaed and the jacket styled after Chanel. Her hat was tailored lace over stiffened tulle and her flowers were also pink cymbidiums.

A reception for 150 immediately followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. A white four tiered wedding cake adorned with satin bells was featured Assisting with the guest book were the bride's cousins, Carolyn Brown of Belvedere Cynthia Willis of Corte Madera, Nancy Upham of Mill Valley and Beverly and Nancy Wortman of San Francisco.

When leaving by car for Carmel and San Simeon, the new Mrs. Long wore a brown and white checked suit with bone straw hat shoes and bag. The couple will be at home to friends early in May at 147 West Blithedale, Mill Valley.

Joanne was graduated from Tamalpais High School and Bob's high school alma mater is Madrin Catholic; both attended College of Marin. The bride is affiliated with Job's Daughters and Bob is a member of Native Sons and a reservist in the Air Force. He is employed at Pacific Telephone in San Francisco.

The couple's engagement was announced on Christmas day in 1958 and recently there have been many parties in their honor. Joanne's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John A Ronning of San Bruno and Mr Harold G. Willis and the late Mrs. Willis of Healdsburg. Bob is the grandson of the late Capt. and Mrs. Edwin C Long and the late Mr. and Mrs Alexander McAlister.

O'Donnell-Jackowski Rites Held In Tiburon

An 11 o'clock nuptial Mass Saturday morning at St. Hilary's in Tiburon united in marriage Jean Jackowski of Mill Valley and Francis P. O'Donnell of Narbeth, Pa.

White chyrsanthemums adorned the altar when the Rev. John J. O'Brien performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 100 guests.

The bride recited her vows wearing a floor length white silk brocade gown fashioned with very full skirt and fitted bodice having a high scoop neckline and three-quarter sleeves.

A coronet of orange blossoms held her shoulder length veil, and her flowers were a cascade of lilies of the valley and phalaenopsis orchids. She was given in marriage by her father, Michael L. Jackowski of Mill Valley.

The maid of honor, Judy Crillo of San Francisco, and the bride's junior bridesmaid, Jean's only sister, Elaine, were dressed alike in gowns of pink chiffon over taffeta having scoop necklines, elbow length sleeves and gathered skirts with cummerbunds. Their headdresses were bandeaux of pink leaves, and they carried bouquets of pink tulips.

Serving the bridegroom, whose parents are both deceased, as best man, was Stanley Barnickel of Costa Mesa, Calif., and the bride's two uncles, Alvin Kahnberg and John McWilliams, both of Sacramento, escorted guests to their seats.

Mrs. Jackowski attended her daughter's wedding in a royal blue print silk dress, pink hat and gloves, and wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

Standards of croft lilies and other white flowers flanked the receiving line as the newly married pair greeted guests at a reception in the Alta Mira Hotel following their marriage.

When the bride left for a two weeks' honeymoon at an undisclosed destination, she was wearing an aqua Irish linen sheath, beige coat, cage veil and gloves and black patent shoes.

The O'Donnells will live in Carmel, since the bridegroom is employed as a correctional officer with the department of corrections at Soledad, Calif. He is an alumnus of La Salle College and received his master's degree in psychology from Fordham University.

The new Mrs. O'Donnell was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and attended Hunter College in New York City, where she was also employed at the Institute of Life Insurance.

Take Time To Inspect Our Investment In Our Youth

Each year about this time, the public schools of the county invite parents and taxpayers to visit the schools and inspect the way in which their money is being spent.

This is no idle gesture. This is a serious attempt on the part of school officials to demonstrate to both their supporters and their critics just what they are trying to do, and how they are trying to do it.

It should be much more than just going to school to see little Johnny in a skit or inspecting the dress that Mary made in the sewing class. Neither should it be a time of meeting the teacher or trying to get Henry's D raised to a C.

It should, instead, be a visit by mature, adult stockholders in our nation's most important industry to their factories. In these workrooms are formed the future. There the ingredients which go into the final product are poured together. There our nation's youth are shaped.

It is important whether the final product is good or bad. As stockholders each of us should be concerned with the general conditions of our great organization. As parents, many of us are even more interested in specific models of the general product.

In any event all of us should be willing to take some time to inspect our factories. Especially is this true if we stockholders are inclined to be critical.

Sometimes a critic will find that the thing of which he is most critical already has been corrected, and that the evil he remembers is a thing of the past.

Sometimes a visit by a critic may provide him with a practical experience in why things are done as they are which will make his suggestion more practical for the school authorities. Good ideas from laymen sometimes are tossed aside as impractical when in fact a modest revision of the proposal might make it acceptable, even embraced.

There are educators who feel they are trained to do their job and a layman "just can't know what he's talking about." We hope this type is on the decrease.

However, we do know that most school people are looking for suggestions which will help them do a better job.

Why not visit your school and see if you can be one to improve our investment?

A Flower For The Heart

Pretty bells of purple and white foxgloves with their speckled throats are blooming again on serene spikes in Marin gardens.

It is strange to think that someday our very lives may depend on the leaves from this handsome plant. Yet, it may be the case. They are a powerful, yet reasonably safe, heart stimulent. Another name for foxglove is its scientific one of Digitalis, which is the name of the medicine. Drug firms have succeeded in synthesizing the active drug in these leaves, but it is interesting that in some cases physicians believe the leaves themselves in pill form are better.

Digitalis is an old world plant which has gone wild and become naturalized in some parts of America, particularly Northern California and Oregon. It seems to thrive among the ferns under the redwood and bay trees.

As a flower and as a medicine, it gladdens the hearts of a number of Marinites.

MAN CREATED TO BUILD, NOT DESTROY

Vandals smashed 3,350 windows on the New Haven Railroad last year. It cost about $40 apiece to replace them.

The record was set in Stamford, Conn., when 54 car windows were broken in one day.

Destructive as human beings may be at times, they are going against their very nature when they give vent to their baser impulses.

Man is made by God to build, not destroy. He approaches true happiness only by being creative, never by being destructive.

Vandals who smash windows probably do it as a mischievous prank. And while they may experience a momentary, perverted pleasure in shattering the property of others, they likewise sense something of the degredation that takes place in themselves.

If they were meted out a punishment that compelled them to destroy, day after day, they would eventually do such harm to themselves that they might go mad.

"What a man sows, that he will also reap."

(Galatians 6:8)

Grant, O Father, that I can find happiness only in being creative, not destructive.

To Make Your Boss Happy, Just Skip These Tired Old Remarks

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that bosses get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"You may be king of the roost in your office, but this is not your office. This is your home."

"The employees' grievance committee wants to see you. It's about the water cooler again."

"If I had an expense account like yours, Mr. Foogle, I wouldn't have to ask you for a raise."

"Your wife says that, conference or no conference, she has to talk to you this very minute."

"I hate to be an office snitch, J. P., but if you knew that your vice president is saying behind your back you'd—"

"This is the 20th time we've found an anonymous note in the office suggestion box saying, 'What this company needs is new blood at the top'."

"All I can say is, if he's a captain of industry, Lord help the poor privates."

"Your wife just called again. She said don't forget to stop at the store and pick up some caviar."

"Well, he said to tell everyone he's in conference, but actually he's just taking a nap."

"It's bad enough when he comes in snarling. But when he smiles — that's when he really scares me."

"Here comes the chief now. Remember, let's tell him the good news first — then give him the full story."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Every Citizen Is Murderer

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

This morning, April 22, at 10 a.m., every citizen of California committed murder.

In our name, the state killed a man at San Quentin. Killed him in the very way the law itself considers the most heinous of all methods of killing — with premeditation. With extended, precise preparations, absolutely cold-blooded, impersonal.

For this man, life is now over. But the rest of us must live with the guilt of our share of participation in his death.

We now face participation in another official killing to be done in our names by the state on May 2 — the scheduled execution of Caryl Chessman. This can be stopped by a concentration of letters and wires by groups and individuals to both Gov. Brown and the justices of the State Supreme Court.

The degree of guilt, the character of the condemned, is not the issue. The issue is capitol punishment which by its very nature involves us all in murder.

I urge every citizen to sign the petitions now being circulated which would place the whole issue of capitol punishment on the ballot this next election. In this way every citizen of California can vote unequivocably on whether or not official murder can be done in his name.

No Honor With White Supremacy

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

British newspapers (I should say some British newspapers) are inclined to call the South Africans' rising call for independence a "self-inflicted wound" for their position "which might not be healed for generations."

Rather, I think, the governing policy of tyrannical white supremacy is a self-inflicted wound by that governing body, which disclaims any place of honor in the eyes of any free people.

FEPC Finding Discrimination Not Solely Prerogative Of Caucasians

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Fair Employment Practices Commission, the new state bureaucracy created by the Legislature at the heighth of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's popularity, is now finding out that discrimination is not wholly the prerogative of the Caucasian race.

In its most recent report to the governor, the commission cited a case in which a Negro waitress was "refused consideration" for employment by a drug-store, the part-owner of which was of Oriental ancestry.

Later, and after the commission gestapo took up the case, the Oriental drug-store owner hired the waitress, after disclaiming original discrimination. The pattern is, of course, that it's usually been easy for government officials to frighten members of another race.

ANOTHER PECULIAR instance was outlined in the report. A Caucasian cook, dispatched by his union to a restaurant job, stated he was rejected by the Caucasian employer on the ground that only Chinese cooks were used. This case hasn't been disposed of as yet, but is currently "under investigation."

It will be interesting to find out what the disposition of the case finally is. If the FEPC holds that discrimination existed, then it will be trodding on the toes of a restaurant employer who obviously wants to serve up Chinese food to his customers. If it hold that no discrimination existed, then it will be tacitly admitting that the fair employment practices act was adopted solely for the benefit of races other than Caucasion. This admission, of course, would make the act more unconstitutional than it already is, as all people are supposed to have "equal justice under the law." At least, this is the slogan on the United States Supreme Court Building in Washington, D.C.

SOME OF THE COSTS of the new bureaucracy are interesting, when compared with some of the other services the state provides.

For instance, on the basis of the commission's budget for the current fiscal year, the average cost of investigating a single case averages about $1,250. In other words, when the commission receives a complaint, the taxpayers of the state are required to provide $1,250 for investigation, writing a report, and eventually disposing of the case.

On the other hand, it costs most of the state college only around $900 to provide a college education for a student for an entire school year!

AND AGAIN from figures out of the state budget, it costs the state less to house and feed inmates at Folsom and San Quentin Prisons for an entire year than it does for the FEPC to investigate one case!

The FEPC report indicates that business is picking up. It states that since the operation started last September, a cumulative total of 162 complaints have been filed. But, the report points out, nearly half of the cases filed were handed the commission in the past two months.

Of course, as the bureaucracy grows, so will the number of cases, as the commission must have enough business to justify its total employees and see that the division grows and grows!

STILL 30% CLOSED

Congress Doing Better On Committee Secrecy

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Congress has barred the press and public from three of every 10 committee meetings so far this year.

A Congressional Quarterly survey covering the first three months of 1960 shows that 287, or 30 per cent, of 952 committee sessions have been held behind closed doors. This represents a decline from the 32 per cent secrecy ratio recorded for the same period in 1959. During the first three months of 1958, the figure was 33 per cent.

Since virtually all legislation is hammered into shape by Senate and House committees before it is cleared for floor debate, many critics of secrecy in government contend that closed-door sessions hide an important part of the legislative process from the public.

THE PRESIDENT of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, J. R. Wiggins, hailed the decline in committee secrecy since 1954, when closed meetings accounted for 41 percent of the total, but said the percentage could be reduced still further.

Wiggins, who also is vice president and executive editor of the Washington Post, said:

"Congress always has been the most openly conducted of the three branches of the federal government and it should be. Altogether too many committee meetings were conducted behind closed doors a few years ago and it is gratifying to note the number is diminishing. The number can be further reduced, I am convinced, if the committee meetings are conducted in the spirit of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946."

THE CQ SECRECY survey is based on a day-to-day tally of committee meetings as reported in the Congressional Record. The 1946 Legislative Reorganization Act requires that a list of committee meetings and hearings be published daily in the Record.

Of the committees reporting 30 or more meetings so far in 1960, House Ways and Means showed the highest secrecy percentage. The committee, which goes over thorny tax legislation and social security measures, preferred to work in private 76 percent of the time, closing 29 of 38 reported meetings.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee closed 35 of 51 meetings (69 percent) and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee closed 16 of its 32 sessions (50 percent). Both groups hear secret testimony from government officials and military leaders on the world situation.

Not included in the secrecy study were the meetings of the busy House Appropriations Committee, which holds all of its meetings in closed session and reports none of them in the Record. The Appropriations subcommittees prefer to go over budget requests in private because of limited office space. Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) also feels that public hearings tend to be more drawn out.

Press photographers are a tough-skinned breed and let nothing stand in their way when they're after a picture. When Khrushchev visited San Francisco last fall a lens lion became embroiled in a battle with a butcher. "What was it about?" asked a colleague later. "He got sore about nothing," protested the photog. "I was just standing in his meat on the counter."

In the crush, another photog. climbed over a recumbent female. "She's fainted," a reporter pointed out. "Either that," said the photog., adjusting his lens, "or she's on sale."

Many College Of Marin Students Needing Remedial English

College of Marin trustees pondering the problem of student difficulties with the subject of English fired some sharp criticisms recently at the faculty's ability to use the language.

Trustee Robert E. Oliver complained: "I am particularly disturbed by the material I get from the scholarship committee. It is always particularly abrupt and most cryptic and difficult to understand."

Said college vice president Paul Clymer, chairman of the scholarship committee: "We can write longer minutes."

Retorted Oliver: "Maybe clearer is what I am talking about. I would like to understand it."

THE TRUSTEE'S comment was prompted by a brief communique from the English department and scholarship committee recommending dropping "the present English 50-52 six-unit arrangement" and substituting "English X, five hours per week for three units, covering the same kind of material now included in English 50-52."

After learning that this meant that students very dificient in English would carry a lighter load of "subremedial English" next fall, the trustees okayed the recommendation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Deedy inquired whether the catalog wording for English X would be the "same high flown expression as you have for English 50 and 52." E. Dewart Lewis, chairman of the Department of English, said the description would be rewritten.

ENGLISH 50, in the catalog, is now described this way:

"Introductory Communication. Training and practice in communication. Special emphasis is placed upon increasing the student's ability to read rapidly, effectively and critically and to express himself in speaking and writing."

Commented Mrs. Deedy:

"Why don't we say a spade is a spade . . . and say we are doing basic English, sentence structure, grammar."

Mrs. Deedy—who has frequently voiced her concern at student deficiencies in English—also took a few "diplomatic" swipes at the teachers handling the remedial English classes.

"It takes a certain kind of person who can work effectively and willingly with these students . . . some of you eminent scholars find it a chore," she observed.

It's interesting to note the college English department's attitude toward remedial courses. Said instructor Cornelius B. Weber: "Remedial is the key word. The English department here regards it as meaning the kind of course in which minor surgery is performed . . . deficiencies are removed."

A REMEDIAL student, then, is defined by the English department as one with minor deficiencies.

But of 383 students taking the required Subject A examination in English last fall at College of Marin, only 70 passed. There were, then, 313 students with these "minor deficiencies"—313 who were required to take remedial courses.

And of these 313, 252 were so low that they were forced to take two "subremedial" courses, six units and six hours per week for one semester.

The change in requirements will ease the load somewhat for these students with "minor deficiencies," but it isn't going to change the number of students who are deficient in English.

And the number is despairingly and sadly large.

AS THE COLLEGE'S English department chairman (Lewis) reported, nearly all the entering College of Marin students expect to fail the Subject A examination. Most high school teachers he has talked to are never surprised at the large numbers who fail.

Subject A, according to Lewis, is a performance test and a safer guide to estimate students' capabilities in English than other tests.

But, asks Mrs. Deedy, if it is the best instrument to determine performance, "What of the number of students who cannot pass the test — and many high school people have told me they can't ever do it—are they doomed before they start?

Perhaps the answer, as suggested by a trustee of one Marin school district, is to work out a new coordinated program of English, kindergarten through high school—and examine present methods of teaching English with a sharply critical eye.

Certainly no school should sit back and placidly accept the fact that many of its students are going to fail the Subject A examination.

Breast Feeding Best For Baby, And Has Advantages For Mother

"I'm flat where I should have curves," writes a mother-to-be. "I'm afraid I won't be able to nurse my baby. However, I want to try.

"I have several questions. Do psychologists still say breast feeding is best? How can a mother who nurses her baby tell how much he is eating? When can a baby be weaned? Doesn't breast feeding tie a mother down?"

Your lack of curves does not mean you'll be unable to nurse your baby. A good many amply curved mothers can't nurse their babies, while many flat-chested ones can.

Why? I don't know. Talk with your doctor about it.

Most psychologists feel breast feeding is better. Bottle babies get along all right if they're loved, comforted and cuddled while eating. They must have the right formula too.

Mothers who breast feed their babies needn't worry about how much their little ones eat. Their babies stop when they're satisfied. Their food is the best. They let their mothers know when they don't get enough.

The time of weaning varies greatly. Some mothers start meaning when their babies are only two or three months old. Others wait until they're ready to drink from a cup. The wise rule is not to rush weaning.

Breast feeding needn't tie a mother down. Most babies can become accustomed to an occasional bottle when their mothers are away. When they're taken places mothers don't have to carry along bottles, sterilizing equipment and formula. That's a blessing.

The thieves knocked Coram down, grabbed the wrong bag and sped out of town in a fast car.

Fishing Limit Fails

GENEVA (AP)—The World Maritime Conference failed by a single vote today to set a new universal limit for territorial waters and exclusive fishing rights.

The conference voted 54-28 in favor of a Canadian-American proposal for a six-mile limit to territorial waters, with nations to have exclusive fishing rights for six more miles beyond their territorial waters after 1970.

The proposal was rejected because it failed to obtain the necessary two-thirds majority.

Present limit is three miles.

'Copter Company Plans Taxi Service

A helicopter company is ready to open a Marin-to-San Francisco air-taxi business "right now" if an appropriate landing and take off spot can be found in or near San Rafael.

The company interested in setting up a commercial helicopter service from Marin to San Francisco International Airport is the Bay Aviation Services Co., headed by Ed Gough of San Francisco. Gough's firm runs the executive aircraft terminal at the San Francisco Airport and Oakland Air Motor at the Oakland Airport. It provides copter service to Candlestick Park when the Giants are playing at home.

H. L. (Buck) Rogers, who says he saw the Wright Brothers take off at Kitty Hawk in 1903, was in town yesterday to look for a helicopter site near San Rafael. Rogers is in charge of ticketing for the Bay Aviation Services Co.

Rogers gave these figures on what a 'copter taxi service would mean for the Marin businessman:

Present plans call for a chopper with space for three passengers at one time. Each passenger would be allowed up to 40 pounds of baggage. The ride to San Francisco would take about 20 minutes. Fare would be $22.50 per person one way.

Eventually, Rogers said the company may be able to cut the cost if volume increases sufficiently.

Richard L. Shirley, manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, accompanied Rogers on a tour of Marin yesterday, looking for possible sites. Shirley said the new civic center site area may be able to accommodate the helicopter service a few years from now.

They also inspected the Loch Lomond area for a possible site.

The company wants to start the service immediately.

"We're ready to go in 24 hours if we can find the space," said Rogers.

Rogers, now 75, has been an aircraft fan ever since Dec. 17, 1903, when the first airplane took off for a short flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. He recalls he and his grandfather went home and immediately built a three-wing airplane with bamboo and linen.

"I got it off the ground," says Rogers. But not very far. The engine fell out, and Rogers crashed and suffered a broken arm. His mother immediately marched out and lit a match to the plane.

His second plane flew from Pennsylvania to California in 33 days, Rogers recalls. That was about 1906 or 1907. His grandfather drove ahead in a car, and Rogers had to do some fast flying to keep up with the car.

During World War I, Rogers piloted an observer plane for the French and recalls matching his rifle against a German pilot and his pistol in an air-to-air exchange.

Later on, when a machine gun was installed in his plane, Rogers says he shot about four inches off the propeller because the machine gun was not synchronized with the propeller.

He later worked as movie cowboy and stunt man. Rogers says his brother, the late Navy Cmdr. Charles Rogers, wrote a book about him entitled, "The Life of Buck Rogers."

Rogers claims that he and his brother were the first to own an airport in California. That was in Los Angeles.

You Needn't Speak English To Get License

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Giuseppe doesn't speak English very well, but he is a pretty good driver — good enough to qualify for a driver's license, if he wasn't for that language barrier.

Yet that won't stop Giuseppe. He'll get a license even if the driver's examination has to be given him in his native Italian. The examiner also may employ phonograph records, flash cards and toy cars.

This year about 60,000 Californians are expected to take similar tests in 100 Motor Vehicle Dept. offices around the state. All but a comparative few will pass.

"And it's surprising how few who pass have accidents," says a veteran examiner. "They know they've had a rough time getting a license. They appreciate it. And they know how fast they can lose it if they do something wrong."

Some of those taking the tests, like Giuseppe, are fluent only in their native tongues—which may be anything from Hungarian to Chinese. Others are native Americans with bare literacy.

Allowing drivers to be licensed despite a lack of fluency in English is not new. What is new is California's use of phonograph records to do it, begun on a full-scale basis in 1958 and since copied by several states.

The records—aimed at standardizing and speeding up testing — are used in special oral examinations which substitute for written tests on driving rules given regular license applicants.

Much the same questions which appear on the written tests are spoken on the records, slowly and with precise articulation. Applicants mark "true" or "false" on examination blanks and pick out road signs mentioned by the recorded voice.

If he fails the test, an applicant doesn't necessarily flunk the examination. He may understand driving regulations perfectly, but not understand the record.

The recorded voice for instance, directs an applicant to "look over the sheet until you come to a sign which means stop."

A French speaking applicant may well know that a traffic sign marked "stop" means "arrete" in his language, even though he can't understand the English directions used on the record.

In separate interviews with each applicant, the examiner—who may speak several languages — may determine this, principally by the use of small flash cards carrying replicas of road signs.

The examiner also may use toy cars placed on make-believe highways to find out whether the applicant knows the rules of the road.

If the applicant can readily identify road signs by sight — explaining them either in his native language or English — and does indeed know traffic laws, he'll be passed, and take a driving test.

Giraffe's Long Windpipe Triggers Scientific Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—A giraffe's nostrils are way up there but its lungs are down here. That is an outline of a giraffe puzzle which has been agonizing the scientific minds of psysiologists since the first encounter between such a scientist and this implausible beast.

The only place breathed-in air serves any purpose is in the lungs. But in the giraffe the distance between where the air goes in and where it is used can be as much as 11 feet. All of this long, long windpipe is "dead space" which the giraffe must keep filled with air.

Physiologically it is an unlikely arrangement and, theoretically, an impossible one. No one has ever seen a giraffe bothered by it, however, and science has had to accept that it works. This explains the avid curiosity with which three scientists seized upon the chance to look into a giraffe.

A deceased giraffe called Hi Hat, late inmate of the Royal Oak (Mich.) Zoo, had a tragic death. Her babe died soon after its birth and Hi Hat became depressed, lost her appetite, and died three weeks later from no apparent cause.

Almost everyone believed she had died of a broken heart. The physiological scientists, Drs. Eugene D. Robin, Joseph M. Corson and Gustave J. Dammin, failed to confirm that in their microscopic examinations, they said. Cause of death is unknown.

But their principal interest was in Hi Hat's lungs and long, long windpipe which they removed and fixed in formaldehyde. For comparison purposes they obtained the lungs and windpipe of a man and those of a cow

The comparison showed that the volume of air required to fill the "dead space" windpipe of the giraffe was well over four times that required for the cow's windpipe and more than nine times that required by a man's.

The capacity of the giraffe's lungs to draw in air was two and a half times greater than that of the cow's and about eight times that of the man's. This suggested part of the explanation, and the weight of giraffe lungs was twice that of the cow's although in total body weights the animals are comparable.

Microscopic examinations showed that giraffe lung tissue was thicker than cow's or man's, and contained a heavy network of elastic fibers which, the scientists reported to the technical journal Nature, was "admirably suited for the extra work that might be required to ventilate a large dead space."

Scouts To Get Awards Tonight

Ron Turner will be given an Eagle Scout award and Dennis Moody will be presented with a Star Scout award at a joint court of honor of Novato's Troop 56 of the Explorer Scouts tonight at 8 o'clock at Hill School.

Knights of Dunimus will be in charge of the Eagle award. Arvin Kruth, neighborhood commissioner, will present other awards.

According to Scoutmaster Ancil Moody and Explorer advisor Richard Beebe, plans are under way to make the joint court of honor an annual event during Boy Scout Week.

TOO MANY COOKS?
It's an old saying that "too many cooks spoil the broth." This can happen when too many people get involved in a real estate deal, too.

MULTIPLE LISTING
Makes it unnecessary for the buyer to contact a number of individual REALTORS to find the property of his choice. Because they pool their listings, all Multiple Listing Realtors have a complete selection of all types of homes, lots, apartments and income properties. They know the Marin County real estate market and are fully able to serve you.

WHEN YOU SELL
You can always depend on the courteous, competent service of your MULTIPLE LISTING REALTOR. When he lists your property through MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE you enjoy the services of 122 efficient, active offices working together to sell your property. THEN . . . as soon as an offer is made or a sale is completed your Realtor will be there to represent you.

WORST DISASTER

18 Years Ago Today, 1,500 Died In Mine

TOKYO (AP)— A series of tremendous explosions ripped through the Honktiko colliery in Manchuria April 26, 1942.

Five days later Manchuria's Japanese puppet government announced in a communique there were "not a few victims."

This was a laconic summary of the greatest mine disaster in the history of the world. More than 1,500 men, chiefly Chinese and Manchurian coolies, had perished.

The Japanese military, whose was machine was being fed by the Honkeiko colliery and the industries in the area, did not want the rest of the world to know what happened.

RIGID CENSORSHIP

A rigid censorship was imposed. And when Japan was defeated in 1945, much of the story of the Honkeiko disaster went up in the smoke of burned documents and papers.

This story can be pieced together:

The colliery was situated in a great industrial section of southeastern Manchuria near Fushun. It was operated by the semi-government Manchurian Heavy Industries Corp., which developed Manchuria for Japan.

The government communique said the accident occurred in the lower stratum of the Ryuto pit.

RESCUE SQUADS

"As soon as the accident occurred, the company organized rescue squads and made the utmost effort to prevent a spread of the disaster," it said.

"At present, reconstruction is proceeding smoothly. Coal mine operations were partially resumed on April 30. A complete resumption on the scale preceding the accident is expected soon. No damage whatsoever was done to the iron works."

That was the official version.

But recently, Zoroku Hatakeyama, 67, managing director of the colliery at the time told his story in an interview.

HISTORY

Hatakeyama, now chairman of the board of the Mining Welfare Facilities Construction Co., said:

"The Honkeiko colliery was a very rich mine, producing 80,000 to 100,000 tons a month of top grade coking coal.

"We employed over 10,000 Manchurian and Chinese coolies. None was slave labor. They all came on their own free will for the wages we paid.

"I don't remember the exact number of casualties. I think 1,538 seems to be accurate. The 1960 World Almanac lists 1,549 killed. All of them, except for about 30 Japanese foremen, were Chinese and Manchurian.

FIRST EXPLOSION

"The first explosion occurred in the lowest passage. Gas leaked out from some cleavage and was ignited by pick sparks. A very violent explosion took place.

"The gas explosion precipitated several cave-ins. At one cave-in an iron cable was cut, producing sparks. Another explosion occurred.

"Then the fire spread and caught coal dust in the underground air. There was a series of monstrous explosions everywhere.

"Autopsies showed about 300 miners were killed by the blasts.

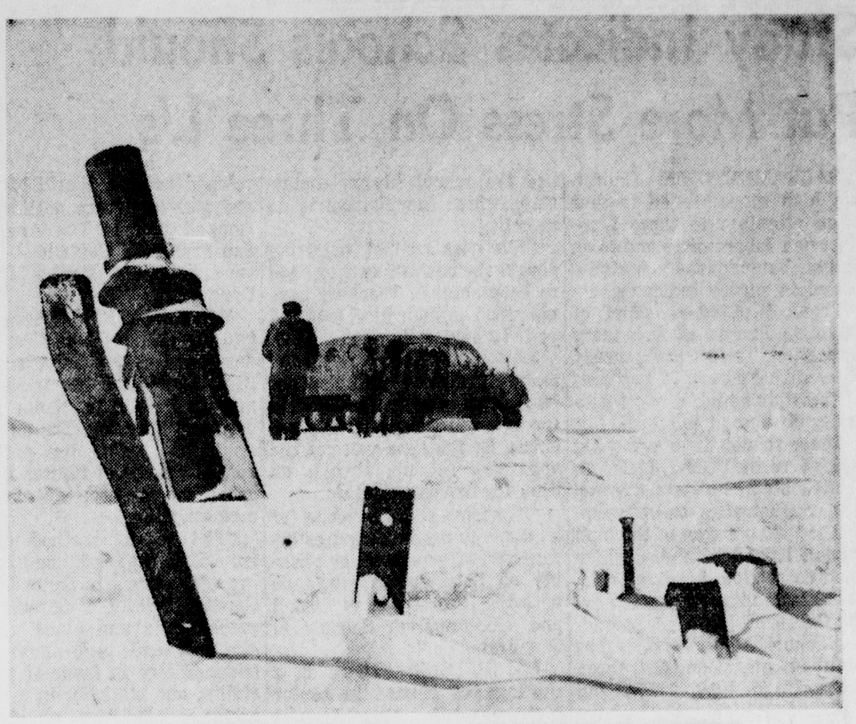
"Others could have been saved, if they had not rushed out to main horizontal passages. Those who chose to sit out the explosions in their galleries were rescued."

Well Aged

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A newly discovered relic of the prohibition era now decorates the back bar of Salvatore John's Tavern.

Workmen remodeling the place found a four-foot metal tank fitted neatly into a wall.

John, who leased the tavern two years ago, had no idea how it got there. But inspection of the tank disclosed that it contained five gallons of truly ancient moonshine and apparently had been cached there about 35 years ago.



RESTING PLACE IN SNOWY WASTES

Americans assigned to DEW (distant early warning) Line operations in the Far North visit Cambridge Bay, Canada, where the rusted smokestack and iron supports of an abandoned ship thrust above the snow-covered ice. The ship was the Maud in which Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen attempted the Northwest Passage in 1918. (AP Wirephoto)

Study Indicates Schools Should Put More Stress On Three L's

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California high schools need to give more attention to three L's—libraries, laboratories and to an extent, languages — a partially complete survey indicates.

Frank B. Lindsay chief of the state Bureau of Secondary Education, said the survey showed that about 70 per cent of the state's high schools generally do a good job

These schools have made big strides recently, he feels, in the teaching of history, geography, mathematics and physics.

About 30 per cent of the high schools have weaknesses which need correction, Lindsay said.

The accreditation survey by the California Assn of Secondary School Administrators has been in operation for three years. Up to now, 207 of the state's 589 high schools have been visited by five-man teams of teachers, administrators and college professors.

Lindsay admitted that the program had "bogged down" somewhat during the current year, but he predicted an upturn next year in the number of schools applying for accreditation.

"I think it inevitable that unless the high schools cooperate, the Legislature will impose some compulsory accreditation," he said. "It's going to be essential that the public know where their schools are falling down and where they're doing well."

Lindsay said that academic shortcomings seemed to fall within these categories:

LIBRARIES: "Our best students aren't being trained to use the school library—something which they'll have to do in college.

"Libraries are not acquiring always the new books they need to keep abreast. Teachers have not stood on their hind legs and yelled about it."

LABORATORIES: "In all too many instances there's not enough time in a class period for laboratory work in the sciences. By the time you get the apparatus set up, there's no time for experimentation.

"Provision ought to made for students to use laboratories before and after school, or possibly on Saturdays as they do with the laboratories at Lowell and Mission High Schools in San Francisco."

LANGUAGES: "There is a shortage of classes in senior high school for students who have begun accelerated foreign language studies in grade school or junior high It's going to take the college and high school teachers working together to decide on a smooth program."

Lindsay said a teachers' conference has been scheduled June 20-30 in Santa Barbara to outline a six-year program of foreign language instruction, beginning in the seventh grade.

The accreditation survey shows "every cause for optimism about California high schools," Lindsay said, especially in these areas:

HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY: "High schools are trying as never before to teach up-to-date courses. They're realizing that our youngsters need to know more about the underdeveloped nations. World history and geography are getting revamped now in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland — and very soon, in Contra Costa County."

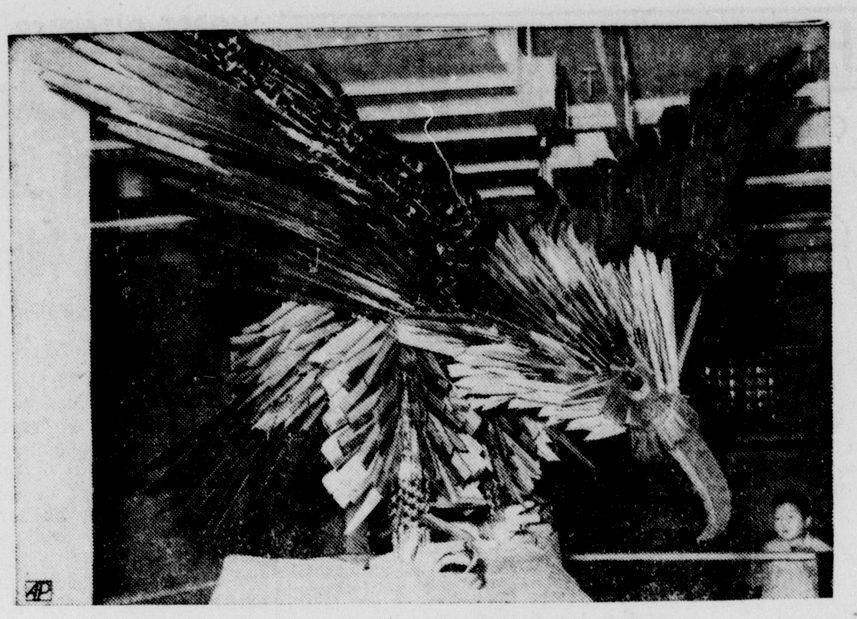
MATHEMATICS: "There are two big changes The first was developed at the University of Illinois and is being tried out now in Palo Alto, Santa Barbara and Berkeley. The emphasis is on finding the pattern behind the set of figures in algebra, say, or geometry—not on memorization.

"The second method came from Yale University and is being used widely in Santa Clara County. Briefly, it groups together solid and plane geometry and tends to de-emphasize trigonometry in favor of probability, and statistics in a mild way."

PHYSICS: "A new approach developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology offers less dissection of gas engines and steam engines and more emphasis on basic principles. Two of our teachers trained in this course at MIT from San Diego County, are going to teach the course to 30 other teachers this summer, so the idea will spread."

"DATING" COURSES: "The 'dating' courses are becoming less frequent—and I hope they become even less so. Social living is an objective to be achieved in the schools, but not something to be formerly taught."

PARENTS: "More parents than ever before are concerned about what the schools are doing. Ten years ago, teachers would talk till they were blue in the face, and still they could not persuade parents to have their youngsters sign up for algebra."



THIS EAGLE'S A SHARP BIRD

This "steel eagle" probably produced many a bloody finger prior to its completion for a Tokyo department store display. The bird, which took a week to make, is composed of hardware: Saws, knives, sickles and a hatchet beak.

Tidelot Filling Meets Protest

One objection has been filed against proposed dredging and filling of tidelots in Richardson Bay by Tom E. Nowell, 360 Pine Hill road, Mill Valley.

George Kappas, San Francisco, who owns adjacent property, has sent an objection to the Army Corps of Engineers in San Francisco, saying the proposed work would infringe on his property.

An Engineers' officer reported the corps would attempt to settle the matter through mediation.

The property is located toward the bay from the Northwestern Pacific tracks and immediately east of the Highway 101 bridge across the bay.

Dr. Josiah Bartlett, a physician, was first governor of the state of New Hampshire, taking office in 1792.
